PRESIDENT WILL ASK U.S. BACKING ON FARM BONDS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—While the administration was preparing today to raise 10 billion dollars in the next six months by bond sales or by inflation President Roosevelt initiated a new move which will increase the potential cost of his recovery program 2 billion, possibly 4 billion, dollars.

The President intends to ask congress next week for legislation providing government guarantee of payment of the principal of the 2 billions of federal farm land bank bonds authorized last spring for farm mortgage refinancing. Under the terms of the present act the government guarantees payment of the interest on the bonds.

Mr. Roosevelt is also studying the advisability of asking for a similar government guarantee of the payment of the principal of the 2 billions of Home Owners Loan corporation bonds, payment of the interest on which is already guaranteed.

Deemed Moral Obligation.

The President is taking this action because he believes the bonds even now are a moral obligation of the government under the existing law which provides a government guarantee for interest only. He points to a court decision on some defaulted bonds issued by a New York state authority in which the court held that the bonds were a moral obligation on the legislature even though there was no state guarantee.

A second reason for broadening the guarantee to cover principal also, the President explained, is to enable the farm mortgage refinancing program to pay its own way. The 2 billions in bonds were to be exchanged at par for farm mortgages now held by individuals who found it necessary to foreclose or take similar action.

These exchanges have not been possible because the mortgage holders have been unwilling to accept the bonds at par. The Farm Credit Administration, therefore, has had to sell its bonds to the RFC and take government cash with which to complete its refinancing of mortgages.

Would Raise Them to Par.

With a complete government guarantee behind the bonds, the President feels, persons will be willing to accept them at par since, like any other government obligation, they will be good for a full face value loan at the bank.

Whether the additional four billions of farm and home mortgage bonds are a legitimate addition to the public debt, the President regards a legal question on which there has been no decision.

If the four billions are added to the debt, it will reach a peak of 36 billions in 1935 instead of the 32 billion dollar peak mentioned yesterday by the President in his budget message.

The mechanism for the issuance of government guaranteed farm bonds will be a subsidiary corporation in the Farm Credit Administration to take up the old bonds and issue new ones. All of the interest guaranteed farm bonds issued by the Farm Credit Administration since last summer are owned by the RFC, which will turn them back.

Confident of Financing.

Mr. Roosevelt is confident that the 10 billion dollars required to finance the deficit in the current fiscal year and refinance maturing government obligations can be raised by sale of government bonds in the usual manner. He believes that his program for terminating the vast recovery expenditures on July 1, 1935, and proceeding then to balance the budget and reduce the debt has made government credit stronger than ever and made it possible to market long term bonds at low interest rates.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said that the first bond offering will be made this month. He would not disclose the contemplated amount, but the assumption is that it will not be less than one billion dollars.

Whether long or short term securities will be offered and the interest rate will be determined by market conditions at the time. There was a heavy oversubscription of the recent billion dollar issue of one year certificates of indebtedness at 2¼ per cent.

Plans No Selling Drives.

Mr. Morgenthau thought it would be unnecessary to organize any drives to sell the bonds, like those which put

LIQUOR REVENUE BILL PASSED BY HOUSE, 388 TO 5

Home Rule Safe

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—House passage of the 470 million dollar national liquor tax bill today started the legislative ball rolling in the new congress.

Carrying the federal levies through which the government intends to reap revenues from legal liquor, the bill slipped easily through the lower body to final approval by a vote of 388 to 5. Not one of more than a score of proposed amendments altering the tax rates was accepted by the house and the measure, as finally passed, carried the same rates originally recommended by the ways and means committee.

Opposed to the bill on the final roll call were one Democrat, Representative John H. Hoeppel of California and four Republicans, Representatives Leo E. Allen of Illinois and George W. Edmonds, George F. Brumm and Louis T. McFadden, all of Pennsylvania. Representative Harold Knutson [Rep., Minn.] voted present.

Motion to Recommit Lost.

On a motion to recommit the measure, offered by Representative Knutson just prior to the final vote, the count was 103 to 287. The roll call showed 93 Republicans, 6 Democrats and 4 Farmer-Laborites in favor of sending the bill back to committee, and 275 Democrats, 11 Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite in favor of letting it go through.

A rigid requirement that all bottled liquor sold at retail must carry a federal stamp showing the government tax to have been paid and indicating the quantity and quality of the contents was written into the bill by the ways and means committee at the instance of the treasury department just prior to the final vote.

Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], committee chairman, told the house the treasury department stamp recommendation had for its purpose the protection of both the treasury and the consumer.

Stamps to Show Quality.

"These stamps," he declared, "will show the product in the bottle is legal and that the tax has been paid. Under regulations to be issued by the bureau of internal revenue the stamps are to show in addition whether the whisky is blended and just how much the bottle actually contains."

The stamps will be purchased by liquor distributors at a cost of one cent each from collectors of customs and various other federal officials throughout the country. Heavy penalties are imposed for the sale of bottled liquor without a stamp affixed.

As approved by the house today the liquor revenue bill provides a tax of $2 per gallon on distilled spirits, from which the ways and means committee expects some 300 millions a year in revenue; a tax of five dollars a barrel on beer, from which 160 millions is expected; and a tax of from ten to forty cents on wine, estimated to bring in ten millions a year.

Import Revenue Added.

To the aggregate 470 millions in revenue looked for from these domestic excise taxes the committee expects 75 millions a year from the present import duties on foreign liquors and wines, bringing the total estimated revenue from liquor to 545 million dollars a year.

Most of the amendments offered today sought either to raise or lower the tax rates written into the bill by the ways and means committee. Representative John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.] demanded a tax of $4 a gallon on distilled spirits. He charged the distillers are reaping enormous profits at the present time and declared the government should participate.

Mr. O'Connor's amendment, however, was defeated by a voice vote. Two other amendments dealing with the labeling of whisky, which he offered a few moments later, were also knocked down.

On the other extreme from the New Yorker, Representative Everett Dirksen [Rep., Ill.] sought an amendment setting the whisky tax at $1.50. But his amendment was rejected, 39 to 143.

Efforts to lower the beer tax to as little as $2 a barrel also failed.

"GO AROUND TO THE BACK DOOR!"

U. S. Recalls Agent Sent to Return Insull

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Jan. 5.—Something of a mystery developed in the case of Samuel Insull today. The American government, acting with unexpected suddenness, dispatched a cable ordering United States Assistant Attorney General Forrest Harness to return home immediately.

Harness has been sitting idle in Athens since the Greek court decided against Insull's extradition at the end of October. Now, after the fugitive Chicago utilities man has been ordered to leave the country by Jan. 31, and within a fortnight of the public hearing on Jan. 19 of the old man's appeal to the council of state, the department of justice has decided to withdraw its representative from Europe.

Mystery in the Action.

The cable arrived at noon. The action is put down to two possibilities. There is some question in Athens whether the aged fugitive has secretly made a deal with the United States authorities to go back to face the Chicago charges voluntarily if there is no suggestion that he is under arrest. Harness carries a warrant naming Insull, signed by President Roosevelt, and even if Harness and Insull returned as free passengers on the same boat there might be a suggestion that Insull was under duress.

There is no information here to support such a theory, however, and another more probable one is suggested.

If Insull is forced to leave the country to seek refuge elsewhere, fresh action will be necessary for his extradition. Harness knows as much about the case as anybody. The papers would have to be prepared in Washington and Harness, who wrote the federal indictment under which Insull is charged, would be virtually indispensible at proceedings were started in any other country Insull might choose as a haven.

Threatens Insull with Force.

The belief that Insull will be forced to leave the country was reinforced today by John Moundjourides, Greek minister of the interior. Moundjourides said the council of state had asked for documents in the case, but that he had refused to surrender them.

"If Insull does not go willingly by Jan. 31," Moundjourides said, "we will be compelled to put him out by force. The council cannot intervene, for the government reserves the right to expel any alien. If necessary Insull will be physically ejected."

KELLY PROMISES TO KEEP HYDE PARK DRY ZONE

That part of Hyde Park which was dry by local option when it was annexed to the city in 1889 will be kept as dry as it was originally, Mayor Kelly promised yesterday.

The question was raised by the appearance before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan of 22 saloon owners operating in the old village area. Six of them were declared exempt from dry enforcement. While no action was taken against the sixteen others, it was suggested that their only hope of relief would be in injunction proceedings.

The six exempt saloon owners were represented by Michael L. Igoe, south side Democratic leader. They are operating in Lake Park avenue between 54th place and 56th street, and along a stretch in 55th street extending 155 feet west of Lake Park avenue. This section of Hyde Park has always been legally wet, Judge Hartigan was told.

After the court session Igoe and Ald. James Cusack of the 5th ward met Mayor Kelly. It was agreed, according to Igoe, that Hyde Park's original status would be honored.

She died without regaining consciousness in the Garfield Park hospital.

Robbers Raid Home; Battle Police Squads

A policeman was beaten unconscious and a robber was captured in a sensational robbery and running gun fight on the southwest side early this morning. The victims of the holdup were Stanley Bartecki, 2858 West 55th street, a druggist, and his wife, Sylvia, who, with their small child, were terrorized by the gunmen. The policeman beaten was William Hoff and the outlaw nabbed was Harry Brown.

Bartecki drove home shortly after 1 a. m. He noticed two cars in front of his house, one containing three men and the other one man. The three men in the one machine seized him and compelled him to lead them into his home. There they terrorized Mrs. Bartecki and the youngster, took $350 from Bartecki and a diamond ring valued at $900 from her.

Screams Bring Policeman.

This done, two of the robbers proceeded to the Bartecki basement and began removing twenty cases of medicinal whisky valued at $1,400. Meanwhile Mrs. Bartecki was screaming for help. Her cries attracted Policeman Hoff in his home at 2856 West 55th street, next door.

Dressing himself hastily, Policeman Hoff ran outside and started into the Bartecki home. Suddenly some one struck him on the head with a blackjack, knocking him unconscious. This attack was witnessed by Hoff's wife from her bedroom window. She immediately called Police 1313 and the Deering street station to which her husband is attached. The alarm was put on the radio.

Escapes Volley of Bullets.

Two squads reached the scene in short time. One of the robbers jumped into a sedan, where the twenty cases of whisky had already been loaded, and started away. A dozen shots riddled his car, but he got away. Two other bandits ran away on foot, exchanging shots with the detectives. The fourth man jumped into the robbers' other car as Sergt. James Dunn fired five shots at him. He leaped out again and ran on foot and was pursued to 57th street and California avenue, where he was seized by Sergt. Tom Featherstone.

The captured man was Brown. He said he was 27 years old, lived at 833 South Washtenaw avenue, and admitted having a record. He was once tried for murder. He was carrying a loaded gun.

8 French Cops Injured as 1,000 Jobless Riot

Pigs Are Pigs and First Rate Scotch Is Rare

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—There is a certain class of American gentlemen who will be saddened by today's principal news from Washington. These persons are those with a liking for Scotch whisky and soda.

The sad news—it has to do with this.

You see, the British people eat a certain amount of pork in a year and they buy it in chief from Denmark. At least they buy 65 per cent of it from the Danes. The American pigs are good pigs, too, as the British freely concede, but they buy only 6 per cent of their annual supply from the United States.

The United States cannot understand why England and Scotland should not buy at least as many pigs from this country as they do from Denmark.

Diplomats Swap Words.

So the American state department, with the proper quota of diplomatic salutations, had up with Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, the question of why do England and Scotland not buy more American pigs?

There followed weighty consideration of the problem by the envoy and communications with his government, and at length Sir Ronald, with fine expansiveness, notified the acting secretary of state, Mr. William Phillips, that he was happy to report a great concession on the part of his majesty's government.

The British, it appeared, would increase by a full quarter measure their purchases of pork from the United States. A generous concession, indeed, Sir Ronald implied, but upon inspection it appeared that the British, instead of buying 6 per cent of their hogs in this country, proposed to buy 7½ per cent.

Pretty Nice, Eh What?

Fancy that, you drinkers of Scotch! That increase of 1½ per cent might mean that one out of every 23 families in London might have to serve pork on Thursday night instead of mutton!

But this noble concession did not appeal to the American state department, and—O, yes, the bad news.

Well, to put it bluntly, the American state department has notified Sir Ronald that no more Scotch whiskies will be received by the United States, no more Highland Cream, no more Dewar's, no more Black and White!

Under the first quotas for the importation of liquors into the United States, after the passing of prohibition, Great Britain was allowed 607,000 gallons. And that volume has already entered upon this country.

14 Years of Suspicion.

Cultivated gentlemen with the taste for Scotch have been indulging themselves, with gentlemanly moderation, of course, and they have reveled in sips of the true products. For 14 years they had been forced to imbibe with suspicion and caution, fearful that the nicely labeled bottles may have been filled in Morris Eller's ward on the west side of Chicago, or in the lower east side of Manhattan.

Having won the privilege of buying real Scotch, the gentlemen are now up against the patriotic duty of supporting Uncle Sam in a bit of Yankee trading. There are whispers in Washington that the dry farmers of Iowa will find it hard, even if England gives in and takes more sows per year, to send their litters over with the certain knowledge that they are coming back as bottles of Scotch. But even a dry farmer is anxious to sell hogs these days.

Apple of the Drys.

After all, aren't the apples of Bishop Cannon and Senator Byrd going to France to come back as champagne? And, by the way, the French, who won additional wine quotas by agreeing to buy apples, may not hold that privilege overlong.

The house of representatives, debating on the liquor tax bill today, had an argument over a proposal that France should be taxed three times as much for liquor imports because of France's failure to pay its war debt to the United States. Representative Harold Knutson [Rep., Minn.], who introduced the amendment, was irate against France and orated:

"France has thumbed her nose at us on the debts she owes, and has told us to go to hell. She deserves no consideration from the United States on wine imports."

The Knutson amendment was finally voted down, 75 to 136, but the heat of the argument convinced many that champagne drinkers may soon enter the patriotic ranks of the gentlemen who prefer Scotch.

Rockford Has All Bills Paid and Funds in Bank

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 5.—(AP)—All bills paid and a balance of $128,480 in the Rockford city treasury, was the report of municipal officers today for the year 1933. Mayor C. Henry Bloom said that stringent economy had made possible the favorable showing despite severe financial stress.

FIRST VIOLENCE REPORTED; HALT CITY SUPPLIES

Wisconsin Farmers Dump 3 Trucks.

BULLETIN.

The first violence growing out of the Chicago milk strike occurred about midnight near Salem, Wis. A group of 35 pickets halted a truckload of cream and two truckloads of milk destined for the Meadowmoor dairy in Chicago in route 83 and dumped the whole consignment. The shipment had started from a dairy plant in Lyons, Wis. Sheriff Clarence Erickson of Kenosha county ordered deputies to the scene and others were ordered to patrol the roads and prevent additional trouble.

A strike which will deprive Chicago and the suburbs of the milk usually delivered by 18,000 farmer members of the Pure Milk association was voted yesterday afternoon by 350 delegates, representing all the association locals, at a meeting in the Auditorium hotel. Withholding of supplies is to begin this morning.

Chicago's milk supply, however, will probably not be seriously affected until Monday morning. After that, an investigation last night disclosed, the seriousness of the situation will depend on the effectiveness with which the farmers enforce their embargo.

Plan New Supply Sources.

If the striking farmers cling to a nonviolent policy, as officially proclaimed, merely keeping their milk on their farms, new supply sources can quickly be established. It was indicated, which will keep an adequate emergency supply flowing into the city. If shipments of milk from these additional sources are hampered, Chicago may soon feel the pinch severely.

Whatever the circumstances or duration of the strike, hospitals, infirmaries, orphanages and institutions of similar character will be kept supplied with milk, both sides in the controversy agreed. Arrangements will also be worked out to provide for infants, officials promised.

Explain Objects of Strike.

The objects of the strike, as explained by PMA officials, are threefold:

1. To drive out of business cut rate dairy companies, designated as "chiselers" by the farm leaders. These companies buy milk from unorganized farmers.

2. To prevent participation, by companies buying supplies from the association, in a price war that would drive down farmers' returns for milk.

3. To force the administration in Washington to step in and make a renewed effort to carry out its promises made to producers and allied distributors when a milk marketing code was signed last August. This code was abandoned Jan. 1.

Protest Against Price Cut.

More specifically, the organized PMA farmers, who supply about 90 per cent of the fluid milk consumed in the Chicago and suburban area, are protesting against a proposed reduction of 70 cents a hundred pounds for their milk. This proposal was made by the dealers who buy from the association membership.

The present price paid members is $2.10 a hundred for milk sold to consumers as whole fluid and $1.45 a hundred for that consumed as cream. The combined or blended price in December was $1.91 a hundred. Thus the proposed cut would reduce the farmers' return more than 35 per cent.

Demanding "Fair Play."

"What we are demanding," said Don N. Geyer, general manager of the Pure Milk association, "is fair play. We are not trying to soak the consumer. The federal government is pledged to increase the returns to farmers and our agreement was based on a belief that the prices set were fair.

"But the chiseler companies have seeped in. They defied the government and got away with it. Our membership has given these chiselers every chance. We have called them in to conference. Pay the farmer the $2.10 and $1.45 price and distribute at any price you like, we said to them.

Refuse to Cooperate.

"They refused to do that. They would not go along with any proposition. Their intention is to continue paying their sources ruinous prices—a third to a half what the agreement called for. These chiselers have been telling the government they wanted to see farmers get a fair price, represented themselves as legitimate business. We shall see that they make good.

"No violence is wanted in this strike and none is expected. Our members will keep their milk on the farms. We believe we can convince nonassociation members that it is to their interest to support us and bring all distributing agencies into line."

Following the vote to strike, which was said to be unanimous, a committee from the PMA joined representatives of the big distributors in a conference at the La Salle hotel. There formal notice of the strike was given. At the close of the meeting Dr. F. D. Walmsley, spokesman for the milk dealers, said the announcement was a surprise.

"Nothing was done by the dealers to bring on this strike," he said. "We have been conducting negotiations with both the farmers and our union labor, looking to a reduction in the consumer price of milk. While these negotiations are in progress we are paying both groups the scales provided in the old agreement."

Seek Wallace's Views.

The Pure Milk association sent to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace a telegram requesting that he notify the farmers and the Chicago public of his views on what would be fair prices for the farmers to receive, and also what retail prices the consumers should pay. Such a pronouncement from Washington, it was held, would aid greatly in straightening out misconceptions as to where the consumer's 11 cent a quart now goes.

Also, it was said b. association leaders, the secretary is better prepared than any one else to tell the public the actualities of the price situation, as government auditors recently completed an audit of the books of the large distributing companies.

The assertion by Geyer that no violence is expected was confronted with reports that direct action to prevent the shipping of supplies might be taken by PMA members in McHenry county, Ill., and in Walworth county, Wis., both sources of large supplies of independent milk.

At Woodstock last night 150 PMA men met, voted full coöperation in the strike and pledged themselves to halt all shipments. It was also reported that men were assigned especially to the task of stopping independent milk trucks at McHenry and Union.

Order State Police Patrols.

Sergt. Arthur Stanton of the state highway police in the Chicago district, ordered twenty-five men to start patrolling the main highways in Lake, McHenry, Boone, DuPage, Kane, Kendall and DeKalb counties at 5 o'clock this morning. He took this action at the request of the Bowman and Borden dairy interests who informed him that they expected trouble, he said.

"I was also informed by Charles Wray of Grays Lake, a director of the Pure Milk association, that a most determined effort was to be made to stop milk from going through to Chicago," declared Sergt. Stanton.

Chief William Collins of the Cook county highway police notified his men to be on the watch for any trouble. Sheriff Meyering said that, if necessary, the ninety highway police could be augmented by 100 deputy sheriffs in his office. Escorts will be provided for trucks where needed, he announced.

What Dr. Bundesen Will Do.

Both sides centered their attention upon action by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, who as president of the Chicago board of health controls the inspection of milk which may be delivered in the city. It is illegal to bring milk for sale into Chicago from outside the area under regular inspection by the health officials.

If Dr. Bundesen should rule, for example, that milk from the Milwaukee area could be sold in Chicago without further inspection than that already given by the Milwaukee authorities a severe blow would be struck at the strikers, it was pointed out.

"We never have agreed to a lowering of our standard of milk inspection," said Dr. Bundesen. "I must wait until Saturday to see what develops. Of course, we will see that milk is provided for hospitals, invalids, and so forth. I have assured the mayor that the health department will safeguard the milk delivered to Chicagoans."

The independent dealers, who do not deal with the Pure Milk association, announced confidently that they would continue to supply milk to Chicago.

Condensed Milk Available.

Charles Dillon, representing the Evaporated Milk association, announced that there was an "abnormally large" stock of canned evaporated milk in Chicago which could be used to help out in the event of a severe whole milk shortage.

WAR WAGED FOR MONTHS

The calling of the farmers' strike brings to a head the warfare that has been waged by the vast array of conflicting interests in the Chicago milk market for months. All these interests are in a stern fight for economic life and the measures taken thus far toward maintaining prices and comprising opposing views have proven futile.

Great hopes were held out last summer, when the federal government declared in effect a code for the whole market. In early November a new price scale was announced, providing that the $2.10 and $1.45 rates should be paid farmers and that the consumers should pay 11 cents a quart, a raise of 1 cent from the price prevailing since May 15, when the code was first applied for.

Code Provides for Licensing.

There were other provisions in the code. One was that no one should be allowed to sell milk in Chicago and the suburban area at less than the code price, whether from a milk wagon or through a store or stand. Dealers were all to be licensed and those who failed to keep the artificial price to the prescribed level would be arrested, fined, and put out of business under a licensing arrangement.

That experiment was, if not disastrous, at least unsuccessful. About 110 independent dealers, scoffing at the power of government to state that no milk could be sold at less than the code price, defied the secretary of agriculture and continued to sell milk at prices lower than those charged by the large distributors, who, with the Pure Milk association, signed the code.

Some attempts at enforcement were made. They proved abortive. The independents continued to sell their milk at 8 and even at 7 cents a quart. They sold it through stores and at roadside stands, and because the cost of delivery by the large companies employing union labor was 3½ or 4 cents a quart they were able to continue in business.

On Dec. 20 Secretary Wallace announced that the marketing agreement was void, beginning Jan. 1. His explanation was that the Pure Milk association requested this. Actually, it was believed in well informed circles that he realized the code was unenforceable and that many of its provisions were unfair and wished to get out of a situation that could not be handled.

Since New Year's day there have been no contracts existent between the three principal groups involved in the milk business—the organized farmers, the distributors and the union milk wagon drivers. Conditions have been entirely chaotic. On the ruins of the collapsed structure of government price fixing the groups are now endeavoring to build by individual effort and under the rule only of the "survival of the fittest" a new system that will accomplish their purposes.

What the Drivers Want.

The purpose of the union drivers is to keep their jobs and their pay rates. That of the farmers is to keep good prices and at the same time maintain a large market. As for the distributing dealers, their position is varied.

There are four principal groups. One is composed of three big companies, Bowman, Borden's, and Wieland. The second is composed of a dozen or more smaller companies which have been under the code and paying farmers the full agreed price. The third is composed of independent companies which pay the full price, but have been under no agreements. The fourth is formed of the cut-rate independents, the "chiselers" of Mr. Geyer's statement.

Group No. 1 markets about 70 per cent of the retail milk of the area. The smaller companies under the code furnish about 20 per cent. The third and fourth groups together have about 10 per cent of the business, but are increasing the percentage. The Big Three companies are trying to halt this drift—that is why they are trying to lower consumer prices.

Radical Element in Revolt.

Trouble has been brewing not only among the different groups, but also within their own ranks. The milk wagon drivers' union has a radical element in the membership. This element broke into revolt against its old, experienced officers a few days ago when the distributing companies suggested that they accept a $10 cut in a $40 weekly scale. They shouted down all proposals for a cut.

The officials, including Robert G. Fitchie, president, and Steve Sumner, 84 years old, the treasurer, may have seen the writing on the wall to the effect that union labor would have to take a cut. But they have agreed with their men to fight for retention of the old scale. Yesterday they said they were opposed to any pay slash.

But the biggest dairies also have seen signs of the times. It is known that they went to both their union labor and their supplying farmers with a proposition. It was:

"Let us cut the price of milk delivered to the consumer's door to 9 cents a quart. Let the drivers accept an $8 cut, or 4-5 of a cent a quart. Let the farmers take a cut that amounts to about 1 cent a quart."

Farmers and Drivers Refuse.

A part of this program also contemplated the selling of Big Three milk through chain stores at 8 cents a quart. This was not satisfactory to the drivers. The entire proposition for a deep slash in their returns irritated the farmers. And on the chain store sales a schism developed in the ranks of the dealers.

This grew to such a point that F. H. Kullman, vice president of the Bowman Dairy company and the dominant personality in milk distribution in Chicago for a quarter of a century, was displaced as chief negotiator for the dealers a few days ago. The smaller companies which have been under the code obtained support, it was said, from the Wanzer company and John Laue, president of the United Dairy company, was elected in Kullman's place. Wanser heretofore had been ranked with the Big Three.

The smaller dealers, it was reported, threatened that if the big companies made a chain store 8 cent price they would sell from their wagons at the same rate.

As for the farmers, with their markets no longer protected by any agreements, they saw no hope of artificial prices under the prospects of a price cutting war and took the first step. Observers believe that if they had not gone out the wagon drivers would have done so rather than accept a wage reduction.

Conferences Are Failure.

There have been many meetings in the last week or two in efforts at compromise. But the interests were too varied, too widely separated, for these to bear fruit. Always the suggestions made failed to satisfy. They even failed to take care of the great supplies of milk that are in the milkshed.

The last straw was laid on their backs, as the PMA members view it, Thursday night when they met with the representatives of the cut rate companies. These companies were asked by the farmers' negotiators to name a price they were willing to pay farmers. One company, the Lakeview, which had been classed as cut rate, announced it would pay whatever the standard price was.

Other Dairies Decline.

On the other hand, Meadowmoor and Edgewater declined to make any agreements. Other cut rate firms followed this lead. Meadowmoor employs union wagon drivers, but not from the regular union. The other concerns sell to peddlers or have non-union workers. Also, all have important advantages in buying supplies from farmers who will sell cheaply. Therefore their position was that they could not afford to stay in business if they signed away any part of their freedom.

In summary, the whole milk business in the Chicago area has run into the age old laws of supply and demand. Efforts to keep down competition are failing. The Pure Milk association is taking its strike stand in an effort to unite all the elements involved and restore some system that will guarantee a price to farmers better than that which would prevail under a strictly competitive régime.

Urged to Put Speed Behind Senate

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5.—[Special.] — Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], majority whip of the senate, lunched with President Roosevelt today at the executive office. Being asked by reporters afterward to enlarge upon the affairs of state they considered, Senator Lewis with a preliminary parting of his graying pink whiskers delivered himself thus:

"The subjects the President proposed to me for action upon were addressed to me as whip of the senate majority rather than as senator for Illinois. The President and I discussed in a general way the speaking tour I have just concluded through the several states in behalf of the principles of the administration now being put in effect for the government. The President pressed on me the object he has of the senators giving as much time as they can to quick consideration of the new measures now put before congress. He hoped I would be able to persuade the senators as their whip to be present constantly in order to pass promptly the bills the people are expecting as a part of the program put forward by the President.

"The President made it clear that while he would not hinder full debate, he hopes that no more time shall be taken on speeches than necessary to clarify the measures. The President hopes the congress can finish the present session and get away by the middle of May at the latest. For myself, I think I see us here until July. I must say that it appears to me that the President feels that the nation suspects or fears congress when it begins to do unnecessary talking. The whole text was diligence and devotion—an early conclusion by congress. He has faith they all feel as he does. I shall communicate his views as given to me."

SENATOR LEWIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Washington has lost its battle to recover the 15 billion dollars loaned to the allies to successfully prosecute their war against Germany, and its defeat is now recorded in black and white.

This is the conclusion drawn today by the Paris press, as well as some officials, from the fact that for the first time since the money was loaned, revenue from war debts did not figure in the United States budget which was transmitted by President Roosevelt to congress yesterday.

Thus, it is figured here, another step forward has been taken in that process of general repudiation of the war indebtedness which was begun in July, 1932, when the German reparations were practically canceled. At that time the former allies, France, England, and Italy, made a gentleman's agreement among themselves that this cancellation would be conditioned on the United States in turn cancelling the war debts owed it by the allies.

This process, it is figured here, has now matured. It has taken just about 18 months to get it written into the American budget. Of course, it is expected here that there still will be much international debate before the debts are formally and officially canceled, but it is as good as done in the eyes of the French.

SCHOOL BOARD DISPUTE WITH CWA IS SETTLED

Disagreement on Buying of Materials.

A brief disagreement between the school board and the civil works administration over the method of purchasing materials was untangled late yesterday after a flurry of unfounded reports. Frank D. Chase, head of the CWA in Illinois, issued a statement which said that certain practices of the school board architect had not been approved by his organization. He refused to comment further.

John C. Christensen, architect for the school board, readily confirmed Mr. Chase's statement and explained the situation.

"When the CWA was organized in December," said Mr. Christensen, "its officials told us to get the men off the relief rolls and to work immediately. The workmen were sent to the schools and were standing around without anything to work with.

Told to Buy Materials.

"The CWA had no purchasing department and no rules and regulations regarding materials. I called in 27 contractors, the leading ones in the city, and told them to purchase paints and other materials at the prevailing prices from Chicago manufacturers."

Subsequently, the CWA departments were organized and the announcement went out that the federal government would pay half the bill for materials on projects as well as for all the labor.

"Three weeks ago CWA officials decided to take the bids on materials," said Mr. Christensen. "I prepared the specifications for them and now have called for the invoices on material already purchased by the board. These bills will certainly not be any higher than those that will be incurred by government purchases."

In addition to bids on supplies, the CWA has now asked that bids be taken on the renting of equipment, Mr. Christensen disclosed. Instead of purchasing new equipment, such as scaffolding and ladders, that would be useless to the school system after the CWA and its emergency program had ended, the renting plan was put into effect. Any other plan, Christensen said, would have resulted in a heavy cost to the board.

May Pay in Warrants.

The architect pointed out that the board probably would be forced to offer tax anticipation warrants in payment of bills, inasmuch as all available cash was used for the Christmas pay day for teachers. Since the warrants are selling at a 10 per cent discount the board's share of the materials' cost may be higher than that of the government's, with its cash payments in easy money.

Mr. Christensen estimated the amount already expended by the board for materials and equipment at $50,000 on the basis of the painting and renovating jobs in progress at 187 of Chicago's schools. This estimate was included in Mr. Chase's statement. When Mr. Chase was asked to amplify this point he again refused to comment.

The Chase statement pointed out in conclusion, however, that all men who were pulled off the jobs when materials were exhausted on Thursday would be back again on Monday with ample supplies.

The fifty-seven registration stations where applications for CWA jobs have been filed throughout the city will be ing until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. ing until 5 o'cloc kin the afternoon. Applications will be taken, complaints will be handled, and information offered.

Changes in the personnel of CWA bureaus and affiliated organizations were announced. R. C. Jacobson resigned as director of the national reemployment service in Illinois to become head of the Chicago regional labor board. Dr. John A. Lapp, who held the latter post, was made chairman of the coal labor board and J. W. Bergthold replaced Mr. Jacobson.

TEACHERS FIGHT NEW YORK PLAN TO REDUCE PAY

New York, Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Members of various teachers' organizations, aroused over the La Guardia bill providing a payless month's furlough for city employés, attacked the mayor today for breaking his campaign pledges against salary reductions.

The teachers are seeking the cooperation of the Uniformed Firemens' association and the Patrolmen's Benevolent association in their protest. All three groups of city employés have their salaries protected by mandatory state legislation. The mayor's bill seeks to reduce their salaries by 8 1-3 per cent through the one month furlough without pay.

IN PAY LITIGATION

MARIO POLLASTRINI.

Judge George Fred Rush of the Circuit court yesterday gave President Emmett Whealan of the county board and other county officials five days in which to answer a petition filed Thursday, asking that they be held in contempt of court for failure to obey a state Supreme court order to pay county employés for their two weeks' payless vacation in 1931. The others named in the rule to show cause are County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer and County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough.

It is expected that the answer will set forth that the pay for this period must be appropriated in the 1934 budget and that it cannot be paid until the budget is passed. The employés will receive approximately $450,000 under the Supreme court mandate.

The case was started by Deputy Sheriff Mario Pollastrini through his attorney, Victor Frohlich, and passed from the Circuit court to the Appellate and then to the Supreme court.

JAILS WIDOW TILL SHE TELLS WHERE $30,000 WENT

Circuit Judge Hugo M. Friend yesterday sent Mrs. Daisy C. Tegtmeyer, 48 years old, a widow living at 6033 Vernon avenue, to the county jail for contempt of court. She must remain there until she accounts for $30,000 she is charged with having abstracted from a trust fund.

Mrs. Tegtmeyer and her husband, Edward, who died in 1924, were trustees of the estate of his father, Henry Tegtmeyer, a Des Moines real estate man, who died in 1912. Mrs. Tegtmeyer became sole trustee at her husband's death. Three years ago other heirs, including three other children of Henry Tegtmeyer, asked appointment of a receiver for the estate, charging that she had dissipated some of the assets and failed to account for the proceeds.

The National Builders' bank, appointed trustee, reported yesterday to Judge Friend that Mrs. Tegtmeyer had witheld from the estate $30,000 which she received from the sale of some real estate. Judge Friend asked her what she had done with it.

"I guess I spent some of it on the ponies," said Mrs. Tegtmeyer.

KIDNAP AND ROB PARK OFFICIAL AND HIS FAMILY

Louis H. Harrison, 545 Stratford place, member of the Lincoln park board; his wife, and their 10 year old daughter, Harriet Jane, were kidnaped last night by five bandits in front of their home. After they had been driven more than a mile by their captors Mr. Harrison was robbed of $65 and jewelery valued at $750. The trio were then released.

When the robbers approached the car of the park commissioner, in which he and his wife and child were returning home, they forced out the chauffeur, Joseph Smith. Four of the men stayed with the Harrisons while the fifth followed in another car. The commissioner's car was driven a roundabout course to Buckingham place and Halsted street, where the robbery was completed. All the holdup men then departed in their own car.

On the trip the little girl became frightened and began to weep. One of the robbers told her that she needn't worry, as he hoped it wouldn't be necessary to shoot either her father or mother.

over the Liberty loans. His optimism had been increased by the "very good" reaction of the stock and commodity markets to the resident's budget message.

Asked whether the recovery of government bonds after an initial decline following the submission of the budget had been the result of treasury support of the market the secretary said: "We didn't do anything abnormal." The treasury of late has been buying government bonds on the market, $11,950,000 last week and 33 millions the preceding fortnight.

The financing program calls for 6 billions to meet the expenses of the government until June 30 and 4 billions to refinance maturing obligations.

Maturities include $244,334,600 of 3 per cent treasury notes due May 2, $460,099,000 of ¾ per cent certificates of indebtedness due March 15, $174,905,500 of ¼ per cent certificates maturing June 15, $1,002,730,380 of treasury bills, all maturing by March 28, and about 1 billion dollars of outstanding 4¼ per cent Fourth Liberty bonds called for redemption on April 15, or a total of $2,881,969,480.

4 Billion Total Estimated.

Mr. Roosevelt estimated 4 billion dollars as the total of maturities, this covering additional treasury bills which must be issued and redeemed by June 30.

If the administration should be unable to raise 10 billions by ordinary sale of bonds, there are several devices to any or all of which it would resort, under the terms of the Thomas amendment. It could try to persuade the reserve banks to purchase treasury bills or other government obligations up to the 3 billion limit provided by the Thomas amendment. It could devalue the dollar and appropriate the increment in thev alue of the 3 billion 600 millions of gold in the reserve banks.

With the reserve bank gold and the gold in the treasury and coming in from hoarders, there would be an increment of value amount to four billions if the dollar were devalorized 50 per cent. Against this paper money could be issued to help finance the deficit.

No Interest Item in Budget.

The omission from the budget of any amount for interest on borrowings in this fiscal year is interpreted by some as indicating that the administration expects to meet the deficit by such inflationary devices.

There is increasing evidence that the administration favors adding silver to the metal reserve against paper money issues. Under the Thomas amendment the President can proceed to the free coinage of silver at any ratio to gold he ses fit to fix.

Another inflationary course to which the administration could resort is the issue of greenbacks up to 3 billions under the Thomas amendment.

KIDNAPER GETS 12 YEARS.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 5.—(AP)—George W. McDonald, former Colorado and Wyoming convict, this afternoon pleaded guilty to child stealing, as a result of the kidnaping of Robert Walsh, 11, from St. James' orphanage here, Tuesday, and was sentenced by District Judge James Fitzgerald to twelve years in the Nebraska penitentiary.

President Outlines Aims of "National Plan" Idea

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—The President in his conference with reporters this afternoon launched out on his favorite subject, which he calls "national planning."

Billions are now being scattered, somewhat hurriedly, in the recovery plan, but when the work of recovery is done, the President declared, he intends to come then to a definite and specific program of national planning aimed at bettering the lot of the people.

He said he would hate to call it a 25 year plan, or a 50 year plan, because, he said, that would sound too much like another country. He did not say it sounded like soviet Russia, with its 5 year plans, but it was clear that was what he meant.

Main Object Conservation.

But the Roosevelt national plan is not so much industrial as it is a dream of capturing natural resources of the country, power and timber, agriculture and navigation, providing for better usage of the great American heritage.

The President emphasized that this permanent national plan which he cherishes would be conducted with funds out of current revenues, although at a rough guess he estimated an annual sum of 500 millions might be spent for this purpose out of the federal treasury.

Present expenditures for the purposes outlined by the President are almost nil, except as recovery measures, it was pointed out, and the sum he mentioned would constitute almost 20 per cent of the present normal budget of operating expenses.

Mr. Roosevelt ventured into the subject when asked if he intended no outlays for public works after 1935.

Has Long Range Program.

Replying, he said he contemplated the long range national plan which would take in every part of the country, the various agricultural reaches, the forest lands, and the valleys of all the principal watersheds.

To a large extent, the President said, his plan would remake the economic and in major part the social features of the country.

The state and local governments would participate directly in the plan contemplated by the President and join in the expense of prosecuting it. He foresaw dams for power; prevention of soil erosion; conservation of timber lands and reforestation to replenish them; flood control and in general a more ordered utilization of land.

Dream of Norris Recalled.

Such a scheme has for years been the fond dream of Senator George Norris [Rad., Neb.], father of the Tennessee valley and Muscle Shoals projects. Mr. Norris has campaigned futilely for federal funds to create, as he saw it, an economic system by which there will be electric light in every farmer's home or shack, irrigation for fertile soils to produce abundant crops, and a general raising of the level of American mankind.

Mr. Norris' hopes have been discouraged by practical men who subscribed to his hopes, but found them visionary, unworkable, extravagant and expensive to a degree impossible of achievement under a political form of government.

FINDS U. S. LEADS WORLD IN PUTTING IDLE TO WORK

GENEVA, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The international labor office said officially today that the United States leads a worldwide improvement in the unemployment situation. The office issued a communique which declared:

"In the United States the rise in the employment index is very marked —73.5 in October, 1933, as compared with 59.6 in October, 1932."

The communique, which dealt with a comparison between the last quarters of 1933 and 1932 indicated a diminution of unemployment in the following nations: The United States, Canada, Chile, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, Australia, Belgium, Finland, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, Denmark, and the Irish Free State.

Ettelson Makes Charges of Collusion.

Samuel A. Ettelson, former corporation counsel, opened fire yesterday on the Middle West Utilities company, Insull super-holding concern, now in its 21st month of receivership.

Attorney Ettelson presented a petition to Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, charging that the receivership was collusive, demanding that the receiver and his attorneys be removed, and proposing that the $300,000 fees they have collected be returned for the benefit of creditors and stockholders.

Attached to the petition was a copy of the recent opinion of Appellate Judge Evan A. Evans in a parallel case, upholding Ettelson's charge of collusion in that instance and denying the receivers and attorneys any further fees, on the ground that they had been paid enough.

Receiver's Attorney Appears.

Yesterday's action took place in chambers, not in court. Learning that Mr. Ettelson had gone before Judge Lindley in an Insull matter, Attorney Bruce Johnstone of counsel for Receiver Charles A. McCulloch of Middle West Utilities stepped in to find out what it was about.

Attorney Johnstone on the previous day had filed a petition before the same judge, taking cognizance of Judge Evans' affirmation of collusion in the Insull Utility Investments case, and asking Judge Lindley to investigate the Middle West receivership to dispel any suspicion of collusion in that case. His petition was brought on behalf of Receiver McCulloch, who avowed that if the court believed him party to collusion he would resign.

Lawyers' Argument Heated.

With the two adversaries before Judge Lindley, a spat was on. Appraised of the charges Attorney Ettelson proposed to bring, Attorney Johnstone demanded that the action be held up because he had received no notification and hence was unprepared.

"You gave me no notice when you came in yesterday," shouted Mr. Ettelson. "I didn't even know Judge Lindley was in town—the Law Bulletin said nothing about it. As a matter of fact, Detective Tom McGuire has been prying around my office and tipped somebody off that I was coming in. Then you came in ahead of me."

"Object to that statement — no foundation," snapped Mr. Johnstone. "I knew nothing about your plans. If you were not notified of our petition, it was because you had no right to be. You are not a party of record in the Middle West case."

Judge Lindley Intervenes.

Judge Lindley intervened, striving to quell the wrath of the lawyers, but, at the same time, indicating that he, himself, was growing weary of the ramifications of the Insull case.

"I hope you don't blame the court for the detectives," the judge smiled at Ettelson. "I try to have notice of my visits here inserted in the Law Bulletin, but I have been becoming a little irregular. I have to come up about every week on these matters, which, goodness knows, I wish I had never heard of, or had any connection with, but I have got them and I have been coming up from Danville about once a week."

The question before the judge was whether Attorney Ettelson should have leave to file his petition. Attorney Johnstone said that so far as he was concerned it would be agreeable to hear a motion next Wednesday on leave to file the petition. Attorney Ettelson assented and the hearing was fixed for Wednesday.

Question Puzzling Lawyers.

With that settled, the question looming in the minds of all lawyers in the Insull case was who will decide the collusion issue in the Middle West case. Judge James H. Wilkerson, who had primary jurisdiction in the Insull Utility Investments case, resigned it to Judge Evans, with discouraging results for the lawyers involved. Judge Evans held that a receivership is a public office and that the salary of a judge or postmaster was the proper criterion on the question of fees.

There were rumors in the United States courthouse yesterday that Judge Lindley would resign the Middle West case to Judge Evans also. Questioned about these rumors, Judge Lindley said he had not decided what course to follow.

Beyond the issue of collusion in Middle West looms a question of vaster importance than a question of fees, according to some of the attorneys concerned. Robert N. Golding of counsel for the committee representing owners of $40,000,000 of Middle West notes has declared his group will oppose any receivership change, lest such an upset jeopardize the negotiations now in progress for a reorganization.

That Judge Lindley, himself, has been concerned about fees and the delay in reorganizing is shown in a letter which he wrote last Oct. 27 to Attorney Johnstone, questioning the allocation of $17,000 out of an $81,000 September income for fees and expenses of receivers and attorneys.

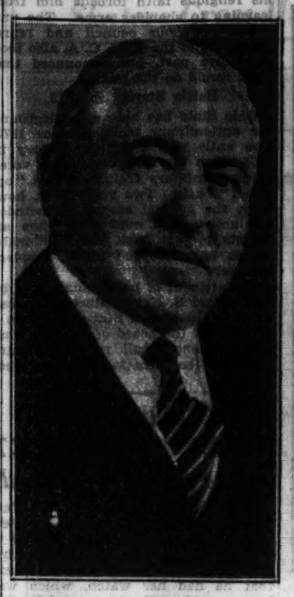
Judge Questions Fees.

"Frankly, this is not a good picture for a chancellor, especially in a time when there seems to be a growing conviction that executive salaries and expenses have been too great," the judge wrote. "To use $17,000 for fees and expenses of receivers and lawyers where there is an income of $80,000, all of which is paid out on other expenses, interest charges, and taxes, hardly seems justifiable.

"To justify our existence we must show that some ultimate benefit is to be derived from what we are doing. Can we do this? Is there any hope or possibility of any reorganization, and, if not, should we persist in what is apparently a vain operation and which may impress others as one purely for the benefit of individuals to draw salaries and fees?"

The judge concluded with a suggestion that the questions he raised be considered carefully by all concerned. It was out of this suggestion, apparently, that the reorganization plans now in progress were begun.

They Make Issue Out of Borrowed Bottle of Gin



REPRESENTATIVE SABATH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—The simple question, "Who carried the first bottle?" sent the house of representatives a-tingling today.

Two Illinois members, Britten and Sabath, were the principals, the former being an advocate of an embargo against French wines.

"You are an expert on French wines," Sabath told him with a reproachful air; "I don't want to talk with you."

"I want to ask the gentleman when he is going to pay back that bottle of gin he borrowed from me three years ago," Britten returned.

"I'll return it when it is legal. I don't want to carry it through the streets," he wavered.

"You don't want to carry it?" demanded Britten, with an incredulous tone. "Who carried the first bottle?"

The exchange stopped there.

Aircraft Smashes Into Pittsburgh Building.

His parachute caught on a telephone pole, 20 year old George Yeschke escaped apparently without serious injury. As the chute hung several feet above the ground he unharnessed himself, stepped on the roof of a truck and to the ground.

Although the ship fell on Baum boulevard, usually crowded with traffic, there were no pedestrians or automobiles in the immediate vicinity.

Fire in Cockpit.

As office workers and apartment dwellers looked on in horror it careened and slipped downward against a business building, narrowly missing several apartment houses.

Yeschke's own story was:

"I was up taking pictures of the clouds when fire started in the cockpit. I think the fire started in a battery I had along for lighting, as I expected to do some night flying.

"I was up about 5,000 feet when the fire started. I kept trying to put it out and was down to about 400 feet when I finally climbed out.

Mail Flyer Wins Over Storm.

New York, Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Dean W. Burford, air mail pilot for the Transcontinental Western Air lines, added another thrilling chapter to the saga of the night air lanes when he set his plane down safely at the Newark airport early today after being stormbound aloft for nearly five hours.

His plane loaded with a valuable assortment of mail, Burford took off from Newark at 12:03 a. m., with Pittsburgh as his first scheduled stop. Forty-five minutes later he reported to the Newark office by radio that he had run into a sleet storm, that ice was forming on the wings of his plane, and that he considered it advisable to turn back.

He kept in radio communication with the airport until a few minutes after 1 o'clock, when the receiving apparatus went dead.

From then until 3:45, when communication was restored, Burford flew blind above the fog and rain. Meanwhile, an alarm had been broadcast and the landing lights at all airports were lighted.

At 3:45 Burford reported that he had sufficient gas to remain aloft for seven hours and that he would stay in the vicinity of the field until an opportunity to land presented itself. He found a hole in the ceiling and set his ship down in a perfect landing less than an hour later.

Burford, who was forced to bail out of his plane in a blinding snowstorm over the Alleghenies less than a month ago, was undisturbed by his experience in the early morning darkness today.

It was all in the night's work with him.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

INVERNESS, Scotland, Jan. 5.—The Loch Ness "sea monster" has again been seen on land, this time on the north side of the loch near Abriachan. The witness was Arthur Grant, a veterinary student in Edinburgh, who said he saw the animal at 1:30 o'clock this morning. Grant gave the following account of the incident:

"It was about 30 or 40 yards from the Glasgow-Inverness road that I observed in the moonlight what appeared to be a large, black object. I was almost on it when a small head on a long neck turned in my direction. The object, taking fright, made two great bounds, crossed the road, and plunged into the loch with a splash.

"I had a splendid view. In fact, I almost struck it with my motorcycle. It had a long neck with an eel-like head and large oval shaped eyes just on the top of a small head. Its body was very hefty and it had two front flippers. There were two other flippers which seemed to be webbed behind and there was a tail which I estimated to be 5 or 6 feet long. The tail did not, as far as I could see, come to a point, but was rounded off.

"The total length of the creature would be about 15 to 20 feet. Knowing something about natural history, I can say I have never seen anything in my life like the creature I saw. It looked like a hybrid-something between the plesiosaurus and seal tribe."

WOMAN APPARENTLY DEAD ON 4 OCCASIONS IS SAVED BY FIREMEN

Boston, Mass., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Apparently dead on four occasions within the last 24 hours, Mrs. Theresa Veneto of Roxbury, mother of five children, today had won a desperate fight for life, with the aid of 14 rescue squad firemen, who worked in continuous relays for 22 hours, under the direction of Dr. H. W. Gerardell, to keep the spark of life burning, after the woman had collapsed of a heart attack following an operation.

On four occasions since yesterday morning, when Mrs. Veneto was stricken, the doctor's examination seemed to mark her as dead. Each time she showed no heart beat, no respiration, and no pulse. Yet the firemen, members of rescue company No. 2 of Dudley street, under Lieut. William Nolan, using their inhalator, and the doctor administering 400 odd injections of adrenalin, strychnine, and caffeine, managed to keep her alive until early this morning.

The doctor was able to announce that she was out of danger.

BILL CIRCULATOR GIVES UP IN NEW KIND OF RACKET

Horace J. Clermont, 400 Deming place, head of the Claremont Distributing company at 1500 Belmont avenue, yesterday surrendered in the Felony court on a warrant charging him with conspiracy to defraud. Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin told Judge Harold P. O'Connell Clermont had originated a new racket in the distribution of circulars.

The prosecutor charged that Clermont would contract to deliver advertising circulars for a business house and, after delivering two-thirds, would sell the balance as waste paper. Prosecutor Sherwin introduced 18 checks totaling $1,500 paid Clermont by the Pioneer Paper Stock company for waste paper.

Clermont gave bond of $10,000 after denying the charge.

Mr. Reid intimated he will not seek reelection. State's Attorney Chauncey Reed of West Chicago also has signified his intention of seeking the Reid seat.

Dr. Hopf in his announcement came out for "individualism, sound money, and a living wage for the farmer and city dweller." He also stood for economy in government, and denounced the "maze of experimental governments builded in the last two decades."

Charges Tailor's Son Jilted Her.

Miss Sandra Martynow, 24 years old, a motion picture actress, filed suit for $100,000, charging breach of promise to marry, yesterday in the Circuit court against John Gage Tyner, heir of a wealthy Chicago tailor.

Attorney Lawrence Bloomenthal, who filed the suit as a representative of a Los Angeles attorney, obtained an attachment and garnishee for the full amount of the damages asked which was served on the First National bank. The bank is trustee of the estate of the late Elonzo Tyner, father of the defendant, who was vice president of the Ed V. Price Tailoring company at the time of his death ten years ago.

Ties Up Son's Share.

The action will have the effect of tying up temporarily Tyner's two-ninths share in the estate of his father. The estate was valued at $500,000 at the father's death.

According to a statement issued last night by Miss Martynow's Los Angeles attorney, the actress is a brunette of Russian birth who was educated in France and lived for several years in the middle west.

"Mr. Tyner and Miss Martynow met in 1931," the statement said. "They were extremely close friends and Tyner's plea that she marry him caused her to abandon her screen career at the time she had her best chance. His family, however, objected because the girl was an actress and belonged to a different social level.

Girl in Despair.

"After the couple had been friends for some time, Tyner suddenly packed up and left. He called Miss Martynow on the phone, telling her it was all over. Miss Martynow was in such despair that she contemplated suicide. She has no interest in this case as a matter of getting money."

Tyner was married in 1927 to Miss Lillian Wheeler, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Dana Wheeler of Chicago, at a ceremony at the Fourth Presbyterian church, which was attended by society. Mrs. Tyner divorced him three years ago.

Mrs. Elonzo Tyner, mother of the defendant, who is socially prominent in Washington, refused to tell where her son is living. "The suit is news to me," she said. "I know nothing whatever about it. There can be no grounds for such a thing. My son is an honorable man and I am very certain this amounts to nothing."

FORMER BANKER IS DENIED WRIT; TAKEN TO PRISON

Must Serve 18 Months for Embezzlement.

Federal Judge Evan A. Evans yesterday refused to free Ralph L. Peck, attorney and former president of the First National bank of Palatine, on a writ of habeas corpus, and the defendant, who is 60 years old, was ordered taken to Leavenworth penitentiary to serve 18 months for embezzling $25,000 from the Palatine bank.

Peck and Knox Moran, under sentence of eighteen months for counterfeiting, were taken to Leavenworth prison last night. The two prisoners were in custody of Deputy Marshal Steve Cusack.

Convicted Two Years Ago.

Peck, who was convicted almost two years ago, made unsuccessful appeals to the United State Circuit Court of Appeals and the United States Supreme court. His effort to win freedom on a writ of habeas corpus followed the denial of a plea for probation earlier in the week by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

At this hearing his attorney, M. F. Gallagher, presented letters in behalf of his client from Gov. Horner, Frank J. Loesch, head of the Chicago crime commission; Gen. Abel Davis and others. The letters said that the writers considered the defendant incapable of a willfully criminal act.

Peck was found guilty on charges of collecting money due the bank and placing it in his personal account. It appears that the bank owed him the money, but that the illegal act was in giving himself a preferential payment to the disadvantage of the depositors.

Says Bank Owed Defendant.

Attorney Gallagher pointed out that the bank owed Peck a sum larger than that which he had collected and placed in his own account. He held that his client's conviction could be traced to the feeling against bankers. The Court of Appeals, he pointed out, although letting the verdict stand, said in its opinion: "We would be better satisfied if the evidence more strongly supported the verdict."

MOTORIST SHOT BY HITCH HIKER HE BEFRIENDED

Clifford J. Brown, 51 years old, 6717 South Union avenue, was shot and probably fatally wounded yesterday in Highland Park by a hitch hiker whom he had befriended. Within an hour his assailant, an ex-convict, was arrested on suspicion by Police Chief Eugene Spaid of Lake Bluff, confessed the crime, and was identified by Brown.

The prisoner gave his name as Willard Schray, 45 years old, of 746 7th street, Milwaukee. He said he was paroled in October from the Indiana state penitentiary at Michigan City.

Brown, a structural iron worker whose home is in Cedar Falls, Ia., but who has been boarding at the Chicago address, drove to Milwaukee yesterday to seek work. He picked up Schray north of Racine. Schray accompanied him to Milwaukee and then asked for a ride back to Chicago.

On Ridge road in Highland Park Schray drew a revolver, forced Brown out of the car, and robbed him of his overcoat and $15. He then slugged Brown, and when Brown struggled shot him three times in the head.

Chief Spaid, who was unaware of the shooting, noticed that Schray's overcoat did not fit him and took him in custody an hour later in Lake Bluff. Later he took Schray to the Highland Park hospital, where Brown, who was still conscious, identified him. Schray told Chief Spaid that he was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1914 for killing his wife in New Albany, Ind. He escaped in 1917, was recaptured in 1923, and in 1927 won a new trial, which resulted in a verdict of manslaughter, which permitted him to win a parole a few months ago.

ASK MURDER BILL AGAINST YOUTH WHO SHOT MAID

Coroner's Jury Finds Acts Suspicious.

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Harry Kaplan, 19 years old, be held to the grand jury for the murder of Minnie Hardt, 14 year old orphan, shot Thursday in the home of Kaplan's sister, Mrs. Joseph C. Marahak, 4907 North Springfield avenue, where she was employed as a maid.

Kaplan, who lives at 4018 Ainslie street, admitted the shooting to the Albany Park police but said it was accidental. However, his flight after the shooting and his subsequent attempts to conceal from the police the hiding place of the revolver apparently convinced the jury that there was guilt in the shooting.

The youth, an amateur boxer, wept as he testified that he had gone to his sister's home to borrow money for a show, taking with him a revolver jointly owned by him and Casper Miller, 4620 Monticello avenue, who also was ordered held by the jury as an accessory.

Thought Chamber Was Empty.

"As I came out of the kitchen I met Minnie," he said. "She asked me what was in my overcoat pocket. I told her it was a revolver, but she insisted that it was a toy. I handed it to her. The hammer was cocked, but I thought it was set on an empty chamber.

"The pistol went off. Minnie clapped her hands to her chest and moaned, 'I'm shot, I'm dying.' My sister told me to get a doctor. I ran out, jumped on my bicycle and rode to Miller's home."

Miller, he testified, advised him to go to the home of Paul Ginsberg at 4924 Balmoral avenue. Hours later police found Kaplan hiding there. The arrest of Ginsberg, who is missing, was advised by the coroner's jury.

Sister Accuses Slayer.

"O, why did you have to shoot her, you fool?" she cried at him.

There were no witnesses to the actual shooting, Kaplan and the girl having been alone. Miller testified that when Kaplan came to him after the shooting he announced he had "just shot a woman." They consulted together, he said, and agreed that Kaplan should "hide out" at the home of Ginsberg. The pistol was hidden in a coal pile in the basement of Miller's home. Kaplan finally pointed it out to police after insisting for some hours that he had thrown it into the river.

Coroner's Physician Herman Jacobson, who examined the girl's body, said there was no evidence of pregnancy.

QUIZ JURORS 2D DAY IN RACKET TRIAL; PICK NONE

The second day of questioning veniremen in the racket conspiracy trial ended yesterday in Judge Philip J. Finnegan's court without a juror being accepted. Eighteen defendants are charged with conspiracy to stifle trade through a campaign of terrorism directed against the cleaning and dyeing industry.

Questioning of prospective jurors by the defense attorneys indicated the defense would be that there had been no criminal conspiracy, merely a banding together of union men to gain their rights. Veniremen were asked if they had any objection to labor unions, if they knew anyone connected with the Association of Comerce, the Secret Six, or the Employers' association.

Edward Tierney, 23 years old, 6643 Wentworth avenue, was excused when he told the judge he had been greatly impressed by a moving picture dealing with racketeers. He said he had been greatly moved by the pictured wrecking of a tailor shop by hoodlums.

LIQUOR ACCORD GIVES CITY HOME RULE, KELLY SAYS

Function of Appeal Board Explained.

Mayor Kelly yesterday pronounced his agreement with Gov. Horner at Springfield Thursday on liquor control an arrangement giving Chicago more home rule than has been promised it at any other time during discussion of the state liquor laws.

"It is as near home rule as is possible to get under conditions at this time," said Mayor Kelly. "I have always opposed divided authority. If the state liquor commission were given unlimited power, the police captain called to account for bad conditions in his district would blame the commission, and the commission would blame the captain.

"The Springfield agreement does away with divided authority. The Cook county liquor commission on which we agreed will be an appeal body only. The power to issue and revoke licenses will remain with the mayor, but if he refuses an assuance or revocation an appeal can be taken to the commission. My only interest has been to control the criminal element in the city. The way to do that is to leave the issuing and revoking power, in the liquor or any other business, with the city."

Membership of Commission.

The Cook county liquor control commission will be composed of the chairman of the state commission, the secretary of state, and a third member to be chosen by the city council. This arrangement, it was pointed out, will give the local Democratic organization control of the commission for at least three years, since the council is Democratic and Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, whose term runs until 1937, is a member of the local Democratic organization.

"Bars in saloons are out," Mayor Kelly said, "but counters in established restaurants are in. You can have your drink with your food at a counter in an established restaurant. Otherwise, thousands of business men would be legislated out of business, it being customary for many people to eat a sandwich at noon and take a glass of beer with it. I think the wording of the provision is such that there will be no misinterpretation or evasion."

The mayor was asked whether, in his opinion, saloons opened with the advent of 3.2 beer could qualify as "established restaurants." He replied:

"You can eat food and have drinks at the counter if it is an established restaurant, but the possession of a restaurant license wouldn't be prima facie evidence that the establishment was a restaurant."

Urges Two Licenses.

John P. Harding, who operates bars in his chain of loop restaurants, renewed his plea yesterday for two licenses, one for the sale of hard liquor and the other, at a lower fee, permitting the sale of beer only.

"Many establishments want to sell only beer," said Mr. Harding. "If we're in favor of temperance why force liquor sales on them by selling only one form of license. Only 15 per cent of my sales are liquor, while 85 per cent are food, yet I must either discontinue my liquor licenses, and with that discontinue selling beer, the one thing people want most, or go into the saloon business.

"Mayor Kelly and Gov. Horner tell me that if we had two licenses, those holding beer licenses would cheat and sell liquor, and that enforcement of the law would be too difficult. But I believe that if we should revoke not only the beer license of a restaurant keeper who cheated but his restaurant license as well, the severe penalty would stop the cheating.

"At to bars, my experience in the pre-prohibition days was that we had less trouble in the standup bar than we did in the back rooms. People are used to bars. It will be hard to enforce a prohibition against them, and I'm afraid that we will have a lot of speakeasies in the strongly political wards. The bar isn't as vicious as the speakeasy, the old back room, or some of the present taverns."

Makes Defense of Bars.

The same view regarding bars was taken by John Curtin, a veteran saloonkeeper of the stockyards district, who spoke before the state board of the Retail Liquor Dealers' Protective Association of Illinois, which met yesterday at the Pilsen Park pavilion.

"The trouble in the old days was in the back rooms, where people did their drinking sitting down," said Mr. Curtin. "I think the best way to avoid that trouble is to permit bars, clear out all obstructions to view from the street, and enforce the law strictly."

The association adopted resolutions in favor of home rule and of the retention of bars. V. J. Moravec, its president, said:

"Drinking at bars is an American custom. We are not like Europeans, who take their drinks at tables. Laws are made for the people, and if they don't obey a law against bars we'll have speakeasies back."

U. S. Investigates Smuggling.

Federal agents are investigating the connection of a prominent former office holder with a ring which has been smuggling whisky bearing faked government stamps into Chicago, it was learned yesterday.

A large quantity of the liquor has been shipped in freight cars, which were half filled with potatoes or other merchandise, and billed as such. The liquor was either green whisky or bonded whisky cut with green whisky, but it bore fake stamps representing it as bottled in bond whisky. The stamps, agents added, were clumsy photographic reproductions of genuine stamps. Merchants who were found to be selling the whisky at retail are cooperating with the government agents in their search for the smugglers.

325 Apply for Licenses.

City Collector Kaindl yesterday received 325 applications for retail liquor licenses, raising the total of the applications in his hands to 6,165. No licenses have been issued to date, but applicants are permitted to operate provided they are not in areas declared dry territory by the city council.

Owners of 150 saloons whom police arrested Thursday for operating without licenses were warned yesterday when they appeared before Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan that if they reopen their places, now closed, without applying for licenses, they will be fined $200 each.

Collector Kaindl announced yesterday that his office will remain open until 5 p. m. today to accommodate applicants for liquor licenses.

E. C. Yellowley, chief of the permit division of the local federal alcoholic beverage unit, said yesterday that seven distilleries and one gin plant in his district are now consuming more than 58,000 bushels of grain daily, mostly corn, and are turning out 200,000 gallons of liquor a day. The 146 breweries and nine rectifying plants also are working to capacity, he said.

MILITARY DRILL FIGHT RAGES AT OHIO UNIVERSITY

Conscientious Objectors Face Dismissal.

Columbus, O., Jan. 5.—(AP)—A 60 year old battle of "conscientious objectors" against compulsory military training marched into the open again today at Ohio State university.

Five students, served with verbal notice from President George W. Rightmire that unless they enrolled for military training there is "only one other probable course—dismissal," led an effort to organize sentiment.

Meanwhile, the administration marked time. Officials said no official action would be taken in the cases of the students for several days.

A group of Columbus ministers enrolled under the banner of the anti-military training students. The pastors met and pledged their support to a fight to make military training optional.

Hold "Indignation Meeting."

The five students, joined by 11 others who also face possible expulsion because of refusal to take military training, called an "indignation meeting" at which they sought to enlist other students in their fight to make drill an elective subject. They chose as spokesman Charles Hart of Madison, a "conscientious objector" who was excused from drill a year ago by Dr. Rightmire.

Hart won his fight to keep from wearing the blue when he pleaded that his religious faith forbade him from learning to shoulder arms. The university religious council and representatives of the Y. M. C. A. also took a passive part, but announced that Hart would do the talking.

Battle Started in 1873.

Ohio State has been a battleground for anti-military training since 1873. The antis won a decided victory in 1878 when the state legislature voted to place military training on an "optional" basis. Two years later, however, the general assembly rescinded the action, and ever since then attempts to win back the "optional" status have cropped up at frequent intervals.

A statement of policy announced by Rutherford B. Hayes, nineteenth President of the United States and then a member of the board of trustees, that "all students shall receive military training," has remained in force since 1878.

N. Y.'S LIQUOR LABEL LAW IN EFFECT, BUT DEALERS IGNORE IT

New York, Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Technically, New York City's "honest liquor label" law went into effect today. Actually, the health department made no apparent effort to enforce it.

Retail stores continued to sell liquor vaguely labeled "whisky, a blend," or "imitation whisky," just as they did before the ballyhooed regulation became law.

Health department officials, in the absence of the new commissioner, Dr. John L. Rice, preferred not to talk about the law at all.

No one would say so for publication, but there is apparently a tacit agreement that enforcement will not begin for a week or so.

Dr. James M. Doran, the distillers' code administrator, is in Washington working for passage of a federal label law, so that the distillers will not have to use a different label for every city and state they supply.

New York City and the states of Ohio and California have already passed laws, each requiring a different type of label.

SEIZED WHEN HE TRIES TO COLLECT $50 FROM WOMAN

Meyer Gerber, 32 years old, 836 West Madison street, was held at the detective bureau yesterday after he tried to collect $50 from Mrs. Clara McCarthy, 7712 East End avenue, on the pretext that he had her watch, which was lost at a New Year's eve celebration at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Gerber, after reading a newspaper advertisement concerning the loss, telephoned to Mrs. McCarthy and told her he had the watch. She kept him on the line until a police squad traced the call and arrested Gerber in a Walgreen drug store at 3900 Broadway.

PENNSYLVANIANS ARE TOLD BY 'DICTIONARY' WHAT THEY SWALLOW

A "dictionary" setting forth in its own terms what composes the most popular type of drinks, was issued by the state liquor control board.

Now, if any one buys liquor at a state store and doesn't know what he is getting—a product of fermentation of sound grain distilled so as to retain in the distillate the "congeneric" properties of the grain—it's his own fault.

The average man might hesitate a bit over "congeneric"—especially if he thought he might have to swallow it—but Webster clears up that matter nicely. The word means "allied, as in cause or origin," or "kindred."

Rum, on the basis of number of words used to describe it, is the simplest drink available. Rum is no more nor less than a spirit distilled from fruits or wine.

From the "straight" drinks, which the board says means whisky, rum, or brandy that is the product of a single distillery, the board swings to blended and compounded spirits. Blended, according to the "dictionary," means a mixture of two or more straight whiskies, or rums, or brandies of different ages, and not excluding harmless coloring or flavoring ingredients.

PASS LIQUOR LAW AT THIS SESSION, HORNER DEMANDS

Denies Assembly Will Quit to End Row.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner this evening scoffed at reports that the present special session of the general assembly might be adjourned in order to simplify the situation concerning liquor control legislation.

"There is nothing to it," he said. The governor is standing pat in his determination to secure the passage of a state control law, although the indications were that he was not in control of the situation which today resulted in a recess until next Tuesday of the senate.

200 Amendments Offered.

The rumor that the special session might be adjourned sine die and be replaced by a third was traced to the fact that something over 200 amendments to the pending bill have been introduced in the senate. Many have been adopted. No member of the chamber is willing to admit that he knows what shape the bill is in at present. Largely because of this need to see the proposed statute in print, the assembly took its recess until next week.

Mayor Kelly left here last night satisfied that he had done his full part looking toward the enactment of a law that would take Illinois out of the "lawless" class, but there was no indication among his followers in the senate that anything like a satisfactory agreement between the state and the Chicago administrations had been reached.

Agree on Separate Boards.

The governor, it was said, and the Chicago mayor were satisfied with the amendment which would give the metropolis a separate appeal board. But there were definite signs of Chicago members breaking "over the traces," not only in the senate but in the house, which, after the senate finishes its task at this time, must still concur in the patchwork that the senate has made of the bill.

Today's business was relatively brief. Among the amendments adopted were these:

Requiring a license to be issued for each railroad car in which liquor is sold.

Forbidding any public law enforcement official, county or city board member, or mayor from being interested, directly or indirectly, in the manufacture, sale or distribution of liquor.

Requiring licenses to be displayed conspicuously in the license premises.

DAY IN WASHINGTON

House passed bill to raise $470,000,000 annually in liquor taxes.

President Roosevelt announced he would ask congress to guarantee principal as well as interest on farm and home loan bonds.

Hugh S. Johnson planned to call in nearly 200 code authorities next month for corrections and revisions.

The President disclosed plans for a permanent public works program to follow emergency projects.

Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr., announced a camaign to collect eight hundred million in delinquent taxes during the next 18 months.

IGNORES BISHOP; CENSURED FOR COUGHLIN BID

Manitowoc, Wis., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—The Rt. Rev. Paul P. Rhode, bishop of the Green Bay diocese, today censured Thomas Kadow, head of the St. Aloysius Young Men's club, who invited the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest, to speak here without previously having obtained the approval of the parish priest and the bishop.

Bishop Rhode told Kadow he had no right to engage Father Coughlin for an address without obtaining the sanction of the pastor and himself.

Asked if he would forbid the talk, the bishop said if his permission had been asked he would have considered the request.

Kadow explained to Bishop Rhode that at the meeting where the Coughlin program was discussed two pastors, the Rev. William Roell and the Rev. Harry Schueller of St. Boniface church, which he attends, were present, and no objections were offered.

He also told Bishop Rhode that he was unaware that sanction of priest or bishop was necessary. Kadow indicated that unless the bishop gave his approval the invitation to Father Coughlin would be withdrawn.

22 ARTISTS GET COMMISSIONS IN PWAP PROGRAM

The first commissions to needy artists to work under the public works art project were awarded yesterday by the technical committee, Walter S. Brewster, art connoisseur and regional director of the project, announced. One was a portrait commission. The rest were given 21 artists who immediately started designing murals and panels for 19 public schools and one library.

Mayor Kelly is to be the subject of the portrait. Where the completed work will hang has not been decided. Other portrait commissions are to be awarded later, Mr. Brewster said.

Two artists were assigned to Lane Technical High school where among the murals to be painted will be one 20 by 80 feet. When the sketches have been completed the artists will be assisted in the actual painting by others. Eighteen were given assignments to paint panels in 18 of the old public schools. The Leglar branch of the public library also was assigned an artist.

Meanwhile canvases and sketches flooded the PWAP headquarters at 135 South La Salle street, representing 197 Illinois artists, who hope to be retained at $40 a week.

2 EX-OFFICIALS OF VILLA PK. HIT BY INDICTMENTS

The Du Page county grand jury returned indictments yesterday at Wheaton against two former officials of the village of Villa Park and a Chicago bond salesman. The action was the result of alleged misapplication of village funds in the redemption of a bond issue.

The defendants are Fred Derbes, former treasurer of the village; Gustave A. Vangsness, former village president, and B. B. Davis, a bond broker with offices in the Board of Trade building. An indictment on a charge of conspiracy charged that they redeemed $70,000 worth of special assessment paving bonds of the village with money taken from other village funds, when there was not sufficient cash to meet the obligation in the special fund.

Derbes was named alone in another indictment charging false pretenses and confidence game, and Vangsness in another charging malfeasance in office. The terms of the two officers expired last April. Vangsness was succeeded by Frank Wessell, who died within a few months, and an investigation by Harry Mahood, the present village president, unearthed the alleged misapplication of funds.

'CHARITY BAZAAR' PROMOTERS FACE CHARGE OF FRAUD

Promoters of the First Christmas Market and Charity bazaar, which had a short life in quarters at 9 West Randolph street last month, were arraigned yesterday on charges of fraud brought by more than a hundred concessionaires, who said they paid $3 a square foot for space in the bazaar, because of misrepresentation by the sponsors.

Evidence was begun before Municipal Judge J. William Brooks and the case was continued until next Wednesday for further testimony. Mrs. W. E. Farrell, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, testified the federation had not indorsed the bazaar as the complainants said the defendants had claimed.

Miss Rosalie Dribben, who signed complaints against W. E. Tidwell, general manager, and J. B. Trotman, another of the sponsors, and ten other promoters and employes, was on the stand at the close of yesterday's session. She declared a number of false assertions were made by the defendants in selling space.

INDICT 13 AS AUTO THIEVES IN JANUARY DRIVE

The January grand jury yesterday joined the drive on automobile thefts in Cook county by returning 13 indictments against alleged automobile thieves. The jurors had been instructed by Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court to give special attention to such cases.

Evidence was presented to the jury by Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Spiro. At the same time seven more alleged automobile thieves were held by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the newly established automobile court.

Among the defendants was Mike Pellegrini, 17 years old, who took $18 in a robbery Dec. 29 of Lawrence Schmidt, attendant in a gasoline filling station at Montrose and Kedzie avenues. Arrested a few minutes later, Pellegrini was found riding in an automobile stolen from James Walsh, 4938 West Monroe street. Judge Graber held Pellegrini to the grand jury in total bond of $10,000 on charges of robbery and automobile theft.

No Limit Set on Canadian Whisky Exports to U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 5.—Canadian trade experts, who last week announced that Canadian whisky had been accorded a favorable import quota by the United States government, today announced that no limit whatever has been set upon the quantity of bonafide shipments from Canadian distillers to recognized American dealers. Comment here upon this enormous trade treatment is that it heralds an approaching trade agreement between the United States and the dominion.

ACCORD NEAR ON TRANSIT MERGER FINANCIAL PLAN

Fisher Sees Agreement in New Setup.

Substantial progress has been made toward an agreement on the remaining points of dispute in the new transit merger financial plan, it was announced last night by Attorney Walter L. Fisher, author of the plan. It was indicated that these differences will all be ironed out by Monday morning, when Attorney Fisher is to make a report to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who has jurisdiction over the surface and elevated lines.

Complete agreement among the various transit security holder groups is necessary before the surface and elevated lines can be merged under the city's new traction ordinance. A hearing scheduled for yesterday morning before Judge Wilkerson was continued until Monday to allow more time for the negotiations which are being conducted by Attorney Fisher, appointed by the court to bring the conflicting interests into an accord.

Confers with Bondholders.

Attorney Fisher conferred yesterday with spokesmen for the surface and elevated line bondholders and their attorneys. These included D. F. Kelly, chairman of the rapid transit bond protective committee; A. W. Harris, and Melvin A. Traylor, representing the senior bond protective committees of the surface lines.

The principal details of the financial reorganization plan which deals with the allotment of new securities of the unified company to the present bondholders, were made public in the federal court Wednesday. When the completed plan has received the approval of Judge Wilkerson an extension of the Jan. 31 deadline for acceptance of the city unification ordinance will be requested of the city council. The extension is needed to complete the legal details of the merger plan.

These legal matters include the foreclosure proceedings against all of the street car and rapid transit properties which are in receivership and are expected to take several months.

Among the difficulties to be ironed out is the method of raising $15,000,000 in cash, which will be needed for improvements and extensions under the new ordinance.

Favors Bond Issue.

Attorney Fisher is urging that the money be raised by issuing bonds which would be a first lien on the traction properties. As an alternative, if there is no market for the bonds, Attorney Fisher proposes the suspension of interest payments on the general mortgage bonds and of payments into the sinking fund for a period of three years. The bondholders are opposed to the latter plan, it was said.

Another hitch in the negotiations is the demand by Mr. Fisher for a clause in the financial plan making it flexible for any variation of the proposed setup of securities. If the Illinois commerce commission orders a lower valuation of the traction properties than the $261,000,000 now agreed on the total securities to be issued would have to be reduced.

Would Hit Stockholders.

This probably would hit the common stockholders first, and those interests are averse to such a provision. The surface lines bond interests also object to a similar provision making the financial setup subject to a possible variation by the federal court.

Another dispute is over the $1,000,000 a year sinking fund to be used to pay off the unification bonds, the principal security of the unified company. The surface line bondholders will get the major share of these bonds under the new setup. The rapid transit interests would be happy to see the fund eliminated altogether, as $1,000,000 is to go into the sinking fund before any interest is paid on the junior mortgage bonds. Most of the rapid transit bonds in the new plan are junior securities.

The last point in dispute is a plan to clear the titles to the "L" properties with surface lines cash. This will require about $5,000,000. The surface lines interests are concerned about getting the money back. Both sides are said to be agreed on a plan to raise the money with new bonds, but there is a dispute over the wording of the agreement.

HOTEL RAIDED IN SEARCH FOR REGAN SLAYERS

Three detective bureau squads captured fourteen men and nine women in a raid on a forty room apartment hotel at 4437 Greenwood avenue early yesterday. The raiders were seeking Matthew Breen and Albert Ciha, wanted for the murder last Monday of James Regan, alias Walsh, a gambler. The two were not found, but among those who were seized was John Curry, 39 years old, who later in the day was identified as one of three men who shot and seriously wounded Policeman Daniel Donovan in an attempted robbery at the Frog Leg inn, 43d street and Lake Park avenue, last Oct. 14.

After the prisoners were examined at the bureau of identification Chief of Detectives Schoemaker announced that all except Curry would be released today. Six of the other men were found to have police records, he said, but there is no evidence upon which they can be held.

Police said that they were informed after the raid that Breen and Ciha had fled from the apartment building only a few minutes before the raiders arrived. Another man, believed to have accompanied them, was Joseph Carville, sweetheart of Rose Lenzer, owner of the hotel and a former associate of the Dillinger gang.

2 Rebel Expeditions Foiled in Plot to Invade Venezuela

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad, Jan. 6.—(AP)—A second Venezuelan revolutinary expedition, failing in an attempt yesterday to seize the armed trading steamer Delta, made a secret landing on the Trinidad coast today. Another group of rebels who seek the overthrow of Juan Vicente Gomez, dictator of Venezuela, was wrecked yesterday at the mouth of the Orinoco river when their motor launch struck a reef and foundered, drowning four.

GAS EFFICIENT IN STOVES HERE, ENGINEERS FIND

Approve New Mixture Used in Chicago.

Two reports analyzing the heat efficiency of the mixed natural and artificial gas now being burned in Chicago homes were made public yesterday. Each report stated that there is little difference in efficiency between the mixed gas containing 800 British per 1,000 cubic feet, in use at present, and the 530 B. T. U. gas-coke oven gas—which was employed prior to Oct. 15, 1931.

Two consulting engineers submitted reports after making 160 tests of the 530, and of the 800 B. T. U. gas in the laboratories of the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company at 39th street and Wabash avenue. J. W. Lansley reported his findings to the Illinois Commerce commission which is investigating charges that the new mixture is vastly inferior to the old. Walter Bemis, another engineer, made a similar report to the Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th] chairman of the city council utilities committee.

"Splitting a Thin Hair."

Mr. Lansley's report was summarized by Irvin Rooks, general counsel for the commerce commission. "After looking over the voluminous report of the 160 tests made," said Mr. Rooks, "I came to the conclusion that there is not much difference in the two gases. Where one test would show that one gas was slightly better than the other, the next test would show the reverse.

"I would say that any one who undertakes to say that one gas can be burned more efficiently and economically than the other is splitting a pretty thin hair. The tests did show, however, that much more heat was derived from the gases when a jacket was placed around the flame."

The Bemis report says that heat efficiency in the four types of burners used in the tests ranged from 29.8 per cent to 40.5 per cent. Maximum efficiency has been set by the American Gas association at 45 per cent, according to Bemis. He came to two conclusions, as follows:

1. "Gases of various B. T. U. content ranging from at least 400 to 1,135 will burn with equal efficiency in the same range provided the proper adjustments are made."

2. "All [stove] appliances do not operate with equal efficiency. The efficiencies will run from 18 to 45 per cent, depending upon design, construction, and condition."

Calls Charges Unsupported.

Charges have been made that many stove burners in Chicago are not adjusted to obtain high efficiency with the new gas. Mr. Rooks explained that the commission did not believe the investigation upon which the charges were based was "representative" because only 24 stoves were examined, whereas there are 800,000 gas users in the city. He added that a representative of the Interstate Commerce commission has said he believed there was "no lack of efficiency in Chicago stoves."

SENDS HUSBAND TO ALIMONY ROW FOR SIX MONTHS

Judge Rudolph F. Desort, in the Superior court, yesterday sent Clarence Stange, 90 North Huron avenue, Maywood, to the county jail for six months for failure to pay temporary alimony to Mrs. May Stange, 1540 57th avenue, Cicero.

Attorney Norman Becker, representing Mrs. Stange, charged that Stange is $1,200 in arrears on payments of a $20 a week he was ordered to make for the support of his son, Donald, 3 years old. The Maywood address is that of Mrs. Anna Esch, 57 years old, whom Mrs. Stange named co-respondent in her bill for separate maintenance, charging adultery.

Stange was sent to jail once before for violating an injunction restraining him from seeing Mrs. Esch. He told Judge Desort yesterday that the new clothing which he was wearing was a Christmas present from Mrs. Esch.

GRANT SURFACE LINES A TAX CUT OF $3,799,311

The board of tax appeals yesterday granted the Chicago Surface Lines a reduction of $3,799,311 on the 1932 personal property assessment. The reduced assessment of $37,795,280 still is $3,545,272 higher than the lines' assessment for 1931, however. Assessor Jacobs placed a $41,594,571 assessment against the car lines, that being 37 per cent of their full valuation of $112,417,759. The attorneys for the company filed an appeal listing a total of $11,171,374 which they said should not be taxed as personal property. The appeal was upheld in part.

EX-FINANCE WIZARD BROKE EXCEPT FOR HOME AND FURNITURE

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Albert W. Benham, who once paid off investors in his finance company with bushel baskets of currency, testified at a bankruptcy hearing today that the company's assets have shrunk to a few pieces of office furniture and his home in Belvidere, Ill.

A. W. BENHAM.

In 1929 Benham left his job as shipping clerk in a self-styled "wizard of finances."

He organized the Blackhawk Finance corporation and began offering huge rewards for small investments.

He made good his promises for a time. Many investors related that he had quadrupled their money. He never disclosed his methods in detail, but investors said they were based on the premise that more money came in each week than was paid out.

Benham told Referee in Bankruptcy Carlton K. Welsh today that in February, 1930, he paid $100,000 to the finance company and received class A common and preferred stock in that amount.

When he resigned in 1931, Benham said, this stock was turned over to George C. Wilson and David Betson. He also told of paying thousands of dollars to investors during 1931.

DELAYS HEARING ON PETITION FOR ASSESSMENT CUT

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $197,003, making a total of $99,652,800 collected since enforcement of the Korner-Shanda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

Jan. 5	1933.	1932.	1930.
Uncollected	15,780,687	42,031,944
	1929.	1931.
Jan. 5	$ 40,021	$ 100,628

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $6,821.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday continued to Jan. 11 the hearing on the petition brought by the Chicago Real Estate board, which attacks the equity of the 1931 real estate assessment and charges discrimination against owners of small properties. The board asks that Judge Jarecki reduce by 15 per cent the assessments on the 432,000 homes and small flat buildings in Cook county.

The hearing was postponed after attorneys for the board presented a list of questions to Assessor J. L. Jacobs on the technical factors used in establishing the base rates on small properties. The assessor said he would discuss the questions with his staff and answer them when he again took the witness stand for further cross-examination by the board's attorneys.

County Treasurer McDonough announced yesterday that the tax warrant division of his office, at 6 North Clark street, would be moved to the old National City Bank building at 105 South Dearborn street today. Tax payments, without warrants, also will be accepted at the branch.

STATE REVENUE 135 MILLION FOR LAST 12 MONTHS

Year-End Balance Is Nearly 35 Million.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Revenue received by the Illinois treasury during 1933 totaled $135,824,446.74, State Treasurer John C. Martin announced today.

Receipts for the preceding year were $157,972,523.08, but included the $20,000,000 relief bond issue sold to retire $18,750,000 in tax anticipation notes.

In December the treasury took in more than it paid out, Martin's office announced, receipts totaling $16,971,734.07 and disbursements $15,279,032.36.

At the end of the year the balance in the treasurer's cash account was $34,771,323.45, which included $9,170,000 in anticipation notes.

Obligations 213 Million.

Illinois has outstanding obligations of $213,870,500, of which $204,700,500 is bonded debt and the rest represented by tax anticipation notes against the motor fuel tax and agricultural premium funds.

Direct property taxes brought in more funds during 1933 than the preceding year, $25,827,832.31, against $21,593,808.27, but the new taxes on retail sales and beverages helped boost the total.

From the sales tax, which became effective July 1, collections at the end of December totaled $13,149,210.94. December sales by retailers were not due then. Of the sales tax funds, $10,160,752.18 went to mergency relief and $2,781,174.80 was held in protested fees.

The beer law produced $1,876,992.55 since April from the $50 state license and the 2 cent gallonage tax.

Gas Tax 31 Million.

The tax on gasoline also brought in increased money, totaling $30,918,-283.11 against $29,060,264.01, but there was a drop in revenues from motor vehicle license fees, which were placed at $15,544,501.29 for 1933, a drop from $16,812,697.80.

The treasurer's report also showed that receipts were lower from the inheritance tax, which brought in $5,261,-037.24 last year against $7,987,951.14, and the assessments against insurance companies and corporations, which produced $8,855,077.62 against $8,915,-962.61 during 1932.

The report on total revenue for 1933 did not take into consideration the $30,000,000 relief bond issue adopted in November.

QUIZ OWNER IN STORE BLAZE; 15 FAMILIES PERILED

Fred Petrakes, 42 years old, 709 South 6th avenue, Maywood, was questioned yesterday in connection with a fire which broke out early in the morning in his candy and ice cream store at 1160 West Van Buren street.

Police said they believed the fire was incendiary. They found three 5 gallon ice cream containers filled with gasoline at various places in the store. Also, they said, gasoline had been poured over the floor and gasoline soaked newspapers had been spread about.

The flames were discovered by police passing in a squad car, and firemen arrived in time to confine damage to the store. It is on the first floor of a four story apartment building, and 15 families were endangered.

Petrakes had a $5,000 fire insurance policy on the place.

PARAMOUR INJECTED INTO VALLEE-WEBB DIVORCE SQUABBLE

At least, such was the assertion of the crooner's attorney, Samuel Gottlieb, opposing in the Appellate division today Mrs. Vallee's application for an injunction to restrain Vallee from trying to divorce her in Mexico. Decision was reserved.

Mr. Gottlieb declared that his client has evidence entitling him to divorce Fay in any state in the Union—including New York, where misconduct is the only ground recognized.

"She is the wrongdoer," he added. "When we obtained this evidence she was ready to run off with her paramour on a tramp steamer. This paramour once told her that if she were a smart girl she would get $400 worth of dresses a week from Vallee."

Rudy, he said, gave her a home costing $100,000 and supported her well when they were living together.

Mrs. Vallee, replied her attorney, B. A. Hartstein, received a letter from her husband threatening that if she did not consent to a Mexican divorce he would attempt to divorce her anyway.

PLAN GENERAL RECEIVERSHIP INQUIRY HERE

House Committee to Be in Action This Month.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—A new and intensive investigation into receivership cases in the federal courts at Chicago is to be undertaken at once by the house judiciary committee, it developed today.

Funds for the inquiry are to be sought within the next few days, it was learned, and members of the subcommittee which last session investigated charges of misconduct on the part of Federal Judge Charles Woodward will proceed promptly to Chicago to begin hearings on the handling of receiverships by all of the federal judges in the city.

The Woodward investigation has been completed, according to Chairman Tom D. McKeown [Dem., Okla.] of the Chicago subcommittee. But no action will be taken in this case until the entire federal bench in Chicago has been subjected to scrutiny.

Hears Complaints.

"The subcommittee," Mr. McKeown stated, "feels that it would not be fair to Judge Woodward to take action in his case without first investigating the entire situation in Chicago. We have had no specific complaints regarding other judges in the city, but we are dissatisfied with the picture of the general receivership situation which we got in our investigation of the charges against Woodward."

Some criticism has been heard regarding the handling of receiverships by other Chicago federal judges, the chairman added, including a number of reports involving Judge James H. Wilkerson. These, he said, will be looked into in the general inquiry.

The judiciary committee, it was understood, will ask an appropriation of $10,000 to continue its receivership investigations in various parts of the country. Funds for the Chicago inquiry will be taken from this appropriation, Chairman McKeown estimating that some $2,000 will be needed.

Seek Short Cut Ouster.

Members of the subcommittee expected to go to Chicago before the end of this month are Representatives McKeown, U. S. Guyer [Rep., Kas.], William E. Hess [Rep., O.], Warren J. Duffy [Dem., O.], John C. Lehr [Dem., Mich.], and Compton I. White [Dem., Idaho].

Meanwhile, it was learned today that Chairman Hatton W. Sumners [Dem., Tex.] of the house judiciary committee, is seeking a means of removing federal judges from the bench without resorting to the involved procedure of impeachment.

Mr. Sumners, it was understood, believes that "good behavior" can be tried in court, and that a separate government tribunal can be set up to try accused federal judges for violation of their "good behavior" on the bench. The plan, it was reported, is still in an "embryonic stage," but Mr. Sumners is expected to make recommendations at this session of congress looking to the establishment of some such tribunal.

SEES WHOLESALE PAROLES AS PRICE OF PRISON JAMS

Col. Chamberlin Backs New Building.

The state will be compelled to wreck its parole system through premature and unwarranted release of prisoners unless more space is provided, Col. Henry B. Chamberlin, director of the Chicago Crime commission, said yesterday.

Frank J. Loesch, president of the commission, announced his intention to present to his board of directors on Jan. 15 a proposal to urge a building program on Gov. Horner. Because of the depleted state treasury new prison building probably would depend upon willingness of the federal government to advance "easy money."

Believes Cash Available.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Loesch, "the money would be made available because of the emergency nature of the project." He suggested that such a loan might be secured by state appropriation spreading repayment over a period of several years.

An increase of 517 inmates at the Joliet and Stateville prisons was shown for 1933 in a report issued yesterday by Warden Frank D. Whipp. The total rose from 4,873 to 5,390, which Warden Whipp calls a saturation point. There were 1,774 prisoners received in 1933, as compared with 1,184 the preceding year.

"We have fought for years," said Col. Chamberlin, "to have law enforced. Law enforcement means prison sentences. Success of the drive is shown in increased prison population, and now we are faced with a serious problem. If the laws are enforced new prisons must be provided or we face the strong probability of seeing the parole system wrecked."

Back Prison Near City.

Col. Chamberlin recounted that an attempt was made two years ago to obtain a new prison building. This failed because of an empty treasury and noncollection of Cook county taxes, when two-thirds of the inmates are from this county, he said. Both he and Mr. Loesch view favorably the proposal of Warden Whipp for a new prison near Chicago, because good prison administration is not considered possible in an institution any larger than those already at Joliet and Stateville.

Expansion of the parole system was shown in the warden's report that 705 were released, as compared with 592 in 1932. There were 130 returned for parole violation, against 128 for 1932. One hundred sixty completed sentences, seven more than the preceding year. Twenty-five died in prison in 1933, three more than the year before.

OWNER OF STORE SHOT TO DEATH BY HOLDUP MAN

Frank Wojtas, 55 years old, father of five children, was shot near the heart and killed by a gunman in his delicatessen at 4141 Fullerton avenue last night. No witnesses saw the actual slaying, but circumstantial evidence indicated that the killer, posing as a customer, tried to rifle the cash register and shot Wojtas when the latter reached for a gun under the counter. Wojatas' son, Stanley, 15 years old, who was in the rear of the store, saw the killer running out. The victim's daughter, Jean, 21, who was outside in front, saw the man running away. He was described as about 33 years old.

U. S. Protests Against French Policy Pour In.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 5.—An important development in the Franco-American trade crisis precipitated by France's new quota bargaining policy was registered here today when the French ministry of commerce gave definite verbal assurance to the American government that no tax will be levied on import licenses required for products recently placed under quota restrictions. These products include automobiles and meats.

American importers here had hitherto feared that the French authorities might exercise the power they have frequently used in the past of placing import license taxes on products under quota such as they did on American apples admitted recently in exchange for the wine quota to the United States.

Allays Some Apprehension.

The assurance given by the ministry of commerce, therefore, serves to allay some apprehensions. It was given verbally to Henry C. MacLean, American commercial attaché, when he called at the ministry today for information.

During the afternoon representatives of the chief American automobile concerns here conferred at the American embassy. It is understood this conference was only one of a series which all American importers affected by the new French quotas will have in the course of the next few days with the commercial department of the embassy.

The object of these conferences is to permit the commercial attaché to forward a full report to Washington setting forth the views of American importers on the effects which the new quota measures will have on their business.

Complaints Pour In.

Complaints of American business representatives here keep pouring into the embassy and it seems certain that many more American business concerns will discontinue their representations here.

Many importers declare that even if the quotas are quadrupled, as it is confidently expected now that they will, importation of their products will be reduced far below their normal level, and doing business with France will not be worth while.

It is pointed out, however, that the quotas are only valid for three months and that the United States possesses in its wine quota a powerful weapon for their future modification.

Britain Plans Protest.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The British government, it was learned tonight, intends to make strong representations to the French government concerning the new quotas and 100 per cent increase in coal import tax announced by Paris.

The board of trade is drawing up a report showing the precise effects of the French action on British imports. The analysis will be handed to the foreign office in a few days and firm diplomatic representations will be made to Paris.

It is understood that there is even the possibility that, as a last resort, the contemplated negotiations for a new Anglo-French trade agreement may be hindered.

Industrialists Are Incensed.

British industrialists are greatly incensed at what they regard as the unfair tactics of France. At a representative meeting of cotton goods shippers at Manchester today, it was decided that an urgent communication be sent to London calling on the government to take the strongest possible action to protect British trade.

The protest stresses the fact that the reduction of quotas allowed British cotton piece goods and yarns entirely nullifies any benefits accruing from the recent abolition of the 15 per cent surtax introduced by France against British goods when this country left the gold standard.

BOARDER FEARED SLAIN BY KILLER IS SEIZED ALIVE

John Panfield, 19 years old, whose body had been sought since Wednesday on the suspicion that he had been murdered by John Piotrowski at the time that the latter kill ' his two children, Betty Ann Piotrowski, 3 years old, and John Jr., 10 months old, was found last night very much alive.

He was arrested at 47th street and Ashland avenue by Detectives Michael Bergen, Barney Dabbert, William Mosopust, and George Schneider of the Irving Park station.

Panfield had been a boarder in the Piotrowski home, 5019 North Melvina avenue. Last Wednesday Piotrowski returned home, beat his wife into unconsciousness, and killed the children. Then he told police he did so because he had found Panfield and Mrs. Piotrowski together. He related that he beat Panfield to death and hid his body. It was discovered yesterday that Mrs. Piotrowski and Betty Ann carried insurance totalling $2,340, with double indemnity for death by violence. One theory of the police is that it was planned to kill both for the insurance.

Panfield denied tht he was present when Piotrowski killed the children. He also denied that he had been intimate with Mrs. Piotrowski. The police said he admitted committing about 25 burglaries with Piotrowski.

CONGRESS FINDS BIG INCREASE IN PAY ROLL OF U. S.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5. — [Special.]—Congress has returned to its duties to find that the government pay roll has expanded enormously in its absence. The monthly tabulation of what is known as the executive civil service shows that on Nov. 30 there were 22,603 more employés than on June 30, two weeks after congress adjourned.

In the five months while congress was absent the executive branches of the government increased the pay rolls in the District of Columbia by 7,694 and those outside the district by 14,909.

WEIR DECLARES FOR A NEW DEAL AND PART OF OLD

Steel Chief Is Skeptical of National Unions.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Pledging "unqualified support to the President's recovery program," Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation, said tonight that, coupled with this avowal, he also has "considerable faith in, and an abiding respect for, much of the old deal."

Weir, who recently engaged in a controversy with Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, over the election by Weirton Steel company employés of collective bargaining representatives, declared: "New or old deal, we must have a reasonable assurance that it will be a square deal."

"I have firmly supported the national recovery act," Weir declared. "I believe in its principles; but I differ with the national labor board in its efforts to force national unions upon employers. My differences were and still are solely with the national labor board."

Against Agitators.

Speaking before the American Academy of Political and Social Science, Weir said the Weirton company, of which he is chairman, had voluntarily assumed a new responsibility and pledged that there will never be a general wage reduction in the company until the question is submitted to and approved by the elected representatives of the employés. Weirton is a subsidiary of National Steel.

"It seems apparent to me," he said, "that our chances of avoiding labor disturbances are much greater if the management is dealing with its own employés, instead of dealing with paid union organizers, who may have a direct financial interest in keeping trouble brewing.

"I have no quarrel with organized labor per se, but I have a decided opinion regarding the perception and sincerity of many of the labor leaders of today. . . .

An Old Idea.

"Many of us believe that employé organizations are of more value to workers than national unions. We are all seeking to achieve the same end; that is, improvement of workers and working conditions, and because many of us do not believe that this can be accomplished better without the commercialized national unions we are sometimes severely criticized. The newspapers have construed my opinions in that respect as a challenge to the national recovery act."

Weir said that "contrary to current opinion, largely influe ced by a glamorous presentation of the 'New Deal,' industry has, over a period of many years given comprehensive thought and study to improving working conditions and making more adequate provisions for labor in the disbursement of profits."

TEA ROOM DROPS BLUE EAGLE; ITS TRADE RISES 33⅓%

Miss Blanche Bolt, owner of the Cove House tearoom at 1618 Chicago avenue, Evanston, announced yesterday that her business had increased one-third since she discarded her Blue Eagle early in December.

On Dec. 12 Miss Bolt was ordered by Gen. Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator, to turn her Blue Eagle over to the Evanston postmaster because she had failed to comply with labor provisions. She immediately wrote the administrator that she could not do so, as she had thrown the eagle away three months before.

"I was afraid that the publicity I got in December would cause customers to quit eating at the tearoom," Miss Bolt said yesterday, "but people have been very kind and my business has increased one-third.

"I never received an answer to the letter I wrote the NRA officials, in which I told them that the NRA didn't work for me. I told them that I had to discard the eagle in order to protect my business and my 15 employés. I also said that I didn't want to antagonize the government."

STOP U. S. BUYING FROM INDIANA FIRM THAT IGNORES NRA

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—William H. Davis, national compliance director, today requested all government agencies to cease buying from the Morgan Packing company, Austin, Ind., because he said the canning firm had not signed nor complied with the President's reëmployment agreement.

At the same time Davis announced that no firm getting a government order and signing the reëmployment agreement just before starting delivery, might deliver materials produced before it went under the Blue Eagle.

The Schneider Brick and Tile company of Slidell, La., signed the agreement after it got a contract to supply brick for the National Home for Lepers at Carville, La. The treasury advised the building contractor, Murch Brothers of St. Louis, "that no brick manufactured by this company prior to Nov. 10, 1933 [date of signing agreement], will be permitted in the work."

END 3D DAY WITH NO JURY IN BIG INSURANCE TRIAL

Musician Bright Spot in Dull Day.

The third day of questioning veniremen in Judge Benjamin P. Epstein's court failed yesterday to complete a jury to try seven defendants charged with conspiracy to obtain $1,550,000 by false pretenses.

The defendants are alleged to have defrauded policy holders of the Security Life Insurance company and the Northern States Insurance company by fraudulent mortgage deals.

Musician Livens Court.

William R. Galter, 27 years old, 3649 Lexington street, who is a musician, furnished an amusing interlude in an otherwise dull day. Called to the jury box, he was asked his occupation by Defense Attorney Everett Jennings.

"A trumpeter by trade, sir," Galter answered.

"Do you work for the Angel Gabriel?" the attorney asked.

"No," Galter told him; "the Medinah Michigan Avenue club."

But He Must Practice.

He was asked if his duties would interfere with his serving on the jury.

"I would be glad to serve," Galter replied, "if I might have an hour off each day for my practice."

"That would depend on what kind of trumpeter you are," Judge Epstein remarked. "If you are good, perhaps your fellow jurors would like it."

"They'd have to like it, judge," Galter declared.

Occupants Glare.

He was allowed to take his seat temporarily in the jury box as the other occupants glowered at him. Later he was excused by the defense.

Harry J. Garber, 5522 South Hermitage avenue, who had been tentatively accepted as a juror, was excused and allowed to go home when he became ill in the jury box.

In the three days, during which eight jurors have been selected, the defense has excused 34 veniremen and the state three by premptory challenges.

Evanston Folks Demand Film Censor Be Retained

More than 100 Evanston residents met in the Evanston public library hall last night and adopted resolutions to induce the city council to retain Mrs. Dorothy Randolph as movie censor. The meeting was called by the Evanston better films committee. Last week the council omitted a place for Mrs. Randolph in its budget and arranged to fill her place with a policewoman who would work on half pay. Mrs. Randolph has been censor for nine years.

U. S. ORDERS NEW VOTE BY MINERS ON RIVAL UNIONS

An election to determine whether the Progressive Miners' union or the United Mine Workers shall represent 450 men at the Mark mine near Granville in Putnam county was ordered yesterday by Dr. John A. Lapp, chairman of the regional coal labor board. The vote will be taken Jan. 17. The mine has been closed by picketing Progressives, but is now operating.

Dr. Lapp said a secret ballot would be used, with himself and his board colleagues, Ora Gasaway of Brazil, Ind., and Harvey Cartright of Terre Haute, present to supervise the election. It is the first such ballot to be ordered by the board in Illinois.

Prior to inauguration of the bituminous coal code the Mark mine was nonunion. Upon imposition of the coal code the mine operator evinced willingness to deal with his employés in accordance with the NRA.

Progressives Seem in Lead.

"A ballot was taken, informally and apparently without supervision of any one in particular," said Dr. Lapp. "It showed an apparent majority for the Progressives. The operator evidently did not consider the vote a fair test of sentiment, and proceeded on Dec. 9 to sign a contract with the United Mine Workers."

The Progressives immediately picketed the mine, which closed within two days. Shortly thereafter the labor board ordered it reopened under the nonunion status prevailing prior to the NRA, and operations were resumed on that basis to continue until the scheduled election.

"If the new vote shows a majority for the Progressives the contract with the United Mine Workers must be nullified," said Dr. Lapp. "The board holds that since the contract with the United Mine Workers was made after adoption of the bituminous code there must be conformation with the provisions of the code."

Contention in 15 Mines.

Progressives and United Mine Workers are contending for authority in some fifteen other mines of the Illinois field. At the Peabody mine in Harrisburg the Progressives challenged the United Mine Worker contracts as a whole, contending that fraud had been perpetrated by the theft of ballot boxes when the contracts were approved at Springfield, in August, 1932, where the Progressive movement began.

It was indicated that the labor board does not propose to disturb existing contracts of the United Mine Workers, where a majority favor them, believing that the issue of the vote thefts is one for the civil courts. There were intimations, however, that the decision in the Harrisburg case, expected to be given next week, may affect the status of other mines where discord exists.

A 12 YEAR OLD WIFE GIVES BIRTH TO 7 POUND GIRL

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Ellen Marie Walsh, 12, became the mother of a 7 pound 9 ounce daughter in a Syracuse hospital, a birth record filed today disclosed. Mother and child are doing well, hospital officials said.

The young mother, appearing a few years older than her sworn age, is the wife of Theodore Walsh, a CWA worker.

Physicians here said that in some foreign countries child mothers as young as 12 years are not uncommon, but in the medical history of Syracuse this is the only time such a case has been recorded.

5 AND 10 HEIRESS AND NEW MATE VISIT CHICAGO

Barbara Hutton Mdivani, the $40,000,000 "five and ten" heiress who married Alexis Mdivani, one of the brothers who claim the title of prince, came to town yesterday with her husband. They arrived in a luxurious private car attached to the Exposition flyer, which was later switched to the Chicago and North Western line and attached to the Pacific limited, departing later in the morning.

When they arrived at Park row station commuters leaving suburban trains on their way to work glanced in the windows of the car and saw the prince and princess eating breakfast. She wore an orange negligée. Seeing the curious looking in upon their privacy, the couple drew their blinds. Later the bride's 19 year old cousin, James Donahue, who is accompanying them on their trip, appeared and talked to newspaper photographers. Barbara and her husband remained hidden from view.

They arrived here from New York, where the bride's father, Franklin Hutton, who married Mrs. Edna Woolworth, now dead, saw them off. The couple expect to be in Oakland, Cal., by tomorrow, where they will sail for the orient on a trip around the world.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

SHOW CANADA'S POWER INTEREST IN SEAWAY PACT

Canal Officials Tell Case for Diversion.

Sanitary district officials yesterday cited records and actual experiences to show that the effect of Chicago diversion upon the lake levels is infinitesimal and that the real interests back of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty are the New York and Canadian power trusts.

The treaty with Canada, if ratified by the United States senate, would limit lake diversion at Chicago to 1,500 cubic second feet. A finding in a report by Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Markham, chief of the army engineers, states that this amount will be sufficient for navigation in the Illinois waterway, provided two new locks and dams are constructed. But Howard W. Elmore, sanitary district trustee, recalled that in August, 1930, a diversion of 7,500 feet, five times the amount provided by the treaty, proved insufficient for both sanitation and navigation.

Complain Over Low Water.

"The water in the lower Illinois river was stagnant and noxious as the result of a long drought, and we received hundreds of complaints," said Mr. Elmore, who was then president of the drainage board. "Finally, Col. W. C. Weeks, the United States engineer, advised the sanitary district engineers that he would consider it a favor if they increase the flow.

"Col. Weeks had received complaints that the river was too low for navigation. Patrick J. Hurley, then secretary of war, was on an inspection cruise in the upper Mississippi, and his boat had stuck on sand bars. The war department engineers feared that the lower Mississippi would also be too low for the secretary's boat unless the flow from the Illinois was increased."

The sanitary district engineers conferred with Mr. Elmore and the legal department, pointing out that under the United States Supreme court decree they had no authority to increase the flow. The war department engineers, including Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, then chief, said they could not exercise the discretion of ordering the increase, but it was agreed that the Supreme court decree applied only to the yearly average diversion, and to meet the emergency and please the government the sanitary district increased the flow to 12,000 feet.

Drops Lake Level 6 Inches.

Records produced by Horace B. Ramey, sanitary district engineer, show that the full effect of the 10,000 cubic second feet diversion at Chicago up to 1926 was a decrease of 6 inches in the lake levels. Between 1926 and 1929 the lake levels rose four feet, due to the excessive rainfall, and since 1929 they have fallen back to the 1926 mark. This was due to a decline in the rainfall, because diversion at Chicago has been decreased to 6,000 feet, according to Mr. Ramey.

Opponents of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty point out that it would give Canada the advantage in power development and increase that country's advantage in diversion gained in the treaty of 1909. The pending treaty contemplates the development of 2,000,000 horsepower in the Niagara river, to be divided equally between New York state and the province of Ontario, and 3,000,000 horsepower in the lower St. Lawrence, all of which would go to Canada.

Mr. Ramey cited proceedings before the senate foreign relations committee, when it was considering the St. Lawrence treaty of 1909, showing that Canada obtained a diversion from the Niagara for power purposes of 36,000 c. s. f., while the United States was limited to 20,000 c. s. f. The 10,000 c. s. f. diversion at Chicago was the factor which enabled Canada to drive this bargain, in the words of Elihu Root, then secretary of state.

If the new treaty is ratified, Canada will have an even greater advantage because of the decrease at Chicago. The total Canadian diversion will be 41,000 feet, and the total for the United States will be 22,425.

U. S. AIRWOMAN KILLED AS PLANE BURNS IN FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Miss Evelyn G. Frost, 25 year old American aviatrix and prominent in Paris and London social circles, was burned to death near Nevers, France, at noon today when her private plane crashed in making a forced landing in a heavy fog. Miss Frost is said to have been the only American woman to possess a French navigator's and pilot's license.

When the tragedy occurred she was a passenger. Her plane was piloted by Geoffrey Ruttle, young Englishman, who escaped death. The couple left the flying field at Orly, near Paris, at 11 a. m. on a flight to Egypt. Ruttle apparently found the fog too thick and decided to land after 30 minutes in the air. As the plane descended it struck a high tension wire. Ruttle extricated himself as the plane burst into flames, but could not save Miss Frost, who was strapped to her seat. Ruttle was badly burned.

Miss Frost was the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Sterling Frost of St. Louis, whose European address was given as Villa Miramonte, Florence, Italy. She was also a niece of Frederick A. Sterling, formerly first secretary and counselor to the American embassy here, now minister to Bulgaria.

SEEK STATE O. K. TO TEAR DOWN NEW YORK SLUMS

$25,000,000 Aid Due from U. S.

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Clearance of the city's slums, advocated by social workers for years, awaits only the legislature's approval to get started as a major undertaking of Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia's administration.

With a contribution of $25,000,000 earmarked for the vast task by the federal public works administration, Mayor La Guardia said today he would seek immediate sanction by the legislature of creation of municipal housing authorities. The plan already has the approval of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who termed it "an opportunity for our cities" to provide low rental housing with the aid of the federal government. Tenements in the lower east side, Harlem, Brownsville, and the Brooklyn navy yard section—known over the nation as inadequate for healthful living purposes—will be torn down and replaced by modern, inexpensive buildings for the city's residents of moderate means.

Job to Take Years.

Clearance of the slums is a job that will take years, but Langdon W. Post, La Guardia's tenement house commissioner, said the worst can be torn down in a short time.

"It indicates that our efforts are being understood and that we are having full and complete coöperation from President Roosevelt and his administration," said the new mayor.

Post said today, after returning from conferences with legislators in Albany, that he believed legislative approval would be forthcoming shortly and that the work can start by March 1.

Credit Given to Post.

It was Post who carried the administration's plea for funds to Washington, worked tirelessly with a local slums clearance committee and sought the assistance of Gov. Lehman.

Condemnation of properties will start, Post said, as soon as the legislature votes its approval. Then, he added, it will be but a short time before the actual clearance begins.

"As soon as the municipal housing bill passes the legislature we will proceed more definitely," said Post. "The only plans that can be made now are the preliminaries for the actual work.

Must Pass Bill.

"However, that $25,000,000 earmarked by the government yesterday will do us no good unless we get the municipal housing bill through the legislature, for until the municipal housing authority is created as an official body we cannot spend the money."

Gov. Lehman, enthusiastic in his approval of the project, has asserted that the changing pattern of society demands new angles of approach to the problem of slum clearance. He added that since private enterprise has not supplied the cities with adequate moderate housing, the problem must be tackled by the municipalities.

Post said he hopes that the word "tenement" will go out of use, particularly with reference to his department. It should be known as a housing department, he said, dedicated to the abolition of tenements.

FRANCE SPURNS FREEDOM PLEA OF U. S. COUPLE

PARIS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A formal plea for liberty by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz of East Orange, N. J., held in connection with investigation of an alleged spy ring, was denied today by a magistrate, who asked that they be held in jail pending completion of the inquiry.

The first court hearing was granted the American couple, along with scores of other prisoners—including eight others whom the police charge are spies—in accordance with a law providing that every prisoner appear in court at least once monthly.

Questioned as to documents police said they seized in the Switz' hotel room, the Americans replied that they were victims of a "frameup."

Mayor's Proposal Meets with Disapproval.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

New York, Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Plans of the new Republican mayor, Fiorello H. La Guardia, to have himself made virtual dictator of New York City's finances ran into a gubernatorial snag today.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, while professing sympathy with La Guardia's object in resorting to heroic means to save the city from municipal bankruptcy, announced in a frank letter to the mayor that he could not approve any bill giving the mayor such broad powers.

The governor, in his letter from Albany, said that approval of the La Guardia bill would place him in a position where he could "scrap" not only the New York City charter but other state laws affecting the city. He held that the powers asked by the mayor were far in excess of any need that even the most extreme demand for economy might dictate. The term "dictator" was used again and again by Gov. Lehman in his long communication to the mayor.

Frowned On by Public.

The governor expressed the opinion that the people of this country would be unwilling to have the powers asked for by New York's new reform mayor vested in its governors and mayors.

"No man in this country has ever asked for or received the dictatorial powers which would be yours through the enactment of this bill," the governor wrote.

And again:

"Frankly, I am deeply disturbed and apprehensive of the thought of a fiscal and political dictatorship, which I regard not only as entirely unnecessary but as essentially un-American. Representative and democratic government, bestowed upon us by centuries of human struggle, should not be so hastily scuttled."

Enough Power Now.

The governor pointed out that through powers already at his command and the power to reopen the 1934 budget, which he felt the legislature would readily vote, Mayor La Guardia would be in a position to effect all the necessary economies that he may have in mind. He stressed the desirability of effecting these improvements in "an orderly" way and pronounced "dangerous" the short cut to reform proposed by Mayor La Guardia.

The governor rebuked the mayor for statements attributed to him that in taking over the administration of the city he was in reality going in as a receiver.

The governor's letter was sent soon after a copy of the La Guardia bill had arrived at Albany for presentation to the senate and assembly, accompanied by a certified copy of the resolution adopted by the board of estimate calling for action by the legislature.

JUDGE FORBIDS CHANGE IN NAME OF CRAWFORD AV.

Temporary Injunction Won by Property Owners.

Circuit Judge William V. Brothers yesterday issued a temporary injunction restraining city officials from enforcing the ordinance changing the name of Crawford avenue to Pulaski road. The restraining order was based on a 16 page opinion by Master in Chancery Julius H. Miner, in which the ordinance was termed "unreasonable, oppressive, and void." The opinion was given in connection with a suit filed recently to prevent changing of the name of the street.

J. H. MINER.

First Assistant Corporation Counsel Leon Hornstein was studying the opinion of Master Miner yesterday to determine whether the city would take the case to the Appellate court or wait for a hearing on the permanent injunction. The ordinance calling for the change of names was adopted to honor the Polish hero of the American revolution.

The injunction restrains the city officials from changing the name of the street, from removing the old street name plates, and from setting up any other street name plates until further order of the court.

Complainants in the suit are property owners along Crawford avenue, among them the Olson Rug company, John H. Hagerty, owner of the Hotel Guyon; Baer Bros. & Prodia, and others.

They charged that it would cost the city several hundred thousand dollars to change the name of the street and that such a change would cause damage in excess of $1,000,000 to the property owners along the thoroughfare. Master Miner ruled that the ordinance impaired the rights of citizens and taxpayers who own property along Crawford avenue.

Opposes City's View.

"The corporation counsel insists that while an owner of real estate may have a property interest in the street or sidewalk upon which his real estate is situated he has no property right in the name of the street," the opinion of the master said. "That contention is not sound.

"A 25-foot lot on State street is taxed 100 times the amount of a similar lot on an obscure street, although both lots have the same dimensions, the same quality and grade of sidewalks and identically the save sewage and street pavement. It is obvious that in determining real estate values for taxation purposes the good will of the street is the largest factor and the name of the street is an integral part thereof.

"The property owner has a huge investment in the name and good will of the street and the greater the good will the higher the taxes and the larger his investment."

"Willing to Honor Hero."

In discussing the motive behind the proposed change of name Master Miner said that he would gladly approve any program tending to pay homage to a national hero of a great people. He could not do so, however, the opinion said, "through an illegal ordinance which operates oppressively."

ROBBERS GIVE SERVICE ALONG WITH HOLDUP

John Mawhinney, 50 years old, a clerk employed by a pipe manufacturing company at 1150 Fullerton avenue, was held up by three gunmen yesterday morning as he alighted from a street car near the plant after drawing $600 from a loop bank. Two of the men jumped out of their car and menaced Mawhinney with revolvers. When he resisted one of the men fired his pistol at close range. The bullet grazed Mawhinney's abdomen and the spurt of flame from the muzzle set fire to his clothing.

"Poor fellow, he's hurt," said one of the bandits. "Let's take him to a hospital."

The two men took the $600, carried Mawhinney to a small sedan in which a third man was sitting at the wheel and drove to the Alexian Brothers' hospital, where they put him out of the car.

"O. K.," one of the trio said as they drove away, "here's a place where you can get fixed up."

A few minutes later the switchboard girl at the manufacturing plant received a call from a man who informed her that Mawhinney was in the hospital. When she asked the identity of her informant he replied: "I'm the guy that put him there, and got the dough." Checking the license number of the car used by the bandits police found it had been stolen from William Miller, Maywood. Mawhinney's injuries were not serious.

GERMAN PASTORS DROP CAMPAIGN TO OUST BISHOP

Hitler Orders Mueller to Stick to Post.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 5. — The Pastors' Emergency league, after an all night session at Halle, today decided to drop all action in its campaign to oust Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller.

The league, composed of 6,000 of the nation's 16,000 pastors, adjourned when word reached them that Chancellor Hitler had ordered Bishop Mueller to remain at his post regardless of the opposition in the ranks of the German Evangelical church.

Insist Bishop Will Resign.

Nevertheless, a rumor persisted in Berlin tonight that Dr. Mueller is resigning because he is unable to continue to bear the strain caused by the church conflict.

The only single dignitary left in Dr. Mueller's church ministry is Prof. Hermann Wolfgang Bayer of Griefswald. Thus the ministry is completely paralyzed.

Besides the Pastors' Emergency league's objection to Dr. Mueller, Bishop Coch of Saxony joined the attack on the reichsbishop today. Dr. Coch, as a Nazi German Christian, insists on the enforcement of the anti-Jewish clauses in the church laws, whereas Dr. Mueller is attempting to conciliate with the Pastors' Emergency league against oppression of the Jews.

Dr. Mueller sought to compromise with the pastors in his fight to retain his title. He asked a six weeks' leave of absence because of ill health. It is assumed in church circles that this will displease Hitler who plans to oust Dr. Mueller unless he succeeds in re-establishing peace at once in the Protestant ranks.

The Pastors' Emergency league is fearful Hitler will appoint a commissar to form a new church ministry on the "leadership principle."

Nazi Press Booming.

Meanwhile the German press for the first time in its history was compelled to publish circulation figures. The figures revealed that the Nazi press is booming while the old time newspapers are expiring.

The Berliner Morgenpost of the Ullstein concern managed to keep the lead in Berlin with a daily circulation of 342,000, compared to its previous 600,000. The Nazi Voelkische Beobachter is running a close second, printing 311,000 papers in Berlin and Munich.

Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nachtausgabe seems to be the only non-Nazi organ showing a gain. It increased its circulation from 70,000 to 190,000, profiting from the demise of its afternoon competitor, the lively but allegedly communist Welt am Abend, which once boasted a circulation of 200,000. The Vossische Zeitung, Berlin's oldest newspaper, formerly a democratic organ, dropped from 70,000 to 49,000. The Berliner Tageblatt is down to 74,000.

Newspaper Man Ousted.

A review published by a confidential news service estimates that 600 former flourishing daily newspapers have expired in recent months.

The first newspaperman to be ousted under the new press law is Max Rene Hesse of the Ullstein concern. Hesse wrote a short story for the New Year's edition which the propaganda ministry charged insulted the army. The ministry ordered his dismissal. Hesse, a former member of the reichswehr, insisted he never intended a slur on the army.

GOSSIP WRITER HORSEWHIPPED BY A PHYSICIAN

As a result he is under $100 bail for assault and is being sued by his victim, Isadore Levine, for $50,000 damages.

Levine is publisher of the Bridgeton Record, a weekly, and under the name of Roy Allen he writes a gossip column.

"I sent word to him through a rabbi not to publish my name in his column any more," Dr. Myatt explained. "But last week this item appeared:

"'A number of physicians' cars have been seen parked near a Burlington avenue home. It must be a very interesting 'case'".

When Dr. Myatt saw that item, with the significant quotation marks around the word "case," he sighed and got out his horsewhip. He lured the writer from his office by a telephone call and set upon him.

Twice the whip cracked on the newspaper man's back. Then his superior speed and agility ended the flagellation. Levine escaped into the office of Magistrate J. Ellsworth Long, where he immediately swore out a warrant for the surgeon.

NAZIS SEND 2 PRIESTS TO PRISON CAMP AS ENEMIES OF REGIME

BERLIN, Jan. 5.—Stuttgart's political police today arrested two Catholic priests, the Fathers Dangelmeier of Metzingen and Sturm of Waldheim, and sent them to the concentration camp at Kuhberg. The priests were charged with agitating against the Nazi government. The police at the same time announced the release of 20 prisoners, described as "victims of agitators."

The police assert the arrested priests were "agitating and systematically interfering with politics." One priest is accused of saying mass for six communists before their beheading and discussing the death sentence with the school children in his charge. The other priest was charged with calling a meeting of Young Catholics "on an evening when Chancellor Hitler was addressing the nation over the radio, and thus making it impossible for these youths to listen to Hitler."

Nazis were further incensed at Catholic authorities when they learned that the bishop of Mayence ordered Catholic churches of the diocese to fly only church flags, and not the Nazi banner.

TWO BOYS KILLED BY A TRUCK IN SO. SIDE STREET

Fathers Report Them Missing to Police.

Two 9 year old boys were struck by a truck and fatally injured last night while playing at Vincennes avenue and West Seventy-fifth street. They were Leonard Edwards, 7639 Perry avenue, and John Herbert Sword, 7649 Perry avenue. Both died on the way to Auburn Park hospital, where they were being taken by passersby.

Named by Fathers.

They were identified by their fathers several hours later, when the parents had reported them missing to police.

Daniel Newman, 19 years old, of 515 West Sixty-third street, driver of the truck, owned by the Parnell Fruit and Vegetable store, 525 West Sixty-third street, was held by the police for the inquest this morning. Newman said the boys ran in front of the truck and that the accident was unavoidable.

Woman Dies from Crash.

Mrs. Lillian Scott, 43 years old, 2125 East avenue, Berwyn, died yesterday of injuries suffered Thursday night when the automobile in which she was riding was crushed by a Douglas Park "L" train at East avenue and 22d street, Berwyn.

These deaths and three others brought to 25 the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1. The other victims:

Alfred Akeroth, 60 years old, 3441 South Oakley avenue, died at county hospital after being struck by hit-and-run automobile at 55th street and South Western avenue. The auto's license was traced to Murray Herron, 7242 South Washtenaw avenue. Herron was arrested. He admitted striking something at the intersection, but said that when he looked back he saw nothing and went on home.

J. R. Neilson, 50 years old, 1645 North Francisco avenue, found dead at Lake street and Kedzie avenue, apparently the victim of a hit-and-run driver.

Unidentified man, about 38 years old. Died in Mother Cabrini hospital after being struck at Jackson boulevard and Peoria street by a car driven by Morris Buckman, 20, of 1658 South Lawndale avenue. Cards in the victim's pocket bore the name of A. Spuino and indicated he had been staying in the shelter at 24 West Austin avenue.

Workers Catch Silver Fox as They Fill In Basement

Workmen filling in the basement of a demolished building at 110 West Elm street yesterday afternoon captured a silver fox which apparently had been making its home in the abandoned structure. The building had not been occupied for several months, and recently it was torn down to make room for a garage. Joseph G. Cleary, one of the workmen, captured the fox, which is said to be a valuable specimen. Zoo authorities could not account for the presence of the animal in Chicago.

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Brands Anti-Jewish Agitation Treason.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Premier-Designate George Tatarescu and other Liberal leaders today agreed upon a new cabinet, which is substantially the same as that of the assassinated premier, Ion G. Duca.

Nicholas Titulescu, foreign minister under Duca, arrived from St. Moritz and agreed to take the same portfolio in the new cabinet. Constantine Bratianu, however, who yesterday was elected leader of the national Liberal party succeeding Duca, surrendered the finance ministry to Victor Slavesca, formerly undersecretary.

Tatarescu and Titulescu went to Sinaia for luncheon with King Carol after which the entire cabinet was scheduled to appear at the palace to be sworn in.

Before leaving, Tatarescu said he was determined to suppress vigorously "fruitless agitation by bewildered youth," meaning the pro-Nazi Iron Guard. Duca's assassin was a member of the Iron Guard, which is strongly anti-Semitic.

Such agitation, Tatarescu said, not only is foreign to the Rumanian character, but hurts foreign relations.

"Action to create dissension among the people will be considered high treason and dealt with as such," Tatarescu warned.

The foreign policy of the new cabinet will be the same as that of the previous one, he said—maintenance of peace treaties and coöperation with allies and the league of nations.

JAN. 15 SET FOR BLACKLIDGE LOVE TRIAL OPENING

Trial of the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, by Mrs. Susanne Nottingham, 7616 Langley avenue, yesterday was set for Jan. 15 by Judge I. L. Weaver of Sterling, sitting in the Cook county Superior court. Mrs. Nottingham filed the suit in September, 1932, alleging Mrs. Blacklidge had stolen the love of her husband, Norman E. Nottingham, a patrol wagon driver at the Grand Crossing police station.

DIES WHILE ON A VISIT.

Joseph McGillen, 45 years old, 8941 Throop street, a civil engineer employed by the board of local improvements, died of a heart attack yesterday while visiting at the home of C. A. Rehmer, 5803 Welton street, a friend.

$31,000,000 Swindler Linked to French Secret Service

PARIS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The gravity of a threat to overthrow the French cabinet because of the collapse of the Bayonne municipal pawnshop and the resulting loss of $31,000,000 to investors was revealed today in a half hour talk between Premier Chautemps and President Albert Lebrun.

The premier subsequently saw Eugene Raynaldy, minister of justice, and later Albert Dalimier and Lucien Lamoureux, ministers of colonies and labor, respectively, who are involved in the case.

Then he issued a statement indicating an intention to stand by the ministers, thus silencing rumors about their possible resignation.

Cabinet Ministers "Explain."

Lamoureux outlined the information he had on the Bayonne case while Dalamier "gave the premier documents establishing his entire good faith with which two letters relative to the affair were written."

The fleeing Serge Stavisky, founder of the Bayonne institution, was revealed meanwhile as a mysteriously powerful person.

Lobbies of the chamber of deputies seethed with rumors that "Handsome Alex" Stavisky held a card as inspector in the French secret service.

His acquaintance with cabinet members, deputies, and senators and his ability to sell hundreds of millions of francs in bonds while delaying a criminal trial on swindling charges for seven years were offered by deputies as sevidence that he was protected from high places.

Overshadows Budget Crisis.

Seven legislators filed interpollations in the chamber, which will convene Tuesday, and the pawnshop scandal overshadows consideration of the French budget.

Stavisky last appeared in public with Jean Chiappe, the prefect of Paris police, with whom he sat in a theater box.

Authorities claimed to have evidence that "Handsome Alex" was about to launch a program calculated to net another $40,000,000 of the public's money when the Bayonne pawnshop collapsed.

Meanwhile, renewed efforts were made to apprehend Stavinsky. The government sent further messages to ships at sea and to French representatives in North and South America to be on the alert for the fleeing promoter.

French municipal pawnshops are more or less guaranteed by the state, and it was feared that a large part of the Bayonne loss would revert upon taxpayers.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE BUDGET MESSAGE.

In view of the disturbing character of the information contained in the President's budget message, he must be given great credit for candor. A deficit of 7 billion dollars this year is called a deficit of 7 billion dollars. The necessity of borrowing 6 billion dollars of new money and the refunding of 4 billion dollars of existing debts is stated without equivocation. The expectation of a deficit of nearly two billion dollars next year is conceded and the certainty that the total debt of the federal government will shortly exceed 31 billion dollars is also faced.

As a matter of fact, this presentation in figures of the government's program should cause little astonishment to those who have read the news from Washington with care. Most of this year's colossal expenditure was fully provided for at the special session which met last March. The President is asking for 1,166 million dollars more for the present fiscal year from the congress now in session, but even that additional sum should occasion little astonishment in the minds of those who have read of the exhaustion of the public works and other funds and the proposals to replenish them.

The President appears to be pretty well convinced that by 1936 the necessity for extraordinary expenditures for the restoration of prosperity will have passed. In the year beginning July 1, 1935, he hopes there will be no need to borrow, for revenue will then equal expenditures. That is a hope which will be universally shared, but it is a hope and not a certainty. If the expenditure of 16½ billion dollars in the next eighteen months hasn't turned the trick, the obvious thing to do will be to incur new deficits. Perhaps, should the occasion arise in 1936, the President will set his face against an increase of the national debt beyond the 31 billion dollar limit, which he now foresees, but even if he does take a firm stand it is by no means certain that he can halt the process. Extravagance breeds extravagance.

A study of the uses to which much of the borrowed money is to be put is not wholly reassuring. What the country needs above all is a revival in the industries which supply capital goods. The public works appropriations are expected to perform this service, but it remains to be seen if the expenditure of the Ickes fund will actually generate private investment in capital goods after the public fund has been exhausted. While the cement business, for example, ought to be greatly improved by the government's expenditures, it is not likely that many cement mills will be constructed to meet a demand which is to end in a couple of years.

Expectations of a marked business improvement characterized the budget making of the Hoover administration and went a long way toward discrediting it in the eyes of the public. False hopes of lessened expenditures and increased government revenues were raised. Every one will join in the fervent hope that Mr. Roosevelt's hopes of a restored national economy within eighteen months are not similarly disappointed. If the expected results do not flow from the expenditures, the fiscal year ending in June, 1936, may be a critical one in the nation's financial and economic history.

THE LAWYER CRIMINAL.

Former United States District Attorney G. E. Q. Johnson does a public service in emphasizing the evil of unscrupulous practice in criminal law. Mr. Johnson, a very able prosecutor, is speaking from an instructive experience in the battle against organized crime. He is not theorizing or dealing in glittering generalities. He knows the tactics of expert criminal defense and the means it employs to defeat justice and he would have the legal profession realize the menace to its own credit and to public security represented by the unscrupulous practitioner. "What impression," he asked his lawyer audience of the Oklahoma Bar association, "can the public gain when the same attorneys year after year represent the same men or groups of men who openly and brazenly defy all law and are able to escape its penalties?"

"Many men who have a large clientele among criminals go far afield," said Mr. Johnson. "I do not believe that any lawyer has a right to present an alibi defense when it is perfectly obvious that it reeks with perjury. When a lawyer has a client who is a criminal his contact with his client should begin when the client enters his office and end when he leaves it. When a lawyer pals and mingles with criminals in the underworld he should be promptly haled before the grievance committee of his bar association."

Mr. Johnson asserts that changes in the code or professional ethics are needed. This of course does not imply that the practices of which he complains are ethical for the reputable practitioner now or ever, but that the formal code shall be extended to give a better foundation for the professional discipline of lawyers whose specialty is the protection of notorious criminals. Any individual charged with crime is entitled to legal counsel and representation, provided the counsel and representation are within the law. But the practitioners whose activities Mr. Johnson rebukes go far beyond that and prosper because they do. To reach them lawfully is not an easy task, but, as Mr. Johnson says, it constitutes "one of the problems that confront the legal profession in discharge of the duties it owes to the community."

LADIES AT THE BAR.

Many of the old timers have viewed the new barrooms with a dismay which does not come entirely from a critical judgment against the barroom itself, but the fact is to be noted as follows: The 18th amendment prohibiting the sale of intoxicating beverages was ratified Jan. 16, 1919. The 19th amendment declaring that the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be abridged on account of sex was ratified Aug. 26, 1920. After the old barroom passed out the new voters came in. The ladies who now step up to the bar are not only ladies but they are voters. The distinction may be important. The bars are up again, but they are also down. The lady has followed her boy friend to the polls and now she follows him to the barroom.

It may even be expected that ladies of the utterly dry profession would be among those to insist that if anybody is going into a saloon the ladies are going there and that they are not to be deprived on account of sex of any privileges, whether regarded as deplorable or not, which the men claim for themselves. The 21st amendment did not repeal the 19th. The barroom phenomenon may be shocking to the old fashioned Tory gentleman, but so also was the phenomenon of mothers of families being sent to jail for stuffing ballot boxes and juggling the election returns.

The old fashioned Tory gentleman didn't want the ladies exposed to the corruption of politics, being convinced that the said corruption was divinely instituted as a man's job. There was a more liberal idea that when the ladies were given the vote and the militant forces of purity marched to the polls all would be well where much had been wrong. Somehow or other the thing didn't quite happen that way, and for the most part the elections, although getting more voters, got about the same results. It is now supposed in some quarters that the ladies marching into the barrooms will purify them and give a refining influence to an institution that never put itself forward as being much on that side. Again, this may be wishful thinking, although it springs from an eternally hopeful view of the perfectibility of the human race.

Here, as in so many other things, it is difficult to determine whether mortals are being raised to the sky or angels are being dragged down. If an attempt is made to keep the ladies out of the taproom by passing laws against them the courts may have an interesting case.

CONTEMPT PROCEEDINGS.

The governor would do well, we think, to include in his call to the legislature the subject of the contempt process. It has been in need of reconsideration and restraint for a good many years. Organized labor has protested against its use or abuse in industrial controversies, in some instances justifiably. During the dry régime it was employed to avoid jury trial and to permit summary action against the property rights of citizens on behalf of a bigoted and oppressive interpretation of the dry laws. It is being used and threatened in the alimony racket.

These applications of the doctrine of contempt ought to be corrected by explicit amendment in the interest of justice and public policy. They are often serious injuries to the individual and generally tend to bring the courts and the law into discredit. The powers of equity judges in this procedure should be better defined and limited in the public interest.

RAILROAD RENAISSANCE.

The year 1934 promises to usher in a period of railway achievement carried forward from important beginnings in the year 1933. As usual, the railways will make their first bid for additional passenger business, but there are already rumblings of major changes in the attitude of the carriers toward their freight schedules.

The southern and southwestern lines were the pioneers in the matter of reduced passenger fares. Experiments with schedules based on 2 cents per mile at first did not show encouraging results, but the passenger men persisted with even lower bases. "We must commence at the bottom," as one representative expressed it.

Now some of these fare reductions are commencing to show desired results. The Traffic World has summarized a few of the outstanding improvements in a recent issue. In the Asheville-Charlotte-Salisbury district, where the basic fare of 1½ cents per mile for coach transportation was made effective in January, 1933, ticket sales for September showed an increase of 516 per cent over September, 1932, with increased revenues of 171 per cent. In another sector the October, 1933, increase was 818 per cent in sales and 216 per cent in revenue. The actual number of tickets sold in October, 1933, was 5,355, as compared with 583 in October, 1932.

Editorial of the Day

THE POINT OF DANGER.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

President Roosevelt's frank admission that the regular federal budget is out of balance by more than a billion dollars is admirable fairness to the nation. The time is rapidly approaching when it will become impossible longer to conceal the nation's huge indebtedness by spreading it through several budgets classified as regular and emergency.

The nation's taxpayers should understand exactly where they are. When the public understands the extent of government spending a halt is very likely to be called, if it is apparent that the nation is headed for the shoals. The depression was brought on by overexpansion of credit and there are many persons who think that the remedy from evils created by this overstretching of credit is not to be found in new orgies of spending.

As the government and congress undertake the work of polishing off the budget for the new year, it is revealed that the federal public works administration is in effect bankrupt. Secretary Ickes believes that three billion more will be enough to carry out the new program he has in mind. Relief Administrator Hopkins, who is in charge of the civil works program, estimates that he will need $100,000,000 to carry the CWA through to February. In six months the federal deficit is in a fair way of mounting to three billions. Just where these added billions are coming from remains for congress to decide. Of course, they are credit billions, but therein lies the danger. The peril of printing press inflation is not in the President's gold buying or silver coinage programs but in the overextension of credit through vast government expenditures.

NOW LOOK WHAT'S GOING TO HAPPEN!

The way our American language is going to look in a few years' time if this alphabet three letter thing keeps on will be something awful! It started out gently with NRA and then suddenly up jumped CWA and AAA sneaked in, and then they commenced popping all over the place. More combinations are coming into use every day, and unless something is done to stop the epidemic all the longer words in the language will be shortened to three leters and written in capitals besides. You can see yourself how lykell it's going to look:

The while my heart is straining at its lock
Of silence, that would utter terrible cries.

Lest I should bow the head or bend the knee

Bring on the bitterest hemlock you can brew.
I tell you fairly I am false to you.

SIXTEEN AND A HALF BILLION! Sixteen and a half billion is asked in the government budget. It's a good thing that Uncle Sam isn't the kind of man that jumps out of seventeen story windows. But they'd better not let him go up in the Washington monument at that.

"IT IS SILLY," says our Congressman Fred Britten, "for the CWA to have men standing on a street corner counting pedestrians or painting new numbers on buildings." Sch! Sch! Mr. Britten, not so loud! If the CWA hears you they may change things around and make their workers count the buildings on the corners and paint the street numbers on the pedestrians.

Better take up boxing, sister.
When he tells you pretty lies,
Close your eyes, dear, close your eyes.
When he rages, be quite meek,
Keep your tongue within your cheek.
Weep quite often, don't forget,
You're the weaker sex, my pet!
But if you're clever and astute . . .

NEW OPERATION FOR OLD TROUBLE.

A GROUP of Boston physicians has been doing some surgery in a field that is new. This surgery opens up possibilities that were not the objectives of the operations undertaken. The operation consisted in the complete removal of the thyroid gland. It was done in certain cases of dropsy caused by heart diseases. In these cases compensation had broken, the heart could not keep the blood circulating properly, there was congestion, and in consequence the tissues were waterlogged. The immediate danger was due to waterlogging of the lungs. Cases were chosen because there was enough vitality to withstand the shock of operation but in which the heart was unable to keep the tissues supplied with all the needed blood.

The theory was as follows: The thyroid determines the rate at which the tissues use up the fuel supplied them through the blood. Removal of this gland would cause something of a myxedema. In this disease the metabolism is low. The crippled heart should be able to supply enough blood when metabolism is low, although it is unequal to the task when it is high. Therefore, removal of the thyroid, in appropriate cases, should cause the dropsy to disappear and the waterlogged lungs to work better.

This appears to have been the result in a small number of cases operated on. The myxedema produced was not so bad but that the person got along fairly well, and the effects on the circulation, the heart, and the dropsy were more than enough to compensate.

The new ground to which all this may apply is arteriosclerosis, or high blood pressure. The theory on which the suggestion is based is that an increased metabolism lies at the basis of arteriosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries. There is a trend toward the opinion that high blood pressure is a compensation process—an effect—and unless we can do something to remove the cause the patient does better if no direct attention is paid to the pressure.

The theory of the proposed method of treating high blood pressure by removal of the thyroid is that slowing down of the metabolism may make it possible for the heart and arteries to do the work required of them even though they are crippled.

Another argument is that emotional disturbance causes high blood pressure in some cases and contributes to it in others, and persons with mild myxedema are stolid and unemotional.

It is not argued that removal of the thyroid is an ideal method of treating high blood pressure. A far better way would be to use a method of antidoting the thyroid secretion by the use of some medicine and, in that way, bringing about a mild, temporary myxedema. By continued use of the drug the effect could be kept up after it had been standardized.

Unfortunately we do not now have any drug that has just the effect desired. It has happened more than once that the use of surgical methods has blazed the way for methods of medical treatment.

SEVERAL POSSIBILITIES.

Mrs. R. F. writes: When my 3½ year old boy gets overtired he jumps in his sleep. When he exhales and then inhales he seems to choke and then cry a while before going to sleep. Is that his heart? He sleeps an hour in the afternoon. When he wakes up he cries a couple of hours and then belches gas. After that he seems to be all right. Is this indigestion?

He can't stand anything around his neck, like a scarf or his cap buttoned under his neck. It makes him vomit.

REPLY.

Several possibilities should be considered. The best guess is obstruction to breathing due to enlarged tonsils and adenoids. Another one is bad dreams, the result of fear. Has the child been told ghost stories? I wonder how much of a factor is nervousness resulting from too much attention.

ADHESIONS.

G. M. writes:

1. What causes adhesions around the intestines?

2. What is your advice to one who is 60 and has the trouble?

REPLY.

1. A previous attack of peritonitis is much the most frequent and important cause.

2. What is advisable for one person may not be so for another. There is some danger of strangulation caused by adhesions. They may cause reverse peristalsis and other disagreeable symptoms. These considerations may make operation advisable. However, the results of operation are often disappointing. New adhesions form to replace old ones. Symptoms disappear and later reappear. In many cases it is better to adjust oneself to the discomfort caused by adhesions, and to let it go at that.

CORPORATION RECORDS.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a small shareholder of the capital stock of a concern incorporated under the laws of the state of Illinois. 1. What procedure must I follow in order to be allowed to examine the books of the company? 2. Can I do this in person, just by applying at the office and demanding access to said records, showing my certificate of ownership? 3. How many years back is it permissible to examine these records?

B. R.

1. Notify the company of your desire to that effect.
2. Yes.
3. Depends on their availability and other factors bearing on the reasonableness of your request. We would not expect the courts to uphold you on a demand that was made merely on the desire to make trouble.

PROVISIONS OF WILL.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Several years ago my mother made a will stating that at her death her property was to be sold and my sister, brother [both married] and myself [single] were to receive a certain amount of money. Last year, however, my mother asked me to share a joint tenancy with her on this property. 1. In this case does the will remain valid? 2. Do I, at my mother's death, have to pay my sister and brother the amount stipulated in the will?

R. M. B.

1. If your mother dies before you do, the joint tenancy property would be yours and the will would be ineffective as to it.
2. Not unless it can be proved that you had agreed to this effect in such a way as to make you a trustee. It seems probable that the necessary proof could not be made.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN.—It is frequently claimed that there are more Irish people in New York than there are in Ireland. This age-old paradox seems likely to hold no longer if the present stream of returning emigrants continues to flow at the rate recorded by the registrar general for the Free State in his report for last year. The tide of emigration has definitely ceased and the return of Irish people is increasing from year to year.

The registrar's figures show that from 1864 to 1871 there was an annual emigration to America and other parts of the world of 74,881 persons. This fell in the intercensal period, 1911-'26, to 26,946, while in 1930 it was down to 12,907. In 1931 only 1,462 persons left the country and in 1932 a mere 811.

The return of the tide was first noticed in 1931, when 2,545 returned emigrants were registered. In 1932 the figure was 4,173. For the current year the number will be still higher.

The total population for the Irish Free State at the end of 1932 was estimated at 2,974,000, an increase over the previous year of 17,000 persons. This is not exclusively due to returning nationals. Officially the increase is attributed to the fact that "emigration has declined to such an extent that the excess of births over deaths is allowed to have its natural effect; at the same time immigration has increased and now exceeds loss by emigration."

At the same time it appears that the birth rate for 1932 was the lowest ever recorded. It was 846 below the births of the previous year and 3,773 below the average for the period 1922-'31. The birth rate for last year was 18.91 per 1,000 of the population. The rate has steadily fallen since 1864, when registration was first made compulsory. Between 1871-'80 the rate was 26.31 per 1,000, but since 1916 the decline has been rapid. The average rate for 1921-'30 was 20.21 per 1,000.

The death rate fell in 1932 to 14.15 per 1,000. The marriage rate was 4.38 per 1,000, the lowest during the present century.

The increase in population has already furnished a subject of serious concern for the Free State government. More than 80,000 persons are unemployed at present. These people cannot go on interminably living on the dole, even if the government funds were able to stand the strain.

President de Valera is seeking means to relieve the situation. Relief works are provided where possible, but these, as most governments have discovered, are no lasting remedy. They are expensive and in the end are little better than waste, since they have no permanent effect.

Plans are also being organized for setting up beet sugar factories which will give employment both in the growing of beets and in the manufacture of the finished product. Tariffs have been imposed upon nearly every article of food, clothing or luxury which can be raised within this country, and under this protection the hope of the minister for industry and commerce was that new forms of industry would spring up. This hope has not so far been justified. In almost every big venture the government has had to provide most of the capital itself.

NO EXPORTS WITHOUT IMPORTS.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—We note with interest you propose to aid manufacturers and exporters in increasing the export trade of this country, and we wish to congratulate you on the help that you will be able to render to the export trade. We take this opportunity of offering you our coöperation, and if there is anything we can do to assist you in this plan we will be very glad to do so. Our members represent about one hundred twenty-five manufacturing concerns located in Chicagoland who are doing an export business, and who appreciate the difficulties that exporters in the last two or three years have been up against.

The writer, incidentally, represents about a half dozen Chicago automotive parts firms doing an export business, and while this business in the last few months has shown a considerable increase due to the decline in the dollar, nevertheless he is not overenthusiastic about the difficulties that may be encountered in the near future insofar as obtaining payment for shipments of goods is concerned.

If we continue to increase our export business without a corresponding increase in imports, and every manufacturer must begin to realize we cannot have one way traffic, the time will come when the obtaining of dollars abroad will be so difficult it will be practically impossible to obtain payment in dollars and we will then reach a condition similar to what came up in countries like Chile and Bulgaria, and even Argentina.

In those countries exchange became so difficult to obtain that accounts became blocked, and in Argentina in particular it was necessary for a number of manufacturers to take payment in fifteen year 2 per cent Argentine treasury certificates, and thus in this way Argentina practically secured a loan of about $36,000,000 from the export interests in this country at a very low rate of interest.

The writer feels that the manufacturers in this section of the country should certainly begin to realize the importance of import as well as export.

Assuring you of our desire to be of assistance in any way possible, we are,

M. R. DORMITZER,
Secretary, Export Managers' Club of Chicago.

LEGAL STATUS OF CRANE COLLEGE.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—It is a little hard to understand the mental processes of the one who speaks of Crane Junior college as "maintained with questionable legal authority," as is done in the pamphlet entitled "Our Schools Must Not Close," which was distributed to all the pupils of the schools before they closed for the holidays. [Incidentally, it would be interesting to know how many thousands of the people's money were squandered in preparing this apology.] It requires only the briefest of memories to recall that the bill distinctly legalizing Crane was passed in special session of the legislature and signed by Gov. Emmerson Dec. 9, 1931. And for those whose ideal of public education is still the little red schoolhouse it may be worth while to state that there are over 400 municipal colleges, some with complete four year courses, scattered over the country, and public policy has always been considered a sufficient excuse for their existence.

Another error was made in speaking of the junior college as "the most costly branch of school activity." The cost per student was lowered from $190 to $140 in the first half of 1933, and this is about that in the technical schools, and 62.5 per cent lower than in another school which was retained without question. It was about half the cost of educating pupils in the state university, and for the 3,500 pupils in the entire college amounted to some 20 cents out of each $100 of taxes.

Can this be called an expensive project?

E. M. SUNDAY.

EXCESSIVE WAGES!

Madison, Wis., Jan. 1.—How long are we going to let this administration throw our money around in this wasteful fashion? It is nothing short of a bribe to pay two prices for labor, and at that a lot of it is wasted effort.

I have no objection to seeing my money used to relieve want, and give a man a job, even though it benefits the community very little. But give a wage in line with what we who have worked hard and supported this government and ourselves are getting.

A lot of us taxpayers are going to have to figure mighty close to pay our taxes, while a lot of spendthrifts and ne'er-do-wells are getting twice as much as they ever did before, and four times what they earn. Can't we get out an injunction and inject a little common sense into the powers that be?

It looks as if they were just using their powers to entrench the present administration. They are undermining our independence, debauching our manhood, and destroying the very qualities that have made America. Must we sit still and let this drunken spree go on?

I voted for Roosevelt, so you may say I had better keep still. But you remember Rastus, who wanted a divorce: "Why?" asked the judge. "You took this woman for better or for worse."

"Yes," said Rastus, "but, judge, she is wusser than I took her for."

A LIQUOR CODE IN OUTLINE.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Here in outline is a plan for the sale of hard liquor which permits every man to get his drink but avoids the perils of the old saloon:

A. Selling by the drink.

2. The booth, in size for one man only, must open on the public street or alley. The entrance may be closed by a door. No other opening except the pigeonhole.

3. The booth, to be supplied by the state, should be made of sheet steel and uniform in pattern and price.

4. An annual state tax and an annual local license fee on each booth.

5. Business hours at the option of the owners.

B. Selling in closed containers.

1. Containers not to be opened on the premises.

2. An annual state and local license fee.

C. Only reliable men to receive licenses.

D. Misdemeanors.

1. Renting rooms for drinking parties.

2. Habitually allowing drinking parties on the premises.

E. Other details to be worked out.

Simon on Way Home with Report on Parleys.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 5.—British political activity, which was suspended during the Christmas holidays, will be resumed next week. Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon will return from France and Italy tomorrow. On Monday morning he will report to Prime Minister MacDonald upon the results of his efforts in those countries to effect a solution of the international disarmament deadlock and the crisis in the league of nations.

A series of cabinet meetings will be held during the week, at which the European situation will be discussed as well as plans for the domestic program when parliament meets Jan. 29.

Italy Wants Action.

As far as Simon has reported to London, he got nothing very specific in his travels, but he is now fully aware of both the French and Italian viewpoints. The Italian viewpoint, which is closer to the British than the French, is that what is wanted now is action and it is no use trying to get action in situations where some measure of agreement is not immediately possible.

Premier Mussolini, and the British agree with him, holds that disarmament is the first and most important question to be settled. He desires a formula under which France and Germany would compromise in their demands.

Both the Italians and British, after a careful study of the recent French memorandum to Germany, felt that it is a long step in the right direction and that it reveals a willingness by France to go farther if it is assured security and German good faith.

Hitler Takes Realistic View.

Recent German statements also show that Chancellor Hitler is taking a realistic view and there are strong hopes that Italy and Great Britain may succeed in acting as mediators between the ancient enemies and secure an agreement which will go far to assuring peace in Europe and the world.

On the league of nations question Simon is believed to have persuaded Mussolini to go slow and instead of withdrawing from the league to make a patient effort at inside reform of its constitution to make it a more useful organ of international relations than it has been.

The great stumbling block is the unanimity rule, under which the smallest nation can defeat any amendment to the constitution which all the others desire. This actually happened one time when a slight amendment was defeated by the vote of Persia alone.

Italy Balks at Renewing Parley.

ROME, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Italy bluntly set forth today its position against fixing a definite date for going ahead with the Geneva disarmament conference.

An article published in the evening press over the signature of Virginio Gayda, recognized as a semi-official spokesman, said direct arms negotiations among the various powers must continue indefinitely.

"It is not yet time to think of transferring disarmament activity back to Geneva," it said, "and much less to fix a definite date for its resumption."

The article, published as Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, was traveling to London to report to his government on talks yesterday and on Wednesday with Premier Mussolini, was taken as revealing the position Italy will assume when the arms conference steering committee will meet in Geneva on Jan. 22 to decide whether the disarmament parley should be called into session.

Chamber Demands Bigger Navy.

Armaments occupied the attention of the chamber of deputies this afternoon when it met with Premier Mussolini to consider the war and navy budget.

A report on the latter declared that even though they were limited by the Washington and London naval treaties, the great powers, including the United States, are now concentrating on dangerous construction programs.

Speakers emphasized Italy's need for aircraft carriers and new naval bases to assure the maintenance of its place in the world's lineup.

Undersecretary of War Gen. Baistrocche, speaking on the war budget, said Italy's program of military instruction of youths "will convert us into a prepared and educated nation regarding military matters."

NEW BLAST HALTS RESCUE WORK IN CZECH COAL MINE

DUX [Duchcov], Czechoslovakia, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Another explosion, deep underground, shook the Nelson III mine this morning where 129 men still were entombed after an explosion two days ago. Rescue work was abandoned by order of the engineers in charge, who decided to seal both the shafts with masonry.

The underground blast today was followed with a dense cloud of smoke and steam and it was feared the rescue crews, who have worked day and night, might be trapped in a new catastrophe if they were permitted to continue their labors.

Authorities said they hoped the bodies of the entombed men, for whom all hope has been abandoned, might be recovered at some future time. Only four of the 144 miners who were working underground Wednesday reached the surface alive. Eleven bodies were recovered.

German Steamer Sunk by 'Hit and Run' Ship; 1 Dead

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 5.—(AP)—One man drowned today when the German steamer Ceres, a 660 ton vessel, sank off the Hook of Holland after a collision in the fog with the British ship Chagres. The British ship, apparently unaware of the seriousness of the collision, proceeded toward England. With the exception of the one man all of the Ceres' crew were rescued in lifeboats.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—The Chevrolet Motor company, leader in sales volume in the last three years, tomorrow will announce its 1934 models. H. K. Bragle, Chicago zone manager, is opening exhibits with entertainment in the Sherman, Edgewater Beach and Chicago Beach hotels tomorrow.

This afternoon, M. E. Coyle, president and general manager of Chevrolet, told of the prices and merchandising plans for the new year and James M. Crawford, the company's chief engineer, took thi sreporter for a ride over city streets and country roads and for a walk through the engineering laboratories to demonstrate and to explain the improvements built into the 1934 models.

Sloan Tells of Price Raise.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, announced several weeks ago that prices would be raised about 15 per cent due to NRA increases in cost of labor and materials. The list price F. O. B. Detroit, of the 1934 Chevrolet will be up about 14 per cent.

"But the price to the public will be up an average of only eight per cent," Mr. Coyle related. "In Chicago, the boost on a standard coach is but 6.2 per cent. The dealers, just like the factory, are shaving their profits to assure Chevrolet of continued leadership in sales volume.

"A price increase was unavoidable due to the NRA hikes in wage rates and materials. But our engineers have made improvements in the car that obviously compensate the buyer many times for his additional investment.

1934 Model Has Knee Action.

The 1934 Chevrolet has "knee action" different from the independently sprung front wheels seen on cars previously announced. The wheel base is 112 inches, two inches longer than last year, and with four inches more interior length. A new high compression cylinder head, combined with refinements in carburetion and manifolding, has boosted the power output from 65 to 80 horses and the top speed from 70 to 80 miles an hour.

'This engine with 80 horsepower," said Engineer Crawford, "is the same size as the one we used in 1929 with a maximum output of 45 horsepower. But the big improvement in 1934 models is in the ride, and you have to ride to appreciate this."

In the research laboratory garage was a 1934 sedan parked beside its 1933 predecessor. In appearance the new car was similar to the older, although the radiator shell and the hood were larger and the fenders and tires bigger.

Springs Hold Car Rigid.

With one hand on the 1934 front bumper, he rocked the front end. On the 1933 the springs held the car rigid.

"On the last year's model," Mr. Crawford said, "it took 345 pounds pressure to deflect the front springs 1 inch. In this year's model it takes but 115 pounds. It gives a softer ride. The periodicity of oscillation on the 1933s was 130 cycles per minute; on the 1934s, 75 to 80 cycles per minute."

Mr. Crawford drove 40 miles an hour over the wavy asphalt of 2d boulevard. There was none of the sharp pitching usually experienced in a light automobile. The car rose and fell slowly, gently, on an even keel. On the wavy asphalt of the six mile road he drove 60 miles an hour with the same results. On the smooth concrete of the eight mile road the speedometer reached 84 miles an hour with the car holding steady on the pavement and true to its course.

Ready to Meet Competition.

"It's these soft front springs," said Mr. Crawford. "Each of the front wheels is attached independently to the frame. There is no front axle. Coil springs and shock absorbers are encased in a sturdy steel housing and this mechanism operates in a bath of oil.

"The 1934 models are distinguished by outstanding advancements in comfort, and Chevrolet is ready to meet all competition on this issue."

PROMISE PENNSY TRUCKS WILL NOT USE SHERIDAN RD.

Residents of the north shore suburbs need have no fear that the Willett company, motor truck operators, which is asking the Illinois commerce commission to permit it to operate trucks in Sheridan road, will mean the extension of the Pennsylavnia railroad's store door delivery service into their territory, according to John C. Rill, general manager of the western region of the railroad.

"The railroad is permitted to provide 'store to door' service only to the immediate territory which it serves," said Mr. Rill yesterday. "So it could not inaugurate this new type of service in the north shore territory, even if it desired. Collections and deliveries of railroad freight by the Willett company are made only within the corporate limits of Chicago."

The railroad owns a 30 per cent stock interest in the Willett company. Howard L. Willett, president of the firm, added yesterday that the company itself has no intention of running through freight to and from Waukegan and North Chicago factories over Sheridan road, even if the commission grants a permit.

"If we use Sheridan road at all," said Mr. Willett, "it will be only for local deliveries in the north shore suburbs."

Ex-Coroner of Sangamon Kills Himself at Joliet

Scott Walter, 58 years old, coroner of Sangamon county from 1916 to 1920, yesterday shot and killed himself in the La Salle hotel at Joliet. A suicide note indicated that he feared insanity. Walter served as coroner from 1916 to 1920. He also had been an investigator for the Illinois Bankers' association, an inspector for the state board of health, and a guard at Joliet penitentiary.

BOOKS

These Novels Are Kind Used for Relaxation

'L'Affaire Jones' Is Satire on Frenchmen.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"L'Affaire Jones," by Hillel Bernstein. [Stokes.]

"Sea Level," by Anne Parrish. [Harpers.]

RATIONS thrown to an after-holiday stranded world by the swift-flying presses this week include two novels which classify in the mental exercise books as "relaxing" rather than tensing to the muscles of the mind. They are both ultra skillful in their methods and in no wise stirring emotionally. Perfect manna for that inevitable feeling of "what's the use of it all, when time is fleeting and the Christmas bills are piling."

"L'Affaire Jones" comes to us with gaudy plaudits from England and the indorsement of the Literary Guild which chose it as their January offering. Intrigued and amused by the blood-boiling that the French are capable of over "L'Affaire Dreyfus," "L'Affaire Caillaux," "L'Affaire Daudet," etc., Mr. Bernstein, who was an American newspaper correspondent in Europe for some years, conceived the idea of a satirical novel about an affaire. The hero of "L'Affaire Jones" is an American from Georgia escaping in rage from his family who sneer at his culinary supremacy with cornpone-and-potlikker. Determined on revenge he goes to France to assemble recipes which will make Georgia potlikker taste like what it sounds like. Through a mischance a newspaper friend of his, slightly lit, picks up the coat belonging to a Frenchman and leaves his own in its place. In the pocket is the card of Our Hero and his address.

The wife of the injured Frenchman batters into Jones' room, accuses him of the theft and in less minutes than it takes me to write these words the situation has taken on grander proportions, and there is much talk of la patrie and Verdun and la belle France, the police arrive, and Our Hero finds himself in a French prison accused of being a spy.

How the evidence piles up against him, how he is rescued with the leading communist and the leading royalist deputies who are also political prisoners, and what comes of the rescuing is hilarity with guffaws. Our Hero finds himself unwittingly a participant in a vast Mystical Busters convention of Americans so stirred by the success of the American Legion convention in Paris that they have arrived thousands strong.

While the whole of France is searching for the great international spy, Jones, he parades down the streets of Paris. What happens then and why you'll find in the roistering pages of "L'Affaire Jones." Satire of the most boisterous kind is in them, satire of the French and the visiting American temperaments alike, and I, for one, think it's out and out funny. And it's so much the kind of funniness that the French themselves admire that it was a shock to me to find that it hadn't been written by a Frenchman and translated but was the work of an American trained newspaper man who once belonged to the Paris staff of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"Sea Level" is at the opposite end of the scale of satire. . . . Anne Parrish never—that is, never since "A Pocketful of Poses"—makes out and out fun of her characters and their foibles, but she understands them so subtly and whips off, with such skilled fingers, the veils of pretense that either hide or adorn them, that she really satirizes humankind by telling the truth about them.

Anne Parrish has seldom written a book that I didn't wish that I, myself, had written. [Am I glad I didn't write most of the books I read!] And "Sea Level" is no exception. Not because, in this case, it was an idea I'd had stored away against the day when I was cast on a desert isle without a newspaper press screaming for copy, but because the gathering of the material for this book fills me with keen and violent envy.

"Sea Level" is the story of an around the world cruise, and I'm about being on a boat and seeing strange countries the way most women are about diamonds and sables. And "Sea Level" is the super guide book de luxe. Anne Parrish has a seeing eye for "sights" as well as for humans.

As a record of travel "Sea Level" is superb. As a novel it seems a trifle confused—as if there were too many people too slightly sketched, types rather than individuals. But it is written with a sharp, clear perception and an understanding which is Anne Parrish's particular high gift and it celebrates the futility of man's attempts at escape from himself.

Yes, sure antidote for the after-holiday blu-hues, both "Sea Level" and "L'Affaire Jones."

Rosita Forbes, recent visitor to Chicago, seasoned and sure fire chronicler of travel, has written a brilliant, witty, and extremely thoughtful and illuminating volume on South America in her latest book, "Eight Republics in Search of a Future" [Stokes]. Its subtitle is "Evolution and Revolution in South America." She spent a year studying conditions in Brazil, Uruguay, Paraguay, Argentina, Chile, Bolivia, Peru, and Ecuador. L. A. G. Strong Finishes New Story for Boys

First Venture as Writer for Juveniles.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—L. A. G. Strong has finished a new story for boys—his first adventure in this realm—called "King Richard Land." Mr. Strong's sympathy with the young mind has been shown very clearly in "The Garden"* and "Sea Wall," and I believe that "King Richard's Land" [Dent] will be much relished.

Mr. Strong's experience, for some years before he began to publish novels, as a schoolmaster at one of the best preparatory schools in England, will be of the greatest possible service to him in writing for juvenile readers. He will not make the mistake of being too arch or too childish for those who are quick to observe and to resent insincerity, but will be honest as well as dexterous in their entertainment. A book to be kept in mind by those who seek reading for intelligent boys with a love of historical events.

Older readers will—if they care to know of past times as they really were—welcome an important new book on Samuel Pepys. This is to be published here by the Cambridge university press and is entitled "Pepys: The Man in the Making," by Arthur Bryant.†

Mr. Bryant has been able to handle not only all the hitherto suppressed passages of the diary, but all the notes collected by H. B. Wheatley and Dr. J. R. Tanner for a definitive biography of Pepys. The result will be a book serving as a complete introduction to one of the most vivid and revealing of all self-portraits, and, similarly, one of the most vivid and revealing of all historical pictures.

The novel which intellectually smart people are now reading in London is Osbert Sitwell's "Miracle on Sinai." This is a picture of the current fashion and its absurdities, as witty and as merciless as any critic of fashion could wish, and as well written as Mr. Sitwell's admirers expect. It is published by Duckworth.

Fifty Poets Select Their Own Works in This Auto-Anthology

"Fifty Poets," edited by William Rose Benet [Duffield & Green], is a volume which every one interested in American poetry must of necessity own, for it is the first American "Auto-Anthology." It contains the poem which each of fifty-one [I'll explain the extra one later] outstanding poets has chosen among his or her own work as the one by which he or she [there are sixteen lady bards present] wishes most to be remembered. And in addition, in most cases, the poet has explained the mood or circumstance of its creation.

Absolutely collector's stuff . . . Their choices and their expositions are an insight into the poets clearer, in many cases, than volumes of critical word peddling. Mr. Benet gives just enough critical comment on each poet to make him a human being as well as a miracle man with words.

About that fifty-first . . . He is George Dillon, late of Chicago, now traveling in Europe on a Guggenheim fellowship. He was so busy getting everything he could out of his Europe that Mr. Benet's letter was criss crossed with forwarding addresses before it reached its destination. Only after the gates had been locked did George Dillon's contribution knock at them. It was joyously admitted.

Issue New Printings of Two Volumes by Nobel Prize Winner

To celebrate the crowning of his sixth author by the golden laurel wreath of the Nobel Prize for Literature Alfred A. Knopf has brought out new printings of two volumes by Ivan Bunin, winner of this year's award. "The Gentleman from San Francisco" a collection of fifteen famous short stories, first published in 1923, and "The Village" a novel published for the first time in translation for America that same year.

M. Bunin is a Russian, who now lives in France. In the days of the czar [he is 63 years of age] he was given the Pushkin prize, the highest academic distinction of his day for his early poems on Russia and [oddly enough] for his translation into Russian of Henry W. Longfellow's "Hiawatha." His latest novel, "The Well of Days" was recently published in an English translation in England and will probably reach us before long.

Issue Catalog for McCormick Sale in Chicago

Mansion Will Be Open for Public Inspection.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Edith Rockefeller McCormick's personal and household effects, numbering 1,064 articles and ranging from a foreign pedigreed plum colored brougham to white enamel bathroom scales, will go under the hammer at the two public sales ordered here by the Chicago Title and Trust company, executor of the estate, within the next fortnight.

A buff colored catalogue listing the articles, many of them objets d'art, was issued by the American Art association yesterday through Michael Tauber & Co. During this week-end the book will reach recognized collectors throughout the middle west.

Preceded by an exhibit opening at 10 o'clock next Wednesday morning and continuing through Saturday, the auction at Mrs. McCormick's town mansion, 1000 Lake Shore drive, will be held the afternoons and evenings of Jan. 16 and 17. This sale will be followed by an exhibit Jan. 18 and 19 and an auction the afternoon of Jan. 20 at the Italian country residence Mrs. McCormick once dominated—Villa Turicum in Lake Forest.

Admission of $10 for Sale in Town.

To avoid overcrowding, also to limit the attendance of the idly curious, $10 will be asked at the door as admission to the city auction. One dollar will be the charge for a trip through the gray stone house on exhibition days. The auction admission will later be applied on purchases made. In Lake Forest, however, entrance to both the exhibit and sale will be free of charge.

The current New York auction disproving the belief that members of Mrs. McCormick's family would buy entirely through agents, Chicago society expressed increased interest yesterday in the sales here.

Those with money will go for the purpose of buying, while those whose fortunes have shrunk below the collector's level will attend to see what the McCormick family buys back, also what their friends acquire. Harold F. McCormick, the former husband, will be present at the first session, it is reported. During the last week at least three Astor street families have been granted private previews of certain pieces in which they are interested.

Homes Arranged as She Used Them.

As the result of weeks of unpacking, cleaning, and arranging, both the Lake Shore drive house and Villa Turicum have been restored by representatives of the American Art association to the exact manner in which Mrs. McCormick ordered them furnished and arranged during her occupancy. The chairs in the Empire room of the town house, for instance, are set in the intimate circles she always preferred. The dining room is arranged as if for service. This has been accomplished through the helpful assistance of the young woman who was private secretary to Mrs. McCormick, and who, by order of the Title and Trust company, has continued to live in the mansion since her death.

Of particular feminine interest in the town auction will be the exquisite linens—towels, pillow slips, sheets, tablecloths, and napkins—that will be offered in group lots at the first two sessions on Jan. 16. When inventory

Muriel Outbid at Auction of Dinner Service

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The famous gilded silver dinner service which Napoleon I. gave his sister, Pauline—and for which Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick many years later paid $80,000—was broken up today and sold at auction.

Muriel and her husband, Maj. Elisha Dyer Hubbard, offered $20,000 for the service as a whole. But the auctioneers also took bids on the individual items, and these amounted to $57,565. The Hubbards came away with only one of the pieces—a gilt and crystal "epergne" or three storied bonbon dish.

Despite pouring rain, the auction room was crowded again today with the curious melée of Park avenue bargain hunters and antique dealers that has been in attendance all week. Elderly dowagers in Queen Mary hats braved the weather to get to the auction room half an hour early.

A stocky, youngish man who slipped into a seat almost unobserved readily identified himself as Edwin Krenn, the Swiss architect who went to Chicago as Mrs. McCormick's constant social escort and business adviser.

He was in New York on business, he said, and "just came to see." The sale of Mrs. McCormick's effects under such circumstances was "cutting my heart out," he said, twisting his hands. He kept his gaze riveted on Mrs. Hubbard, but did not speak to her, and left the auction room very soon, buying nothing.

Though the silver service was the high point of the sale, more than $32,000 was paid for Mrs. McCormick's linens and laces alone. Bidding was so spirited that several times when an article was sent back to be resold the second price was higher than the first.

Linen and lace bed sheets went for as much as $425 per sheet and pillow case, and some one paid $150 for one lace handkerchief.

The laces were museum pieces and had been on exhibition at museums in Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Buffalo, and other cities. F. L. Belin paid $4,000 for a point de Venise lace banqueting cloth, and H. H. Grinnell gave $3,300 for a 17th century lace coverlet.

Mrs. Hubbard bought one lace coverlet—a simple little thing—for $375, and lost another when it was put on a second time and bid from $2,000 up to $2,900.

The breaking up of the silver service marked the end of one of those fabulous collections of the gilded age. Napoleon presented it to his sister, Pauline, and her husband, Prince Camillo Borghese. For almost a century and a third the collection has been a unit. It consisted of 1,600 pieces and contained 11,700 ounces of precious metal.

Today it went piece by piece into Park avenue homes and antique shops, and some of it went back to Paris. Mrs. William Goadby Loew paid $5,100 for six pairs of "salieres"—salt dishes to the laity.

A French dealer paid $1,100 for one gilded silver soup tureen, $1,250 for another just like it, and $1,400 for a pair of candelabra. The twins of these candelabra went for $1,500 to an agent for a private buyer.

Dinner plates were sold for $50 and $55 each, and 107 identical plates brought a total of $4,825. Toward the end prices slumped, and teaspoons went for a song as the crowd thinned out.

As the auctioneer announced that the total of the individual sales was far greater than the bid of Maj. and Mrs. Hubbard, they bid in one last item which was not even part of the collection—a cut glass tureen for which they paid $30.

The most valuable of Mrs. McCormick's tapestries, jades, and antique English silver will go on sale tomorrow, after which the auction will be transferred to her Chicago home.

Enjoying Her First Party Frock

In her first real party frock, with stars in her hair and her ears, young Miss Sally Newton was dancing with Robert Clift when this picture was taken at one of the dances given for the school girls and boys during the holidays. Vacations are ending this week, however, and school books and basketball or hockey will occupy the time of the young people who had such a gay holiday season and late dancing parties will be only memories until another vacation period comes along.

IF you went to the Harvard Instrumental club's concert at Orchestra hall recently you recall the youth who performed various skillful stunts between musical numbers. He juggled, and rode a large bicycle wheel, and performed diverse entertaining feats. Well, Margaret Fisher of Winnetka says a young woman in the audience commented to her escort in wonderment:

IT was at a recent fashionable christening. There were two babies being christened and four young godfathers stood at the baptismal font. The minister charged them with their responsibility and adjured them to renounce all pomp and the devil. Then he inquired:

"There are only nine since repeal, aren't there?" worried one young godfather.

MRS. MAC writes that life still holds compensations. She and the mister dropped into a small family tavern on South Ashland avenue New Year's eve and gave the old year a really good send-off, spending only about $2 doing it. She adds:

"We had highballs, supper, music, and good fellowship. At midnight the young folks as well as the old marched around singing and shaking hands. They exchanged old-fashioned greetings, too. And after two hours the mister and I wended our way home feeling rosy and wozzy. Although we lost all our temporal possessions in 1933, we entered 1934 with high good hopes.

"Sing out, Dick, just like your father," he said.

He has stalked cats and humans through the crawling savannahs of South America. But tonight he sauntered about Manhattan and marveled at civilization.

He learned to hunt them with bow and arrow and a spear, like the natives do.

Seimel was a tradesman in Buenos Aires until his brother was assassinated by an unidentified planter.

"I set out to find the man and avenge the death," said he. "It's the law of the jungle."

"For eight years I searched. Finally I found him dying at a plantation. He begged me to kill him before his disease brought an agonizing death.

Miss Pickford Retains Good Stage Manner

Technique Is Preserved Through Years in Films.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Mary Pickford returned to the footlights of this city, after twenty years as the apple of the motion picture camera's eye, in the Chicago theater yesterday. With majestic effects projected from the magic lantern booth as a prelude, she appeared in a playlet that represents a condensation of "The Church Mouse," a comedy that has been acted on Broadway by Ruth Gordon and in Chicago by Louise Groody.

Although she is a winsome little lady whose fame has been based on feminine charm rather than emotional vigor, Miss Pickford does not permit the vastness of the Chicago theater to overwhelm her. She makes herself heard and understood by clarity and precision of diction—proof that her long career in the cinema studios has not caused her to forget or lose proficiency in the technique of the stage, which she began to practice at the age of 5. She also communicates her picture personality—that suggestion of a composite photograph of the nicest and sweetest girls in town which has been the box-office appeal of a long catalogue of photoplays.

"The Church Mouse," in full length form, demands a grotesque quality, a mousiness and grubbiness and sly, hungry alertness of its heroine. But as adapted for Miss Pickford's vaudeville appearances, the character has lost these traits. She is merely Our Mary, a dear little stenog in a gray business dress, looking for a job and wheedling a cynical banker into giving her employment.

If comparisons were in order, one would have to announce that both Louise Groody and Ruth Gordon were much better "church mice" than the world famous Mary. But when a full length play becomes a sketch for the four-a-day all critical standards are suspended.

Miss Pickford's associates are Robert Lowe and Harland Tucker, and her stage setting is in the elaborate cinema palace style. Apparently "The Church Mouse" isn't the entire Pickford program, for it is preceded by an effective ballet number of juvenile atmosphere and a team of adagio dancers.

Economic footnote: Theatrical trade journals report that Miss Pickford's honorarium is $14,200 a week, of which $1,700 goes to her employés.

Good Morning!

Movie fans, rallying 'round "Little Mary" yesterday on the occasion of her first personal appearance at the Chicago theater, were somewhat surprised to hear her assert that the movies had never really taken the place of the stage in her heart. Considering what she has meant to the movies—AND what the movies have meant to her—the statement is an astounding one.

It's a gallant thing Miss Pickford is doing—substituting work for worry, facing a curious, if a loving world, with chin up and a smile.

She is being enthusiastically received by banner crowds, and her little curtain speech is short and sincere, characterized by the graciousness that has always been this star's greatest personal charm. As for her playing—in one act from "The Church Mouse"—I have nothing to say. Miss Pickford belongs to Mr. Collins now.

The Chicago's feature picture is one of those brittle, sophisticated matrimonial affairs that are having such a vogue. It starts out being triangle, assumes octagonal proportions, and is, after a fashion, a sextet affair before its finish. A la this:

Mama loves Papa. Papa loves Miss Hopkins. Mama's best friend [or thinks he does]. Mama puts detectives on his trail and starts playing about with one Eric, who would like to marry Mama. Daughter gets wise to the situation and rings in her fiancé to help settle things. And so, and so, and so. . . .

The piece is light, but neatly acted and directed, and succeeds very well in distracting the attention of eager audiences who are patently at the theater this week for just one reason—that they may feast their eyes on "America's Sweetheart"—herself.

See you tomorrow!

Busy Week-end Will Appear to Be a Quiet One

BY JUDITH CASS.

SUCH a quiet week-end as this one will seem compared to the last two; but in reality it isn't going to be a quiet or dull one at all for there are all sorts of interesting affairs planned for society of all ages. The "young marrieds," who are friends of the young Potter Palmers and the Oakleigh L. Thornes, and a few of the debutantes and their beaux will dine and dance tonight as the guests of the senior Palmers at a party they will give for Miss Alice West, the junior Mrs. Palmer's cousin, who has been visiting her for the last week.

The invitation list wasn't so very long for although the Palmer apartment at 1301 Astor street is a spacious one it isn't large enough to accommodate a very large company for dancing. Miss West is leaving Monday for her home in Boston and every one who has met her is sorry to see her leave, not only because she is attractive but because she has been the raison d'être for numerous jolly parties during the time she has been here.

Debutantes Hope for Winter Weather.

The debutante crowd is hoping and praying for suitable weather for winter sports for tomorrow, for otherwise the party that Miss Jean Armstrong and her brother, Frank H. Armstrong II., are giving at the Glenview club for three debs, Miss Marie Louise Gardner, Miss Barbara Bastien, and Miss Anne Palmer, probably will turn into a dance after luncheon and as much as they love to dance they've done so much of it recently they'll relish the winter sports more.

Another party for a debutante will be the dinner and hockey party Mr. and Mrs. H. Paul Juergens will give tomorrow night for Miss Jean Hyman. Among the guests will be the Juergens' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hurley, who are just back from their wedding trip.

Color Stages a Comeback in Fashion World

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Maybe it is because we haven't been seeing great areas of color during the last few weeks, but suddenly the windows are full of eye-filling new combinations, and even more are to be found inside the shops.

One knockout street costume stresses a long tunic effect coat of old gold wool mixture . . . it is belted snappily at the normal waist line, has long, unexaggerated sleeves and swanks above a large dark brown and beige checked skirt.

Other equally disturbing but vastly smart contrasts are available. Velveteen and wide waled corduroy are coming back strong for spring contrasts . . . just now you can find some particularly luscious pastel shades that make the high notes of a proper south bound wardrobe . . . for instance, a turquoise blue dull crêpe frock is teamed with a swagger coat of turquoise blue corduroy. The corduroy is cut with the wales streaking diagonally, which is about the newest way of this fashionable fabric.

Velveteen in a fascinating deep sapphire blue goes places day or night with flesh colored, deep yellow, or chartreuse crêpe, and so on. Pick your own color contrasts—you have only to shop for them.

Faded or muted or grayed shades have been shelved. All the newest loot features clear, fresh, true colors . . . think of the possibilities for the clever clothes collector with all these glowing colors to play with . . . striped, checked, or plaid, as well as one colored dresses can be transformed daily with two of these flattering swagger coats of either diagonally cut corduroy or the benutiful new easy to wear soft velveteens.

SYNOPSIS.

Bruce Pomeroy, brought up in poverty, befriended a Russian, Boris Orleneff. In return, Orleneff, before his death, left Pomeroy an invention, which is about to make Pomeroy a millionaire. Orleneff stipulated that his brother's family, whom he considered parasites, were not to get a cent from the invention. While walking through New York's Central park one winter's morning Pomeroy is kidnaped and taken to a small island off the coast of Maine, where he is made a prisoner in a luxurious home, but kept on a starvation diet. His captor is Boris Orleneff, nephew of the inventor. Boris' cousins, Cyril and Olga Norrikoff, assisted in the abduction. They want Pomeroy to make a settlement. He refuses. Boris invites Pomeroy to join the family circle downstairs. The older members are unaware that Pomeroy is an involuntary guest. Pomeroy manages to elude his guard, Grateful, and get out of his room, but a raging storm makes escape impossible. Olga Norrikoff tells Pomeroy they are all starving. That the house was lent to them for the winter. Boris and Cyril hadn't been able to get work. Pomeroy arranges through Grateful to get food supplies from Andy Mason, the caretaker. He has fallen in love with Irma Orleneff, Boris' sister. Cyril's mother dies and his father commits suicide. Cyril had left, before the tragedy, in a leaky boat to get help from the mainland. Pomeroy asks Irma to marry him. Meanwhile in New York Herbert Schuyler, a witness to Pomeroy's abduction, comes forward. He traces the license number of the car that was used. It is owned by two brothers in Maine of good reputation. Schuyler goes to Maine to see them.

INSTALLMENT XLII.

SHIELDING A FRIEND.

The younger brother started to speak and the older one checked him.

"Walt a minute," he said quickly. "We didn't use the car Tuesday. We rode to town with a neighbor, and he brought us back."

"How about the car? Where was that?" Schuyler's heart was doing a sudden syncopation. He was on the right track. He had succeeded where the New York detective had failed. He had a sense of exultation he had not known since his football days at college.

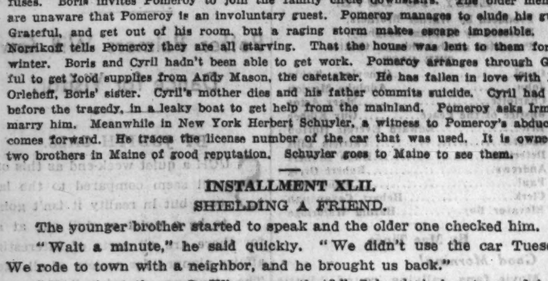
"I ain't goin' to say nothin' about the car," the elder Bradley now announced, "'cept that I lent it to a friend o' mine. If anything queer happened it was a lark. It was one of these here college stunts the newspapers is always talkin' about. I ain't goin' to discuss it, an' get my friend into trouble, p'raps, till I see him an' he tells me what happened."

"That's all right, Bradley, when we're up against a mere question of friendship and college jokes. But this isn't one of those cases," Schuyler told him with sudden severity. "This is a crime we're on the track of. Bruce Pomeroy was chloroformed or sandbagged that morning, and dumped into that automobile as if he had been a bag of meal. I didn't see just what they did to him, but I saw how he looked when they were putting his body into the car—and, believe me, boys, there was no merry jest about it. The man was unconscious, and the girl who was with the fellows that had him looked scared to death."

Bradley drew a quick breath.

"Jes the same, I don't know nothin' about it, and I ain't talkin'—yet. I may have somethin' to say later."

"I'm sure you will," Schuyler said sauvely. He rather fancied himself



"Do you realize that there may have been a murder in this case?"

now as a detective. He added, with what he had heard described as "a third degree pounce," "Do you realize that there may have been a murder in this case?"

He got his effect.

Both young men started violently and their faces turned pasty.

"God, no," said the elder, and the younger brother exclaimed simultaneously, "You better tell what you know, Owen. Looks to me like it's healthier."

"I must see a feller first," he said doggedly. "I must ask him some questions. I ain't goin' to say one word till I've done that."

"No."

"Why not?"

"What's the matter with the automobile? Can't she negotiate a few snowdrifts and some wind?"

"What is it a question of?"

"Water!" Owen snapped. "And take it from me, Mr. Schuyler, this ain't weather to be out in, in boats. There's a motor boat foundered in these waters jest the night before last," he added, clinging with determination to the new topic. "Leastways, we think one must of gone down, 'cause there's some wreckage floatin' ashore."

Schuyler was not interested in the motor boat. He was for the time a man of one idea.

"Bradley, where is that friend of yours?" he demanded peremptorily.

"Yes. But not so durned near in this weather."

"How far?"

"See here, mister, I ain't goin' to answer any more questions," Owen said suddenly.

"You're mistaken." The affable and indolent young man before him had become a very different person.

"You've answered a lot more questions already than you realize," Schuyler went on sternly, "and you'll answer more now or get into serious trouble. If you and I can't settle this little matter between ourselves I'll telephone to New York police headquarters immediately and have a couple of New York policemen sent up here. You will answer them, my lad, and you will wish that you had answered me. Think it over."

"I know now," Schuyler went on calmly, "that you lent your car to somebody Monday, and that he or they took it to New York and committed an assault on Bruce Pomeroy Tuesday morning in Central park. Then they carried off in your car his dead or unconscious body, and they must have brought it straight up here. What time did they get here Tuesday night and return the car? And where did they take that man from here?"

"I ain't talkin'."

"You will be, very soon," Schuyler predicted. "They probably got here during the night or early morning hours, and as they sailed for some island you probably met them and reclaimed your car. If you did, you must have seen their victim—the man they brought here. Did you?"

"I tell you, mister, I ain't talkin'."

"Not yet. All right. I'll talk some more myself. If they took some boat to some island after returning your car they must have taken Mr. Pomeroy with them. He's a fine young fellow and a hustling business man. So far as any one knows he hasn't an enemy in the world. But he has friends, and some of them are powerful ones who are turning New York upside down right now to find him. I'm giving you your chance to come clean. That's more than the New York police will do. With what we've got on you now they'll lock you up first and ask questions afterwards."

"No good, mister, I won't talk."

"Very well. I'm getting a bit fed up with you, but I'll give you another chance before your troubles begin. Suppose you and I take a tug or a good powerful motor boat right now and go out to that mysterious island and see your friend? I think we'll take the local constable and one of his assistants with us, just to balance the party."

"Nothin' doin'. If we're goin' out there with the police, we ain't goin'."

Schuyler looked at the young man. The latter met the look for a moment and then let his own eyes fall.

"Bradley," Schuyler said slowly, "you look like an honest man and an intelligent one."

"If you don't think I'm honest you c'n ask any one in town—at the bank or the postoffice or in any of the stores. I've lived here all my life."

Schuyler nodded.

"I have asked about you. And your record and your brother's were gone into very carefully by Detective Quinlan, who was up here Friday. He found out all there is to know about you——"

"That's right. And that's why it's so surprising to see you acting now like a fool or a criminal, or both."

Bradley was sorely tried.

"Take that back," he shouted. "I ain't a criminal, and my friends ain't, either."

Schuyler's eyes flickered but he appeared to ignore the tacit admission.

Become Popular by Cultivating Many Interests

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"How does she do it? She's been here only six months and she knows everybody!"

It's that quality of making friends easily about which Mary Louise asks.

It's a gift with some people. It's a cultivated art with others. One individual can come into a gathering and before a half hour is over be on easy social terms with every one present.

The more contacts people have the more easily comes this charming social grace. Yet some people go on for years with a large enough circle of acquaintances who never seem to be "taken in" as is the naturally social person.

You have to be a chatty sort to do the thing successfully. Without self-consciousness you must be, too, and you have to be really and truly interested in people, in what they're doing, in what's going on. You can't even be troubled for fear you're going to make a mistake taking on some one that later you may wish you hadn't.

Busy Week-end Will Appear to Be a Quiet One

Lady Honor and Henry Channon are going out to Lake Forest this afternoon to have dinner and to spend the night with the junior William E. Clows in their stunning residence on East Ridge lane. Last night Mrs. Walter R. Kirk entertained a few friends at dinner at the Casino for the Channons and today Mr. Channon's mother, Mrs. Westover Channon, is having a luncheon party of twelve at the Arts club for them.

Mr. Channon and his bride are leaving Sunday or Monday for Palm Beach and from there they will go to Nassau, returning to England the last of the month.

Mrs. Kirk's daughter, Beatrice, whose engagement to Capt. C. Ross Cuthbert was announced recently, has no definite plans for their marriage but she thinks it will be in the spring so that they can be in London for the June season on their wedding trip.

Luncheon Tomorrow for Clarence Mitchells.

The William H. Mitchells are having a luncheon party tomorrow at their home on Rosemary avenue in Lake Forest for the Clarence B. Mitchells who will spend the week-end on the north shore with the Billy Mitchells.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Mulford are to be at home to their friends from 5 to 7 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at their residence on East Delaware place.

Mr. and Mrs. George Woodruff are giving a buffet supper tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at their residence, 1500 Lake Shore drive, for members of the Chicago Grand Opera company.

This evening Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, new commander of the Sixth Corps area, and Mrs. Brown will meet several hundred Chicagoans at the reception that is being tendered them by the Cook County chapter of the Reserve Officers' association at the Army and Navy club.

Farewell Party at Harold Strotzes.

Those who had expected to sit on packing boxes and barrels at the prehousewarming that the Harold Strotzes and Mrs. Stresenreuter Butler gave yesterday afternoon were pleasantly surprised, for the Strotzes' apartment at 1244 Stone street, where the party was held, was in the same state of perfection and attractiveness as when "Hal" Strotz and the former Maxine Stresenreuter were living there.

They do not give up the apartment for another month although they and their baby son, Courtney, already have moved out to Hinsdale to be with Mrs. Butler and her three children for the late winter, spring, and summer. The guests at their farewell party were packed like sardines in the apartment, large as it is, for all of the 300 who had been bidden to it seemed to be there, and all arrived near five and none left before seven.

Society Girls Play Tennis Match Tomorrow.

Miss Helen Fulton, national girl's tennis champion in 1932, and Miss Mary Reed, the present woman's champion of the Onwentsia club, will match strokes tomorrow night in the official opening program at the Broadway Armory indoor tennis courts and of course, many of their friends will be on hand to cheer their efforts. The match will start at 8 o'clock, and after the singles Miss Fulton will pair with George Ball, Northwestern university junior star, to play Miss Reed and Charles Garland, former American Davis cup captain, in mixed doubles.

Grandson Born on Silver Wedding Day.

One of the most marvelous silver wedding anniversary presents that we could think of is a new grandson, and the present gains double portent when it is named for one of the celebrants' parents. This is just what happened to the Edward Clark Crossetts, for the boy born to their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. French, Tuesday morning at St. Luke's hospital, was born on the Crossett's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, and the baby has been named James Rankin for Mrs. Crossett's late father. This is the French's second son.

Mr. Crossett and another daughter, Miss Carolyn Crossett, just sailed from New York for California, where they will be joined by Mrs. Crossett, who is going overland in two weeks and meeting them at her mother's home in Pasadena, where they will spend the rest of the winter. Mrs. French and the baby will move to the Crossett's apartment for the rest of the month after she leaves the hospital and before she returns to Crossett, Ark., to her husband and other son.

Two polo games . . . the first of the series that is to be sponsored each Saturday evening during the next three months by the Metropolitan Indoor Polo league at the 124th Field Artillery armory . . . will be this evening's attraction for the polo minded society folk.

Several dozen Junior Leaguers and a few of their friends gathered yesterday morning at the Casino to hear Clifton Utley lecture on current events. The lecture opened a new series by Mr. Utley.

Among those present were Miss Margot Atkin, the league president, very sporty in a boxy tan fur coat and a green beret and bright green striped scarf, who came with Miss Margaret McLennan, a veritable symphony in browns. Mrs. Norman Pritchard was chic in gray—a fur swagger coat over lovely tweeds. Mrs. Henry C. Bartholomay drove in from Winnetka. She wore a smart green suit and hat with a yellow silk blouse.

was taken of the household belongings the linens were discovered in the basement of the house wrapped just as they had been shipped from Switzerland, where they were made in a little shop owned by Mrs. McCormick. They are decorated with the handsome drawn work and embroidered monogram, "E. R. McC." In the same lot will be auctioned the antique gros point de venise lace coverlet, that was made for a princess.

On Jan. 17 Mrs. McCormick's Louis XVI., carved and gilded bedstead with its rose taffeta canopies [equipped with box spring and mattress] will be sold. By way of contrast the same day, there will be offered the brass and white enamel bedsteads the servants used.

Portrait of John D. Among Articles.

A member of the family, the prediction is, will buy back the handsome portrait of Mrs. McCormick's father, John D. Rockefeller, which dominates the north wall of the front drawing room in the town residence. There is little in the way of paintings to be auctioned. A Corot is the only other "oil" to be sold in the Lake Shore drive home.

Of importance is the extensive fourth floor library where the auctioneer will spend all of the evening of Jan. 17. A great high ceilinged room, the library contains more than 15,000 volumes of biography, fiction, and reference works—placed without semblance of order for it was Mrs. McCormick's desire that the books never be catalogued. She knew, however, the position of each book and especially those of biography, which she preferred. During the illness that preceded her death she listened to 38 volumes read aloud.

Downstairs the auctioneer will sell the handsome English sideboard that fills the north end of the dining room and the great clock in the reception hall, always the focus of a visitor's eyes. The sideboard is noted for its center panel elaborately carved in representation of the Virgin and the Child. The clock case of dark patinated wood is sculptured in high relief with griffons, caryatids, and men holding grasping anchors.

Offer Carved Tables. at Villa Turicum.

There will probably be many bidders for the handsomely carved walnut tables that furnish the dining room of Villa Turicum. They may be used separately or thrown together in one great banquet board. With these will be sold the walnut and crimson seated dining room chairs at the Italian villa.

Nothing to be offered at the two auctions better expresses Mrs. Rockefeller's keen delight in buying something new than a judge's seat and a bishop's throne, each of the Italian renaissance period. They flank the red marble walled drawing room at Villa Turicum. Mrs. McCormick bought them without a question of price. Walking into the shop of a Chicago art dealer who was in straitened circumstances she pointed to the rare but strange objects and said, "This and this and this."

Astonished by a sale of such proportions, the dealer stepped into a back room and announced to his partner that there was "a crazy woman out front." Later learning the identity of his customer, he became eternally grateful to Mrs. McCormick.

Never Uncrated After Delivery.

After delivery, however, the throne and chair were never uncrated just as in the case of the linens at the town house that were never unwrapped. At the coming auction the two pieces will be on view for the first time. Once a purchase was made, the thrill was over for Mrs. McCormick.

A hotel manager might acquire the bedroom furnishings of Villa Turicum. There are 16 servants' rooms and 10 guest rooms in addition to the family quarters. In contrast to the elaborate treasures on the lower floor, they are all alike and the final word in severity and simplicity with plain walnut frames and cane panels.

Although there is enough for sale in Chicago and Lake Forest to dazzle monarchs as well as ordinary men, the jewels and the rarest of the laces, silver, and manuscripts are being sold in New York.

And the finest of these have not gone on the auction block but are being offered privately through noted eastern dealers. Jewels valued at $1,300,000 and carpets aggregating $300,000 are so placed. The latter lot includes the famous Emperor's carpet, a 600 year old Persian rug that was once the property of Peter the Great of Russia. Bought in 1928 through Dr. Arthur Upham Pope who is now responsible for its sale, it was the last collector's item acquired by Mrs. McCormick.

Women in 30's Must Increase Makeup Duties

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The fact that the bulk of the beauty salon work and cosmetic manufacture, besides that of powder and rouge, is supported by women over thirty, indicates something, chiefly that thirty is a beauty turning point in women's lives.

Up to thirty, wrinkles aren't much of a worry, except from eyestrain, continued late hours, or dissipation of some sort. Double chins are pretty largely confined to the overweight. Cheeks do little sagging, eyelids are not noticeably crinkly, nor is under chin flesh. Nor, ordinarily, does thirty show the signs of middle age. The face and figure, under ordinary care, are pretty much the same as at twenty-five or six, but from thirty-five on begins the real wrestle with time and its menacing fingerprints.

It's difficult to make twenty-five see forty in its wrinkle haunted closeup. Forty seems a long way off when you're twenty-five. Thirty, however, is not too far away from middle age to give an idea of what ten neglectful years might do, so that the ten years between thirty and forty make all the difference in the world in how well middle age will be met.

Thirty is the period at which life insurance statistics set a deadline for weight piling. After thirty, they say one should be slightly underweight for the long pull ahead.

For the long facial history ahead thirty is a crucial year, too. If one hasn't done any preventive work before this year, she should begin at once, keeping an eye on the chin, checking its doubling early. She needs to begin smoothing out the brow furrows and the fine little lines around the eyes and mouth corners. Although nothing shows as yet, the preventive course is begun.

Watch for the change in hair texture and color. Nothing may happen until the late thirties, but if you work on that scalp and keep it in good, healthy shape, the longer and better will you maintain gloss and color of hair.

It's the time for the use of astringent on the face, too, in order to prevent sagging. It's time for extra lubrication, with creams that may be left on a little longer than the cleanser, for facials done earnestly, circulation and muscle toning with clever massage movements. Also, it is time for a general health résumé, to correct, principally, that deadly enemy of youth and beauty, habitual constipation.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CLASS DAY.

"After opening the eyes of the inert fish lying on the river bank it gave a slight gasp, then died, so I knew that some one probably had been in the vicinity shortly before," Prof. Fordney said to his class in criminology.

"There were too many overlapping footprints to enable me to distinguish whether or not my suspect was one of those who had recently been walking there. I examined the fish more closely and found it had not been caught with a hook. That also gave me food for thought," he continued.

"With the aid of the police I succeeded in locating Bill Johnson whom I suspected from the first of the murder of May Turner, whose mutilated body was found on the river bank by a farmer living near by. My interrogation of him was rather unsuccessful. He was a big, burly, sullen creature and refused to answer any questions concerning the murder. I don't believe in the 'third degree,' as you know, so I left Johnson alone and questioned the farmer.

"Now, while I don't want you young chaps to take anything for granted, experience does bring a certain psychic sense regarding the reliability of a witness so, when the farmer told me he knew nothing of the tragedy, I believed him. Then . . ."

"What difference does that make?" the professor inquired.

"Why, it doesn't make any!" excitedly exclaimed Harry Simmons, a newcomer to the class. "Can't you fellows see what's wrong with the professor's story? I can!"

CAN YOU?

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Woolens never have been as smart as they are this season, and there's a nice feeling about getting into a soft woolen dress. Today's dress is suited to a number of figures, and has slenderizing details, with its bias seamings across the bodice and hips. Bright red hairy woolen, with a brown suede belt and brown metal buttons is suggested. Silk crêpe, plain or printed, will make up well.

The pattern, No. 3286, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Key's MS. of 'Star Spangled Banner' Sold

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, noted Philadelphia bibliophile, bought it at public auction today for $24,000.

"It's priceless," he said, "and cheap at any price."

Immediately after the sale Dr. Rosenbach walked from the auction rooms to his office where he sold the manuscript and two other items to the Walters gallery of Baltimore, represented by its trustee, Philip B. Perlman, a lawyer.

The city of Baltimore lost the precious manuscript for only thirty minutes, too, for the original sale was an auction ordered by the estate of the late Henry Walters of Baltimore.

With the manuscript, which is on a sheet of ordinary note paper, went the first printed form of the anthem and a portrait of Judge Joseph H. Nicholson of Baltimore, who was responsible for its publication. Both these items went back to the Maryland city through the Walters gallery sale.

Henry J. Gaisman, manufacturer, dropped out at $20,000.

Trembling and excited, Louis Schulman, also a manufacturer, watched the bidding rise beyond the $15,000 cash he said he had with him. He had taken $10,000 from the bank and borrowed $5,000 more, he said, so that he could give the manuscript to President Roosevelt for presentation to whatever public institution he wished.

The manuscript was transcribed by the author from rough notes written on board the vessel from which he watched the bombardment of Fort McHenry and Baltimore by the British during the war of 1812.

Two great-granddaughters of Key were reported to be in the audience but they could not be identified.

The Key manuscript, which was originally entitled "The Defence of Fort McHenry," was the chief item in a sale of rare books and manuscripts which contained several other Americana.

Thomas Jefferson's original autograph manuscript of his first outline of "The Life and Morals of Jesus of Nazareth" went for $800, and various letters of Jefferson's for $400, $220, $175 and $110. An angry letter by Andrew Jackson proposing the conquest of Cuba brought $95.

A letter from Warren G. Harding—who wrote few of them—was sold for $240.

The Cape Coat Emerges from Its Long Retirement

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—(Special.)—Back in the dim past of 1926, when the franc went crashing down, the cape coat for all-weather wear rose high in fashion. This season, the franc is high, and the cape coat is once more on the rise in Paris fashions.

No kind of ready-for-anything coat is as practical as the long coat with a detachable cape, and lots of women will welcome it back from its seven year retirement.

Bruyere's cape coat is pictured, to show you the kind of wrap that is reappearing in Paris styles. This coat is made of a rough wool in smoky gray. It has ties of darkish pervenche blue wool.

The body of the coat is molded slightly and the long, straight sleeves have deep cuffs. A patch pocket big enough for Carnera is placed high on the right side, so the cape falls a bit below it, and the coat is buttoned in front on two big gray buttons.

The cape is rather skimpy and is snapped on under a big, turnover collar of the material. It is at the front of this collar that the blue ties are sewed on.

"Home Frozen Delicacies," a booklet containing 50 recipes for frozen desserts, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 10 cents. By mail, 13 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

It's quite a job, this business of keeping up with the latest gadgets, tricks, and discoveries in the field of foods and home attending. But it's 100 per cent worth while, if nothing else, because of the fun it gives and the speed and bright ideas it lends to the doing of the day-after jobs about the house.

Likely you remember that a good many months ago we attended to the matter of broiling foods on top of the stove, explained why these modern top stove broilers, now at all the stores, do a better and healthier job of broiling than does the oven broiler. And now something else in that line has turned up. One company, already convinced that its top-stove broiler is a pretty good thing, has discovered that broiling foods inside of a cellophane bag, still on the same top-stove broiler, is even a better idea than broiling sans the bag. A doctor made some tests and discovered that when the juices are thus kept in with the broiling meats, fowl, fish, or whatever, the foods are better in flavor, juiciness, and tenderness; they keep their odors all to themselves, and retain their minerals and a satisfying amount of their vitamins. To keep these juices from running off, by the way, there's a tricky tape which comes with these particular bags. It's pressed neatly over the opening of the bag when the food goes in, and stripped smartly off when the job is completed. Also, give a cheer, the bag saves washing of the broiler!

How are you feeling toward the matter of deep fat frying? I believe a good many of us shun it because it seems that it must be difficult and perhaps a bit messy. But if we use reasonable care and know the how of it it need be neither. And this method of cookery certainly offers a world of crunchy tempters we would otherwise miss. And by the way don't ever think of deep fat frying as a means of adding still more to your perhaps already too, too solid flesh. Tests show that foods fried in deep, hot fat absorb much less than do the average patties, potato slices, or other foods pan fried, slowly, on the top of the stove.

But the why of this dissertation really is this: One of the best presents you could give yourself this year would be an up to date deep fat frying pan and basket. There is a variety of kinds, but one with which I was impressed quite favorably recently offers us a generous aluminum pan with a snugly fitting basket. A wide expansion rim prevents bubbling over of the oil when the food is lowered into it. A special deep fat frying thermometer has a place beside the basket and insures accurate temperature control. Little hexagonal openings in the bottom hasten the job of draining.

Cherries.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This lovely old quilt was designed in the early part of the nineteenth century. The cherry is one of many fruits that have worked up satisfactorily as quilt blocks. A luscious cherry red and a soft dark green are the only two colors, yet this coverlet is among those listed as the prime favorites of quilt historians.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, the Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service office, One South Dearborn.

Children May Be Taught Not to Fear Death

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Birth is so much easier to explain than death.

And when I say explain I mean explain so that it means something to the child other than extinction—so that it means not a ceasing but a continuing—so that it does not seem either gruesome or fearful to him.

In response to an article on the subject which appeared in this column this letter came in:

"Our young son is eight years old. The explanation of the mystery of death came quite naturally one day in the following manner:

"We had collected moth cocoons in the autumn. When the first, a beautiful Cecropia, 'hatched' he was overwhelmed with wonder. We shook the empty shell and he said, 'But it looks just like it did before.'

"I explained how when his aunt had died recently she looked just as she did before, but that the life had left to become something so much prettier than ever before and something just as real as the beautiful moth.

"He seems to have no terror of death, but treats such thoughts as being a part of natural things."

It seems to me a rarely wise handling of the subject. This mother was alert in utilizing this particular circumstance in the way she did. There is something thrilling about seeing a great moth emerge from his chrysalis and in watching his pulsing body force the beautiful wings to expand.

This letter is not quoted to serve as a pattern for other mothers, but to show that often there is a moment, a circumstance, that can be turned to good account in this matter and in others, in leading children's thoughts into the channels in which you wish them to go. And in this particular matter of explaining death to children nature furnishes us with much help.

HARTNETT SIGNS CUBS' CONTRACT FOR '34 SEASON

Gabby Hartnett, grandpappy of the Chicago Cubs' roster, though still a boy of 33, stepped into the club's downtown headquarters yesterday, unfolded a few anecdotes, some of them clean, then proceeded to affix his signature to a contract covering his thirteenth year with the team.

The amount Gabby is to take down for his 1934 catching was not revealed, but it probably represented no reduction from last year, seeing as Gabby worked in all except 14 of the Cubs' encounters. This was within one game of the all time high he set in 1930, when he came back to catch 141 games after his year's layoff in 1929 because of a sore arm.

Worked in 140 Games.

Last year Hartnett worked in 140 games because the team had to have his catching. In 1930 it was his hitting they were after, for that season Gabby batted .339 and knocked 37 homers. Last year the big New Englander hit .272, one more point than his hitting contribution to the 1932 pennant winning.

At the outset of last season it was thought that Catcher Gilly Campbell was ready to give Hartnett some relief, especially in double headers, but Gilly never quite clicked. It was Campbell's misfortune to see several base runners slide under him with the winning run while he had the ball in his hand and since one of Hartnett's special talents is that for blocking the plate, Campbell's tough spots seemed all the more grievous, what with Gabby sitting on the bench.

Babe Phelps, a big fellow, was brought on late in the season, but some of the veteran pitchers felt he was a bit shaky. The net result was that Hartnett was greatly overworked.

Get Tate for Relief.

After shipping Campbell to Los Angeles recently the Cubs made a determined effort to get an experienced catcher for Hartnett's relief and eventually closed with Benny Tate, former Washington-White Sox-Red Sox backstop. Benny, a bit frail to stand up in a full campaign, is an ideal relief performer and the team will not be materially weakened while Tate works forty or fifty games, with a gain coming in Hartnett's efficiency if given occasional rests.

Gabby has been the senior member of the Cub playing cast for a half dozen years, the nearest rival for long service records having passed when Cliff Heathcote was released in the spring of 1931. Gabby came to the Cubs in the spring of 1922 after a year in the minors with Worcester of the Eastern league. Heathcote did not join up until the intermission between games on Memorial day that year.

He's Insurance Salesman.

Hartnett appeared at the Wrigley building office of the Cubs shortly after noon and remained for more than two hours regaling President William Walker and Vice President John O. Seys with stories he has picked up while trying to peddle insurance this winter.

"Gabby has picked up some pips this year, not one out of four or five of his anecdotes carrying age," said Mr. Walker. "After he had gone through his repertoire he asked for a fountain pen and presto our catcher was under contract."

Hartnett revealed that he has been foregoing excess victuals and is in better shape than he was last winter despite the fact he played basketball in the off season a year ago, and this winter is doing nothing more strenuous than warning insurance prospects of the imminence of death and the certainty of doom.

Besides Hartnett the Cubs now have signed Manager Charley Grimm, Kiki Cuyler, Chuck Klein, and Bud Tinning.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

BABE RUTH is not the only golfing star of the New York Yankees. . . . Sam Byrd, outfielder, shoots in the low 70's consistently. . . . He has competed in Florida open events this winter. . . . Tommy Armour, a baseball fan, thinks Byrd is a better golfer than he is a ball player, which is a boost or a knock depending on your golf score. . . . Did you ever see the King walking? . . . Well, I did. . . . Did you ever see the King talking? . . . Well, I did. . . . He's wearing dark colored glasses trying to cover up the stitches taken in a cut over his eye after the McCorkindale bout and he's talking about what he's going to do to Schmeling and Hitler. . . . Harry Newman, Michigan's former quarter back and more recently a star with the New York Giants, is secretary and part owner of Liquor Distributors, Inc., with headquarters in Detroit. . . .

If you want to make Pat Malone mad, just throw your hat on his hotel room bed during the baseball season. . . . He considers that a sure jinx. . . . If you will respect his superstition, the Cubs may win the 1934 pennant. . . . When Gene Tunney made his first trip to Peoria before Thanksgiving to inspect the distillery in which he is interested he was entertained by the commercial leaders of Peoria and Pekin at a banquet. . . . The chairman of the committee thought a fan dance would be an appropriate finale to the program. . . . Just before the Peoria Sally started to shake her fans Tunney left the speakers' table and walked out of the banquet room, explaining that he did not approve of that kind of dancing. . . .

MAJOR LEAGUES COMPROMISE ON 1934 BASEBALL

Specifications Same as American's '33 Product

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The National league compromised today with the American league on standardization of the baseball—like a husband who wants to go to the mountains compromises with his wife who wants to go to the seashore. The National league accepted the speedier American league ball in toto.

Presidents John A. Heydler and William Harridge, of the two major circuits; Thomas S. Shibe, part owner of the Athletics, and Julian W. Curtiss, heads of the two companies that manufacture the balls, met in conference in Philadelphia and carried out the standardization mandate passed recently at the joint meetings in Chicago.

While the specifications decided upon are those of the ball used in the American league last season, the final "happy ending" of a problem that has plagued major league baseball for many years was a part triumph for the National league.

Faster though this new ball will be, it still is far slower than the "jackrabbit" pellet the two leagues used a few years ago and to which in theory the American league still clings. After 1930, when Hack Wilson popped 56 home runs into the stands and even tiny Rabbit Maranville and Hugie Critz chased outfielders out of sight, the National league started removing the lightning from within the horsehide cover.

The new standard ball, therefore, is actually a sort of medium between the jackrabbit of the American league at its fastest and the reaction ball of the National league at its slowest.

The specifications, eight in number and made public over the signatures of the two league presidents and the manufacturers after the conference today, are highly technical and indicate that there is much more to the making of a baseball than any but those engaged in the trade suspected.

The ball will have a cushion cork center weighing ⅞ of an ounce, the cushion being provided by one layer of black rubber and another of red, reason for which is unknown.

Wrapping Goes On.

Then come 71 yards of blue gray woolen yarn, building the ball up to a circumference of 7⅞ inches and the weight to 3⅛ ounces. Next 41 yards of white woolen yarn are wrapped on, and the circumference has become 8¼ inches, the weight 3⅞ ounces. A coat of special rubber cement is applied.

Two more wrappings of yarn, the first 41 yards of blue-gray woolen, the second a final 100 yards of 20/2 ply fine cotton, provide a circumference of 8⅞ inches and a weight of 4⅝ ounces, to which another coat of rubber cement is applied.

The cover is a special alum tanned horsehide, weighing ½ ounce and 5-100 of an inch thick, and sewn with a double stitch of four strand red thread. The finished ball is 9 to 9⅛ inches in circumference and should weigh 5 to 5¼ ounces.

These specifications, incidentally, are the first ever made public by the manufacturers, who in the past have jealously guarded such details. As far as the public and anxious ball players are concerned, their significance is simple.

Fire Sweeps Bleachers at Red Sox Park

Boston, Mass., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Damage estimated at $250,000 was caused by fire at Fenway park, home of the Boston Red Sox baseball team, and to nearby business places this afternoon.

Most of the loss was charged to the destruction of the center field bleachers at the park, but several tire company plants and garages also suffered.

The whole baseball park was undergoing reconstruction. The expenditure was estimated at close to $500,000 with about $225,000 devoted to new center field stands. The flames wiped out this part of the project.

Boom Falls on Bleachers.

A 110 foot boom holding a huge derrick crashed down on the bleachers during the fire. More than 150 of the 700 men engaged in the construction work at the park were on the center field bleachers job. None was known to have been injured.

The fire spread rapidly through the wooden staging and the wooden parts of the bleachers. The flames leaped across a street to several garages and a tire warehouse, causing fire department officials to sound a general alarm.

Remodel Ball Park.

Bob Yawkey, president and owner of the club, anticipating bigger business for his club through the acquisition of several star players, had work started remodeling the park property recently. The old first and third base pavilions and the grand stand were in the process of being removed and concrete structures were to replace them. The seating capacity of the park would be increased to about 40,000 under Yawkey's plan.

Experts, Novices Have Equal Chance for Silver Skates

THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Skates Derbies, which are scheduled one week from today and tomorrow at Garfield park, had their inception in a playground meet back in 1917. Winners of tryouts at each playground were eligible to compete in the speed races and the figure skating competitions.

A few years later the meet was limited to speed skating in order to facilitate handling the large number of entries, the size of the fields increasing with the addition of age classes. Most skaters in the Girls' Senior, Boys' Senior, and Boys' Intermediate divisions have had experience. This is one side of the Silver Skates picture—competition for experienced skaters with an array of prizes which is not matched in any other tournament.

Younger Classes Novices.

The other side of the program is presented by the hundreds of boys and girls under 16 years of age who will compete in the Girls' Junior, Boys' Junior, Boys' Juvenile, and Boys' Midget classes. The large percentage of these contestants are novices, but they are rewarded with the same prizes as their elders receive. With this incentive, and an opportunity to compete against others no more experienced than they are, Silver Skates has fostered the sport for more than a decade until the tournament has become the largest in the central states.

Steve Driggett, director of Orr playground, Thomas and Keeler avenues, long has been a supporter of Silver Skates races. Each year Driggett selects a team from his playground which is part of the board of education system, headed by Herman Fischer. Driggett for many years was an outstanding athlete, excelling in basketball, as many will recall, and his interest in the boys at Orr always has won many playground championships.

Entries close at midnight tomorrow for this year's derbies. None will be accepted later even if it becomes necessary to postpone the races or to shift them to another location. Several days of cold weather are needed in order to freeze the Garfield park lagoon to a sufficient depth to eliminate any hazard. Less time is needed on a flooded surface, such as a playground or park. Consequently it will be possible to hold the races at such a location when it would not be safe at Garfield park lagoon.

3 Girls Double Victors.

Three girls have won double championships in Silver Skates. Lois Littlejohn won the Junior title in 1923, the second year that this class was held, and in 1926 she won the Girls' Senior title. Elizabeth Dubois won the Junior championship in 1927 and the Senior title two years later. Mabel Swanson, who won the Senior race last winter, was a Junior champion in 1930.

McALLISTER'S 66 LEADS FIELD IN FLORIDA TOURNEY

Miami, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Equaling the course record with a 66, four under par, Charles McAllister of Forest Hills, L. I., led the field of more than 160 golfers at the end of the first 18 hole round of play today in the $2,000 Miami open golf tournament. McAllister carded a pair of 33s, which enabled him to tie the course mark hung up when Johnny Revolta of Menominee, Mich., won the title last year.

Two strokes back of McAllister came Willie Dow, 48 year old Miami pro, who chalked up a pair of 34s for a 68. He also made five birdies and ten pars.

Tied in next place were Tommy Armour of Chicago, with 34—35—69; Phil Perkins of Willoughby, O., with 34—35—69, and Ralph Stonehouse of Indianapolis, Ind., with 35—34—69.

Four players, headed by Mike Brady, veteran from Mamaroneck, N. Y., matched par 70. Brady took 33—37; Eddie Williams and Charles Rice, both of Chicago, each had a pair of 35s, as did Jock Collins of Mansfield, O.

Joe Turnesa of Bayside, L. I., with a 35—36, tied at 71 with Reggie Myles of Cleveland, O., who paired a 34 with a 37, and Joe Zieman of Southampton, L. I., with 34—37. Tied at 72 were Dave Tosh of Chicago with a pair of 36s; John Kinder of Asbury Park, N. J., with 37—35, and Russell Stonehouse of Indianapolis with a pair of 36s.

Gene Sarazen, who holds the P. G. A. championship, took a 37—36 for a 73 to tie with five others, Stanley Davies of Omaha, Neb., 38—35; Bob Randall of Cleveland, 36—37; R. T. Gray Jr. of Detroit, 38—35; Charles Murray of Delray, Fla., 38—35, and Bill Kizer of Louisville, Ky., 35—38.

SEEK $5,000 PRIZE

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 5.—(AP)—The nation's great golfers will seek to start the new year right tomorrow when a field of 140 answers the starter's call for the first round of the ninth annual Los Angeles $5,000 open tournament.

And all but one of the previous winners of this tournament will compete. Of the past champions only Ed Dudley, winner in 1931, will be missing.

With exceptionally good weather conditions predicted, and many subpar scores recorded in practice rounds, there was every indication that better than perfect figures would be required to win.

Harry Cooper, at that time an unheralded youth from Texas, bettered par by five strokes on this course to win the first tournament in 1926.

Bobby Cruickshank, who had difficulty qualifying two days ago, cracked par by six strokes to walk off with first place money the following year. For the next two seasons MacDonald Smith topped the list, keeping on even terms with par in 1928 and then finishing three under for 72 holes in 1929.

Smith Wins Again.

Denny Shute, British open champion, came out of comparative obscurity in 1930 to win, after playing through mud and rain. He was eight strokes over par on a new course. Rain again aided par in 1931 as Dudley walked away with the first money.

Smith came back to win his third title in 1932, shooting 281, three under for the tough Hillcrest course, and then Craig Wood, leading money winner of the 1932-'33 season, crashed through to take the title last winter with a similar score, three below par.

Wood faces an imposing field in the defense of his crown. Besides the previous winners of this tournament there are Paul R[illegible]n, winner of the Agua Caliente open last year and the Pasadena open which inaugurated the 1933-'34 parade; Leo Diegel and Olin Dutra, former national P. G. A. champions, and a flock of young stars such as Ralph Guldahl, runner-up for the 1933 open championship; Johnny Revolta, Dick Metz, Ky Laffoon, Ben Coltrin, and Archie Hambrick.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Western conference basketball teams, after their usual diet of practice games, start serious business tonight in the first round of the new season. Judged by standards of veteran material, the advantages or disadvantages in the rotating system [which eliminates three quintets from each team's schedule of 12 home and home contests], and by preseason records, Iowa and Wisconsin have been made first choices to win the championship. One step behind, in the future book, are Indiana and Purdue, perennial title challengers.

Northwestern plays the undefeated Iowa team tonight at Iowa City, with more than an even chance of coming home defeated, just as the Wildcats came home from their first game, at Champaign, last year, beaten 27 to 25. However, last year the Wildcats, with such offensive players as Joe Reiff and Elmer Johnson, who scored 276 points between them to finish first and second in the individual standings, made a comeback to tie for the title with Ohio State. Each won 10 games and lost 2. No such prospect is in sight this winter, although Northwestern may surprise with a number of victories, as Wisconsin, Purdue, and Indiana are not on the Wildcat schedule.

Expect 9,000 at Iowa.

A capacity crowd of 9,000 is expected to see Iowa battle Northwestern. Although the Iowans have yet to meet major competition they have been impressive in four practice games. Iowa has averaged more than 40 points against warmup opponents.

Northwestern has dropped four of its six early contests, but the caliber of its opposition has been generally higher than that met by the Hawkeye quintet.

Tonight's encounter will be the 34th between the two schools. Northwestern has won 17 games and Iowa 16.

Ohio State plays Chicago at the Midway tonight, and Maroon hopes rest on a group of sophomores recently become eligible. Last year Chicago won one conference game, defeating Indiana, 34 to 32, and in all lost 16 of its 18 games.

The Ohio game will be the first in which Chicago will have all its most promising players together. Bill Haarlow, sophomore forward, became eligible in time for the Marquette game, but five other members of the 1934 team were not in residence until Jan. 1 and could not be used.

Maroons Count on Haarlow.

It is probable Coach Nels Norgren will start Haarlow and Bob Pyle at forwards, Haarlow, the key man to the floor game, is a clever player who can shoot from any position. Gordon Peterson, the 6 foot 4 inch sophomore center, is handicapped by an ankle that was injured in the Marquette game. Leo Oppenheim, 6 feet 3 inches and 205 pounds, will be an important accession. His ruggedness and height will help in defensive work, particularly in taking the ball off the backboard. Bill Lang, sophomore, who is the only player under 6 feet, has done the best defensive work so far.

Warren [Woody] Whitlinger, Zanesville sophomore, may be in Ohio State's opening lineup. He supplanted Jack Wilson at forward for the Western Ontario game. When Bobby Colburn became eligible, Whitlinger was benched. Now he is pressing Max Padlow for the forward post opposite Colburn.

While compiling a record of three victories and two defeats in pre-conference games, the Buckeys have registered 170 points to their opponents' 140. Padlow leads the team in scoring with 26 points, while Rosequist and Colburn each has counted 25.

Illini to Test Badgers.

Wisconsin plays at Illinois tonight, and, while the Illini have only a fair team at this stage, with three veteran holdovers, Capt. Hellmich, Froschauer, and Beynon, there is sufficient sophomore strength to put the Badgers through their paces. Wisconsin lost to Illinois last year, 33 to 25 and 29 to 15. The Badgers lost one practice game, dividing the series with Marquette.

Dr. Walter Meanwell, Badger coach,

MICHIGAN STATE AND NOTRE DAME TO PLAY TONIGHT

Irish Quintet Seeks 20th Straight Victory.

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Big Moose Krause, key man of the Notre Dame basketball team, and Maurice Buysse, star sophomore of the Michigan State team, will be centers of attraction here tomorrow night when the Spartans and the Irish renew their court feud.

Krause, a senior, is continuing the same fast pace he has set in two previous years with the South Bend aggregation, and it is largely up to Buysse to either stop him or outscore him if the Spartans are to have any chance of defeating Notre Dame, which will be seeking its twentieth successive victory.

Notre Dame, of course, will go into the game here favored to win. Coach Keogan's young men have been bowling over opponents of all calibers in their early season campaign. A near capacity crowd is expected to witness the game.

Buysse has clearly demonstrated his value to the Spartan cause this year. As high individual scorer, he has given State a brand of center play the East Lansing school has not seen in several years. Opposed to Krause, recognized as one of the best pivot men of the college game today, Buysse will get the supreme test.

LOYOLA VS. RIPON

Loyola university's basketball team will attempt to get back in the winning column tonight when it meets Ripon college at the Loyola gym. Loyola lost a 23 to 18 game to Mississippi last Monday, after winning their first two games.

Coach Lenny Sachs has stressed offensive play and free throwing throughout the week. Loyola counted only five field goals and eight free throws against the southerners, although they had more than twice that number of opportunities. Lack of reserve material does not permit Sachs to revise his starting lineup.

Ripon brings a team of five letter winners and three outstanding sophomores to Chicago. These sophomores —Earl Christ, Kenneth Smith, and Myron Marshek—have crowded all but two of the veterans out of the starting lineup. Christ is the outstanding man of the three. He is small and fast, difficult to guard, and has scored 23 points in three games to date.

GREENSKEEPERS REVEAL GOLF INCREASE IN '33

If increased membership in golf clubs is a true barometer of the times, the dark days passed in the middle of last summer. For the first time in three years, applications for membership in golf clubs last July exceeded the number of resignations.

This information was revealed by the 40 superintendents of golf clubs in the Chicago district who attended the annual meeting of the Midwest Greenskeepers' association at the Hotel Sherman last night.

A. L. Brandon of the St. Charles Country club was named president to succeed Ralph Johnson. Other officers elected were: First vice president, C. A. Tregillus, Mill Road farm; second vice president, Frank Dinelli, Northmoor Country club; secretary, B. A. Yoder, Westmoor Golf club, and treasurer, Ralph Teter, Aurora Country club.

BIG TEN FIVES TAKE TO TITLE TRAIL TONIGHT

Pre-Season Records Favor Iowa, Wisconsin.

who trained the Illinois coach, Craig Ruby, when at Missouri, is depending on the five which started together last year as sophomores and he also has Prebuski and Stege, excellent new men.

Purdue Beaten Only Once.

If the title fight narrows to Iowa and Wisconsin it will be almost an even test. Iowa and Wisconsin meet and have three other identical opponents — Illinois, Purdue, and Minnesota.

Indiana may have a schedule advantage over Purdue. The two Hoosier teams meet, but Wisconsin is not on Indiana's schedule. Tonight Purdue plays Minnesota at Lafayette and should start with a victory. Purdue's only preseason defeat was at Notre Dame.

Purdue was victorious in six out of seven pre-conference games. The Boilermakers have averaged 40 points per game, while holding opponents to an average of 29.

Norman Cottom, forward, leads in scoring honors, with 19 field goals and 13 free throws for a total of 51 points.

Wolverines Battle Hoosiers.

Michigan plays Indiana at Bloomington, and the inexperienced Wolverines, who have had difficulty most of their nonconference games, are due for a licking. Both quintets took eastern trips, and comparisons against the same opponents favor Indiana.

The following Michigan players made the trip: Plummer, Fishman, Rudness, and Ford, forwards; Allen and Jablonski, centers, and Capt. Petoskey, Tomango, Oliver, and Tessmer, guards.

Big Ten teams won 37 games and lost 23 against nonconference opponents, averaging 30.7 points per game to 24.2. A year ago, when they won 31 games and lost 19, conference fives outscored other opposition by an average of 32.1 to 25.7.

BY PATRICK DWYER.

The Blue Ribbons, Chicago's lacrosse representatives, sailed into the Pittsburgh Buccaneers in the course of a North American Lacrosse league game last night at the Arcadia Gardens, and after a battle trotted off the floor with a 14 to 4 victory.

The first quarter had scarcely begun —indeed, the referee had just about reached the comparative security of clear ground—when Chuck Baldwin lodged the ball in the net for the first Chicago goal. Piper Bain repeated the performance a moment later, and then, just to show that it wasn't a fluke, flipped the ball once more past the Pirate goalie. The quarter ended 4 to 1 in favor of Chicago.

Lead at Half, 7 to 3.

The Blue Ribbons were still ahead at the half, 7 to 3, although two of the Chicago boys were mangled somewhat. Piper Bain made a beautiful jackknife dive and landed on his head. When he failed to bounce he took thought within himself, scrambled to his feet, and continued in the game, this time perpendicular instead of horizontal. Charles Baldwin later leaped at the net so furiously he caromed off the upright and crashed into the wall behind the goal. He was led off the floor with a gashed lip, and Jennings of Pittsburgh was given five minutes to repent his part in the affair.

Corbett Dennenay, the Blue Ribbons' manager, shouted himself hoarse exhorting his boys to move about on their toes. This was a waste of wind, in as much as they were doing very well for themselves, piling up points without outside help.

Billy McArthur, the Chicago goalie, was not kept very busy, so he had plenty of time to think about his goats wintering back in Parry sound.

Plan Another Team.

Chicago is going to see a great deal of lacrosse this winter if the plans brewing in Mique Malloy's head are developed. Malloy, as the representative of a group of south side business men, is about to form another lacrosse team in Chicago. Members will be imported from Baltimore, the "lacrossest city in America," according to Malloy. This new North American lacrosse league entry will play for the edification of south siders, and in the spring a city series will be sprung upon the fans. That is, if either team survives the present campaign, and can be induced to perform without crutches.

RANGERS ARRIVE FOR DUEL WITH HAWK SEXTET

Meet Tomorrow Night on Stadium Ice.

The New York Rangers, champions of the National Hockey league, are back in Chicago today. Lester Patrick and his Stanley cup holders arrived yesterday afternoon from Detroit, and will battle the Blackhawks at the Stadium tomorrow night in one of the most crucial games of the season in the American division of the league.

Patrick and his Rangers came on from Detroit, where they lost Thursday night to the revamped Red Wings. Patrick and his men are only three points behind the Blackhawks, and by winning tomorrow they can draw within one point of Tommy Gorman's men.

Visitors at Full Strength.

The Rangers are at full strength with the Cooks, Frank Boucher, Ching Johnson, Butch Keeling, Cecil Dillon all ready. Patrick said that the Rangers had the hardest kind of breaks at Detroit, or they would have beaten the Red Wings. They look for a different result when they meet Chicago tomorrow.

Patrick released his alleged sensation, Jean Pusie, for whom the Rangers are said to have paid $10,000, this week, and replaced him with Duke Dutkowski, whom the Americans and Blackhawks let go. He may also have another forward for tomorrow as he has been negotiating for one in the International league. The Ranger manager is far from discouraged, although his team has lost two out of its last three games. He thinks the Blackhawks are due for a slump and hopes to prove it here tomorrow night.

That's the Ranger side of the picture. Here is that of the Blackhawks. The Rangers will find themselves up against determined, confident opponents at the Stadium. In their last game at New York, the Rangers won, 1 to 0, before 15,000 fans, but they had to go overtime to decide the battle.

The Blackhawks will be stronger for this game than they have been for some time. They too have had their cripples, though little has been said about the injuries of Tommy Cook, Art Coulter, Taffy Abel and Lionel Conacher. All are back in the best of shape, and in addition, Manager Gorman will display for the first time Leroy Goldsworthy, who was purchased this week from the London club of the International league for $6,000.

Works With Team.

HANNIN-KLEIN QUINTET BEATS SAVOYS, 21 TO 17

The Hannin-Klein Did-Its basketball team won its eighth consecutive victory last night at Tuley High school gymnasium by defeating the Savoy Big Five, 21 to 17. Bolstered by Benny Budrick and Red Barak, the Did-Its led the Negro stars at half time, 12 to 9, and while the Savoys pulled up within two points on the play of Slocum and Mills, the west side team could not be passed.

ROTHIER WINS OVER GRACE IN FRONTON BOUT

Henry Rothier, Chicago welterweight, defeated Meyer Grace of Indianapolis in the eight round main event of a boxing show at the Rainbo Fronton last night. Rothier held a marked advantage throughout and the decision was unanimous.

In the five round semi-windup, Al Schirato and Art Donovan boxed a draw. They are lightweights. Other results:

De Paul heavyweights got away to a good start in defense of their Catholic league championship by defeating St. George, 29 to 17, last night on the St. George floor in one of the opening games of the campaign for the 1934 title. St. George was runner-up last season.

The De Paul lightweights also were victorious, beating St. George by a score of 39 to 27. Gordon Kearns, a nephew of Nick Kearns, Western conference official, distinguished himself in the winners' lineup.

On seven floors the opening games of the Catholic league season were played. The St. Mel team, which had come through its practice schedule without a defeat, continued in top form, beating Weber, 30 to 16. The St. Mel lightweights also were successful, disposing of the Weber quintet, 37 to 18.

The St. Rita heavyweights carried their game with De La Salle into an overtime period and then won, 23 to 22. St. Rita was trailing, 20 to 18, in the closing stages of the regular playing time when Halpin tossed in the two points necessary to tie. In the extra period De La Salle scored a field goal, but St. Rita made both a free throw and a field goal, Shean throwing the deciding basket. The St. Rita lights were victorious over the De La Salle squad, 28 to 25.

Chicago Bears Reach Dallas; Play Today

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 5.—(AP)—George Halas brought his Chicago Bears to Dallas today for a game tomorrow with a team composed of former football stars at Southern Methodist university and said he would be satisfied with a one point victory.

The Bears, champions of the professional football world, held a brisk workout at Fair Park stadium. Red Grange, Bronko Nagurski, and all the rest limbered up and got accustomed to the warm, mild weather.

"I don't care," Halas said, "how good a football team is or how big it is, it can be beaten by a good club that might look so good on paper if the latter team is made up of eleven fighting men determined to win. We're in good shape all right, but we had a natural letdown the week after we beat the Giants for the championship."

The former S. M. U. stars, including Jerry Mann and Speedy Mason, worked out in the Mustang stadium. They assembled several weeks ago for a game against the S. M. U. varsity and lost, 13 to 11.

NAME COAST COACHES.

REPORT PRICE ON BROWNS TO BE $400,000

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 5.—(AP)—A price tag of $400,000 is understood to have been placed on the franchise and players of the St. Louis Browns, with several groups interested in purchasing the club.

The Post-Dispatch says today that negotiations have reached the point where not more than $100,000 stands between one group and the price set by the trustees of the estate of Phillip de Catesby Ball.

While there is said to be a difference of opinion among heirs, executors and trustees over the wisdom of selling the club at this time, the general belief in baseball circles is that the franchise and players will be sold, probably before the start of the 1934 season, with the Ball estate retaining Sportsmen's park.

Bep Van Klaveren Wins Decision Over Tony Falco

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Bep Van Klaveren, Dutch welterweight, outpointed Tony Falco of Philadelphia in a ten round bout at the Broadway arena tonight. The fight was fairly close most of the way, but Van Klaveren's cleaner and harder punching from the third through the sixth rounds gave the Dutchman a decisive edge. He weighed 145½ pounds; Falco, 142½.

Uhalt, White Sox Rookie, Wastes No Time Signing

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Bernard Uhalt, outfielder sold to the Chicago White Sox by Oakland, and Harry Lavagetto, second baseman sold by the same club to Pittsburgh, are not going to let salary terms interfere with their big league careers. They signed their first major league contracts a few minutes after receiving them.

In the Wake of the News

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: I wonder how many baseball fans remember the first baseball team sponsored by the late William Wrigley Jr., principal stockholder of the Cubs.

It was back in 1894. Mr. Wrigley's place of business then was on the north side of Kinzie street, about 200 feet west from North Clark. His place of residence, I believe, was either Oak Park or River Forest.

Of these players Kennelly and Jantzen are dead. Welsch is an auditor, Kelly a contractor, Hayes a city inspector, Murphy a humorist, Dillon in government service in Chicago, and Stines a traveling man. Giblin is a business man and at one time had the White Rocks, who played at 67th and Stony Island, formerly Hand's park.

The most famous rooter for this nine was the late Charles Tennes, noted billiard and pocket billiard player.

George Cassidy.

One of the jokes we oldtimers used to spring many, many years ago concerned two large iron lions standing outside in front of Charles Gossage & Co.'s dry goods store next to the First National bank at State and Washington. You'd say to one of your friends: "You know those two lions outside at Gossage's store." When he said "Yes" you'd reply: "Well, they don't know you."

Old Timer, 1869.

Correction should be made of Helper G. W. H.'s impression that George Kingsbury was manager of the Chicago Opera house at the time of the Iroquois theater fire in 1903. C. E. Kohl was general manager, Charles B. Draper was his assistant, and I was superintendent of the theater.

Resolution.

Today I took the little street,
The one we used to take,
With its rows of funny little shops
That face the breezy lake.
I saw a tie I thought you'd like,
The color of your eyes;
And in the fragrant bakeshop
Were your favorite cherry pies.
In the quaint old book store
Lay the book we read last spring,
And from an upstairs window
Came my song you used to sing.
As I walked home slowly
My heart was full of pain—
I'll find another little street.
I'll not go there again. Eleanor.

The Metropolitan Indoor Polo league season will begin tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street. Clashing in the opener of a double header will be the 122d Field Artillery and the Chicago Riding club, junior division contenders. A thrilling duel between Maj. Hunter, captain of the 124th Field Artillery, and Capt. C. E. Davis, head of the Sixth Corps Area three, is expected in the evening's windup. Capt. Sewell, however, was immediately reengaged, according to the announcement, which was made by Business Manager Ed Barrow, and will serve under Manager Joe McCarthy as coach along with Arthur Fletcher. These two will comprise the Yankee coaching staff in its entirety next season as both Jim Burke and Cy Perkins, who were assistant coaches last year, have resigned.

Gives Reason for Ranking Lott Tenth

Ralph Westcott, president of the Chicago Tennis association, yesterday divulged more correspondence between himself and William M. Fischer, chairman of the ranking committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association, in the controversy over the tenth place ranking of George Lott, Davis cup player.

Westcott, nominated as secretary of the U. S. L. T. A., contends that Lott is entitled to a higher ranking and threatens to bring the protest before the executive committee of the national organization.

Fischer Explains Stand.

In his reply to Westcott, Fischer explained that the ranking committee placed Lott tenth largely because most of his victories came early in the season. He pointed out that Lott beat Lester Stoefen in April, for instance, and then lost in the eastern championships in August; that he beat Gregory Mangin in January and April and lost in August.

Fischer said that the committee would be glad to have Westcott bring the question of Lott's ranking up at any meeting.

Cup Players Handicapped.

"I would like to ask you whether you and your committee believe that a player should be penalized in his ranking because he is a member of the Davis cup team," Westcott wrote in reply. "The eligible players are called into competition early in the spring by the Davis cup committee and must show peak form to insure being selected for the team. They play early round Davis cup matches against North and South American countries and if successful, as they were in 1933, they go abroad and compete in the European zone in the middle of July. Again they must point for these matches abroad."

Leopard Needs a Few Instructions in Table Manners

BY BOB BECKER.

If anybody knows how to teach an African leopard the importance of eating a meal slowly and masticating thoroughly, advice will be welcomed by Steve Williamson, the keeper in the lion house at the Lincoln park zoo. Billy is the name of this African leopard who needs coaching in his table manners, according to Mr. Williamson. He is on exhibition along with a fine group of lions, South American jaguars, black leopards and tigers in the zoo.

When it comes time to feed these big cats a chunk of beef weighing about ten pounds [including the bone] is put into their cages. Of course the leopards receive a smaller amount than the lions because they are not as large as the latter. In feeding Billy, the leopard, it is necessary to cut the meat into very small pieces and scatter them all over the floor of his cage whereas the other animals get their rations in one piece.

Billy needs this special treatment not because of poor teeth. On the contrary he is fed small pieces of meat because if given a large chunk he bolts it down and then pays the price of his bad manners by getting indigestion. The keeper has found that the only way to combat Billy's haste at the dinner table is to feed him beef that has been chopped up into such small pieces that he can't be piggish at meal time.

Baseball fans who visit the Lincoln park zoo should be especially interested in one big lion on exhibition He's a handsome fellow with a good mane and a rather truculent disposition. His name is "Hack Wilson." Hack bats 10 pounds of good beef for a home run every night at dinner-time.

Close to this big male lion are the black leopards, just about the meanest cats on exhibition. Everybody gives these vicious killers a wide berth when they pass their cage. The other morning when we walked up and down close to the cages in the lion house and disturbed some of the sleeping cats the lions seemed to gaze at us with a sort of bored, indifferent look in their eyes. They didn't show any enmity toward us. But with the black leopards it was another story. Their cold gray eyes, filled with hate, seemed to bore right through us.

The zoo has an interesting family of South American jaugars on exhibition consisting of an adult male, his wife, and a daughter named Dot. Dot was born in the zoo a few years ago. The adult male is about as big and handsome a jaugar as can be found anywhere. He's a beauty.

We have hunted jaugars in the Brazilian jungles and also seen a number of them on exhibition in that country, but no specimen that we ever looked at equals that big male in Lincoln park. Too bad he has a terrible disposition and "beats" his wife in family fights, which occur, according to the keeper, fairly often. He'd be perfect if he wasn't a "wife beater."

Two of the fastest teams in the indoor polo league will open the 1934 season tonight at the Chicago Riding club when the Chicago Free Booters meet the Chicago Riding club Cyclones.

MITCHELL SIGNS FOR BOUT WITH JACKIE WILSON

Replace Ogren-Long Tiff Here Monday.

An eight round bout between Jackie Wilson, Pittsburgh, featherweight, and Johnny Mitchell of Detroit, Mich, yesterday was substituted for the Karl Ogren-Johnny Long encounter at Marigold Gardens Monday. Johnny Phagan, west side welterweight, is expected to sign today for an eight round contest against Meyer Grace at Midway arena Monday. Phagan refused to make less than 152 pounds for the proposed match with Henry Rothler at Davenport, Ia., Thursday, so negotiations have been dropped. Young Terry of Davenport may meet Rothler in Iowa on that date.

Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, has postponed his arrival here, scheduled for today, until Monday, to complete arrangements with Chicago Stadium officials for the match between Schmeling and King Levinsky.

The first team entry for the invitation amateur boxing tournament at the Illinois Athletic club Jan. 23 and 24 was received yesterday. It was sent in by the Northwest gymnasium, 2025 North avenue. Johnny Planovich and Marty Cherkowsky, welterweights, and George Anges and Tony Settipone, bantamweights, were included on the list.

DUCE TO PRESENT GIFTS TO POOR CHILDREN TODAY

All Italy Will Observe Epiphany.

ROME, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini will assume some of the responsibilities tomorrow of "Befana," a gift bearing old woman who customarily rewards good children on the Epiphany.

Il Duce is at the head of the Fascist Epiphany organization which will distribute tens of thousands of sweaters, shirts, toys, and dolls tomorrow in the form of gift packages to small boys and girls whose homes are too humble to attract the legendary "Befana."

40,000 Gifts for Rome.

A systematic canvass of poor children has made it possible for the organization to serve the neediest first. It is estimated that more than 40,000 packages will be distributed in Rome alone.

Children of the more fortunate families will observe Epiphany very much as American children celebrate Christmas.

That it will be the third gift day of their holiday period—Christmas and New Year's were the others—will make little difference.

Tonight most Italian children hung up their stockings hoping that gnarled witch-like "Befana" herself would squeeze down the chimney with her welcome presents. Tots who had been naughty dreamed of "Ceppo," a little old hunchback, who might be expected to come by the same route and fill their stockings with lumps of coal.

Toy Fair Thronged.

Churches throughout the country will devoutly celebrate the anniversary of the visit of the Three Wise Men of the East to Bethlehem.

In Florence the festivities will center around a city-wide contest for the construction of the most artistic "Capannuccio," or crib showing Jesus with Mary and Joseph, the Three Wise Men, and the awe stricken shepherds.

Place Shoes on Door Sills.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Argentine children placed their shoes on sun baked door sills tonight so the three kings could heap them with gifts.

Tomorrow's holiday commemorating the arrival of Balthasar, Melchior, and Caspar at Bethlehem bearing gifts for the infant Jesus fills for Argentine youngsters the place Christmas occupies generally elsewhere as the day of giving.

Toy Guns Gifts in Cuba.

HAVANA, Jan. 5.—(AP)—This was the night of the "three wise men" in Cuba, corresponding to a belated Christmas for Cuban youngsters, and toy distributors said that toy guns and pistols constituted the bulk of gifts distributed over the land.

To Spanish speaking children the three wise men are pictured as making their rounds mounted on camels.

Merchants said that talk of revolution and the almost continuous "state of war" in Cuba apparently had given every boy in the island the idea he wants to be a soldier, judging from the character of the gifts requested.

ANDREW LYNCH FUNERAL RITES AT 10 TODAY

ANDREW W. LYNCH.

Funeral services for Andrew W. Lynch, oldest member of the Chicago Board of Trade, will be held at 10 o'clock today in St. Ignatius Roman Catholic church, 6559 Glenwood avenue. Mr. Lynch, who died Thursday in his home at 1036 Loyola avenue, would have been 89 years old today.

RUSSIAN SAINT CARRIES GIFTS TO LITTLE ESKIMOS

Chistmas Eve Again in Northland.

ST. PAUL ISLAND, Bering Sea, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Lucky little Indians and Eskimos; Santa Claus had barely gone back to his arctic home, and here it is Christmas eve again!

Tonight youngsters of the Russian orthodox faith are almost too excited to sleep, for all over the north—on these barren Pribiloff islands, where seals and foxes live, over in Alaska, where St. Nick's reindeer are, up in the icy Yukon land of ice and gold—they are waiting for Barbushka.

To Reward Well Behaved.

Barbushka came over long ago as a legend in the ships of the czar, in the days when Alaska belonged to Russia, and the stately bearded metropolitans of the Russian church caused tiny churches to be erected here. Now the natives celebrate both Christmas and the Epiphany season, for they are very religious.

Barbushka, the story goes, was a little old lady who lived on the road to Bethlehem. One day three wise men from the east came by on racing dromedaries and told her they were seeking the Christ, who had been born in Bethlehem.

Go On Without Her.

"Will you wait until I finish my house cleaning so that I may worship the Christ child, too?" she asked, and they waited a long time. But she was too particular about her housework, so they went on without her. Ever since, at the season of Epiphany, she has gone about seeking the Christ child and doing good to children who have minded their mothers.

There will be delightful things found in the little homes tomorrow, for the hunting and fishing have been good, the seals and reindeer have been profitable. There will be feasting, too—reindeer meat, frozen marrow, fish, even plum pudding and candy.

Then the natives will go to church to hear the liturgy of the old Russian faith.

THEATER FRAUD CHARGE WILL BE AIRED IN COURT

Avery Brundage, Horatio B. Hackett, Charles M. Moderwell, J. L. Kraft, Francis R. Blossom, the Continental Illinois National bank, and the Chicago Realty Finance company are scheduled to appear today before Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court. Their appearance is in answer to a petition filed by Leo A. Solomon, owner of a $2,000 bond on the Sheridan theater, 4044 Sheridan road, who charges that they obtained $10,000 through fraud perpetrated on the court.

In the petition which was filed on Dec. 30 and set for hearing today, Solomon charged that the defendants conspired to defraud all bondholders of the property. The bill also charged that the equipment in the theater did not belong to the defendants as they had asserted, and that rent was being paid for its use.

HUGE MIRROR IS CAST FOR OBSERVATORY

The 80 inch mirror for the reflecting telescope to be installed in a new observatory at Mount Locke, in the Davis mountains of Texas, has been successfully cast, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Otto Struve, director of the Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis.

The new observatory in Texas is being built by the University of Texas under a coöperative agreement through which the University of Chicago will furnish the staff. Dr. Struve will be director. The observatory will be named McDonald observatory.

Dr. Struve, in announcing the successful casting of the mirror, described a few details of the task. The molten glass was poured at a temperature of about 1,300 degrees. It was then quickly cooled to about 500 degrees. It is now in an annealing oven, the temperature of which will be gradually reduced over a period of three months. The mirror is being manufactured by the Corning Glass works, Corning, N. Y., which also is building a 200 inch mirror for the Mount Wilson observatory.

SEEK $500,000 TO BUY LAND IN SKOKIE MARSH

The real estate committee of the forest preserve commission of the county board initiated a move yesterday to get $500,000 from the Public Works Administration for the purchase of 250 acres of land in the Skokie valley marsh.

Members pointed out that this would provide continued work for 6,000 civilian conservation workers in forest preserve projects. At the same time what is now waste will be converted into beautiful, valuable land.

PUBLIC SERVICE PLANS TO CUT STOCK PAR 40%

The Public Service Company of Northern Illinois last night submitted a plan to stockholders for reducing the par and stated values of its common stocks by forty per cent in order to create capital surplus of $25,000,000, which will be used to write down investments of its investment affiliate and provide for its eventual liquidation.

At the same time it was announced that action on the dividends on the preferred and common stocks, ordinarily taken at this time, has been postponed pending consummation of the plan.

The proposed recasting of the capital structure was outlined in a letter to stockholders signed by James Simpson and George A. Ranney, chairman and vice chairman respectively.

How Surplus Will Be Used.

Of the $25,000,000 of surplus to be created approximately $12,000,000 will be used to write down investments of the Public Service Subsidiary corporation; $6,500,000 will be set aside to be used "as necessary" in connection with the eventual liquidation of the subsidiary corporation and the remaining $6,500,000 will be retained as capital surplus.

The program will be submitted to the Illinois commerce commission for approval before it is put to a vote of the stockholders at the annual meeting on Feb. 26.

Under the plan the par value of the $100 par common stock will be cut to $60 and the stated value of the no par common will be reduced the same amount.

Investments Are Scrutinized.

The Simpson-Ranney letter said that the company has been giving careful scrutiny to the investments and advances of the parent company and the subsidiary. These amounted to $40,035,021, with inter-company eliminations, on Dec. 31, 1932. Of this amount it is proposed to retain $12,183,521. This group of investments, the letter explains, has a value as a permanent investment substantially in excess of book and cost values.

The remaining $28,121,500 investments, against which there is a present reserve of $6,500,000, are "not now of direct benefit to the company from an operating standpoint and therefore, in the opinion of the management, should not be permanently retained."

When the capital reduction has been completed it is the intention of the management to resume preferred dividends and pay up the accumulations. Dividends on the common stock will also be resumed "if earnings continue to justify such action," the letter added.

It was further announced that preliminary figures for 1933 indicate that dividends paid were covered by earnings. At the same time the company reduced its funded debt by $1,784,500.

"The Illinois commerce commission, as well as the management of this company, has been critical of some of the investments in the portfolio of the Public Service Subsidiary corporation, and its ultimate liquidation is desired by both," the letter said at one point.

It was further pointed out that the change does not reduce the proportionate number of common shares nor disturb the present proportionate equity of shareholders.

Chain Stores Find Holidays Best in Years

Chain store and mail order houses enjoyed the best holiday business in recent years in December, the first reports from individual companies received yesterday indicated. Notable improvement was shown by four of the country's important chains, Montgomery Ward & Co., the Walgreen company, Sears, Roebuck & Co., and the S. S. Kresge company.

Montgomery Ward & Co. reported a substantial gain in total sales and a significant improvement in mail order business, which in the first stages of the pickup last year lagged behind the pace of retail trade.

December mail order sales were up 34.61 per cent over the preceding year in the December period, while retail volume was up 7.76. Total sales for the period were $25,021,715, against $21,055,133 last year, an increase of $3,966,582, or 18.84 per cent.

The December volume brought sales for the 11 months of the fiscal year to $182,820,093, compared with $168,041,185 in the corresponding period of 1932, an improvement of $14,778,908, or 8.79 per cent.

The pickup in mail order sales is due in part to the lower list prices prevailing, which are not subject to immediate adjustment as in the case of retail store prices.

In the four weeks ended Dec. 31 Sears-Roebuck scored the largest dollar increase for any comparable period in the last four years, total dollar volume was the heaviest of 1933, and the percentage increase over 1932 was only slightly under the best levels attained last year.

Total sales for the period were $34,482,615, compared with $27,454,971 in the corresponding period a year earlier, a gain of 25.6 per cent. This was also an increase of $5,720,000 over the preceding four weeks' period, compared with a seasonal advance in 1932 of $4,845,000.

For the first 48 weeks of the fiscal year, which will end Jan. 31, Sears-Roebuck's volume was $268,903,072, against $261,052,780, an improvement of $7,850,292, or 3.0 per cent.

The Walgreen company also shared in the holiday improvement, reporting December sales of $5,310,693, compared with $4,102,814, a gain of $1,207,879, or 29.4 per cent. This carried sales for the full year 1933 to $47,405,076, against $45,834,599 in 1932, a gain of $1,570,477, or 3.4 per cent. Stores in operation last year totaled 478, against 472 in 1932.

For the first time since 1929 yearly sales of the S. S. Kresge company were larger than the preceding 12 months. Total sales for 1933 were $125,743,197, against $124,421,062 for 1932, a gain of 1 per cent. December sales aggregated $19,732,232, compared with $18,050,900 for the same month in 1932, an increase of 9.3 per cent, and marking the seventh consecutive month in which volume ran ahead of the preceding year.

HOARDED MONEY FLOWS BACK TO CHICAGO BANKS

Safety Box Rentals Drop Sharply.

Indications multiply that the money that has been in hiding since the hoarding scare last spring is rapidly flowing back into depositaries where it will be available for use in regular trade channels.

This is borne out by several developments. Nearly all Chicago banks reported increases in savings deposits in their statements made public yesterday in response to the regular quarterly call for condition. A sharp drop in safety deposit box rentals is reported by banks throughout the city.

A further canvass last night of banks in the downtown and outlying districts revealed that savings deposits have continued to increase since the turn of the year, a season in which, ordinarily, withdrawals are in excess of new deposits. Deposit insurance up to $2,500 has been in effect since Monday.

Hiding Places Disgorge.

There were practically no exceptions in the uniform increases in savings shown by the reporting banks yesterday. While total deposits in many instances showed some recession savings deposits were up all along the line of the 49 banks issuing reports. An aggregate increase of 15 millions in savings over October was shown.

Equally widespread has been the decrease in safety box rentals. While this means a loss in revenue to banks offering such facilities it is a fair weather sign that is reassuring to the bankers who have watched the ebb and flow of banking confidence.

Box Surrenders Increase.

Box surrenders at one downtown bank in December were 50 per cent in excess of new rentals. A similar trend was noted at other banks. Another loop bank showed a slight increase in December rentals, but reported in each of the preceding six months declines were shown.

Although aggregate deposits and cash resources of Chicago banks expanded in the last three months of 1933, outstanding loans and discounts showed a moderate shrinkage, according to the figures published yesterday.

Deposits Up 46 Millions.

Total deposits of all Chicago banks stood at $1,790,070,000 on Dec. 30, an increase of approximately 46 millions in three months. Cash resources of the reporting banks swelled 7 millions to reach $681,271,000 at the end of the year.

The ratio of cash resources to total deposits indicates a high degree of liquidity. The emphasis on liquidity as shown by these figures and the reduction in loans and discounts show the banks did not loosen up on credit in anticipation of the deposit insurance plan. The next quarterly call will give the first clear indication of the effect of the deposit insurance on the credit policies of the banks.

Government Credit Held Key to Success of Recovery Plan

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Maintenance of government credit, experts in the financial community agreed yesterday, is the key to the success of the program outlined by President Roosevelt in his budget message.

Reactions to the message were mixed. Most of the qualified observers, however, regarded it as incomplete in one important detail. There was no explanation of the administration's monetary policy. With this link missing every one hesitated to make too definite predictions.

The consensus, however, seemed to be that if the government is able to maintain its credit standing so that the vast quantities of government bonds promised can be marketed and if the President can withstand pressure to spend more than he has outlined the chances of success are good.

Old timers described the budget message as a masterful move politically.

"By presenting the discouraging factors in gory detail," remarked one of them, "the President has let out the bad news all at once. If the nation survives the shock he can later follow this up with the 'good' news.

"The strategy seems to be to get the public accustomed to the box car figures of a thirty-two billion dollar deficit and then later to break the glad tidings that four billions is to be subtracted by reason of the dollar devaluation program and another three billions or so by reason of repayments of money lent by the Reconstruction Finance corporation."

According to the program outlined in the President's budget message the treasury will have to sell about 22 billions worth of government bonds during the next year and a half to cover the cost of the New Deal spending program and to refund maturing issues.

In the public reception to these offerings lies the crux of the whole recovery program. Since the failure of the long term offering last October the treasury has not tried to market any long term bond issues. Definite assurance that there will be no further substantial cheapening of the dollar, however, would probably restore the market for long term government bonds, despite the prospect of a total debt of nearly 32 billions by 1936.

The lack of this assurance is the reason for the financial community's regarding the budget message as incomplete. Revelation of the administration's monetary policy, however, is expected before the treasury's next big financing problems arises in March and April.

Increased buying of government bonds by banks is expected as a result of the pouring of RFC money into banks in which it buys preferred stock. The deposit guaranty which went into effect this week is also expected to help the market for "governments" in two ways. First, the 327 millions contributed to the guaranty fund by the treasury, the reserve banks and the member banks is to be invested in government bonds. Second, the guaranty of deposits is expected to reassure bank depositors to such a degree that banks will find it possible to invest some of their excess cash in government bonds.

If twenty-two billions of bonds are to be sold, however, the investing public will have to take a lot of them. Public confidence in government credit, therefore, is essential.

Lacking sufficient buyers the government could sell more bonds to the federal reserve banks in exchange for "asset" currency. Such a move, however, would be immediately recognized as merely a "greenbackism" behind false whiskers.

The general outlook for 1934 appears to be inflationary. The huge expenditures contemplated by the administration together with the prospect of early devaluation of the dollar indicate increased business activity and rising prices during the next few months.

There will be the appearance, at least, of a big expansion in business. New money poured into banks will enlarge the credit base. Public works expenditures will send federal pay rollers into the stores to buy goods in great quantities and will stimulate the capital goods industries. Relief funds will find their way into retail trade channels.

At the same time prices are supposed to rise when the full effect of the dollar devaluation become apparent. A return to 1926 price levels is the administration's goal in its dollar cheapening plan. Before the program has been completed steps may have to be taken to keep prices from rising too fast.

* *

One factor that has not yet been given much attention is the possible effect of the recovery and devaluation programs on the increasing national debt. If prices rise as far as the brain trust promises, a 32 billion dollar debt—in terms of 50 cent dollars—would be no more burdensome than a 16 billion dollar debt on the old basis.

These are some of the economic and monetary developments which may complicate the treasury's 22 billions of financing during the next year and a half.

Much will depend upon public psychology. Confidence at present seems to be on the upgrade. Bank deposits are growing and sales are increasing. Business is improving in many foreign countries and the natural forces of recovery are strong.

DOLLAR MAKES GAINS AGAINST LEADING UNITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 5.—The American dollar today staged a sharp rally against the principal foreign currencies, both the nongold and the gold-backed monies. In terms of the French franc, the dollar rose a full cent, closing at an indicated gold worth of 63.80 cents as compared with 62.79 yesterday.

Against the pound the American currency also made headway, with sterling finishing the day at $5.10½, a loss of 5¼ cents. The Canadian dollar fell to 99⅞ cents, as compared with $1.00 3-16 cents yesterday.

The RFC price for newly mined domestic gold remained at $34.06 an ounce. It contrasted with a world price in London of $32.86, figured on sterling's opening price of $5.15½.

Lake Shore Trust Reports Profit and Deposit Gain

All directors and officers of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank were reëlected yesterday at a meeting of the stockholders and directors. The bank, which operated at a profit during the last year, showed a $691,526 increase in deposits during 1933.

RECEIVER PUTS MIDDLE WEST IN BETTER POSITION

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A substantial improvement in the financial position of the Middle West Utilities company under the equity receivership in which it has been operated for the last 18 months is brought to light by the figures made public by Charles A. McCulloch, the receiver, and Robert N. Golding, counsel for the noteholders, in connection with the petition filed in the federal court, which seeks a vindication of the present administration.

As summarized by the noteholders' committee, which is cooperating with the receiver and the bank creditors in formulating reorganization proposals, there has been a net improvement of $15,600,000 in the financial position since the big holding company passed under the wing of the federal court in April, 1932.

Cash Increased, Debts Reduced.

The improvement is classified as follows: $8,000,000 increase in cash, $5,500,000 decrease in accounts payable to banks and others, $2,100,000 reduction in funded debt. The figures are exclusive of the Commonwealth Light and Power and United Public Service groups, which are in separate receiverships. The debt retirement program has been carried on through purchases in the open market and the reduction represents the par amount of bonds bought in. This purchase program is being continued.

The plants of the various operating companies are in good condition in the opinion of the noteholders' protective committee. Attorney Golding pointed out that more than $80,000,000 has been spent on new construction since 1930.

Rural Operations Backward.

The kilowatt production figures of the company's properties do not compare as favorably with 1932 output as do those for the industry as a whole. This is due to the fact that operations are confined to rural areas and smaller communities. It has been in the large industrial areas that the big improvement in power production has been recorded in recent months. The comparative showing has been improving, however. In October—the latest figure available—kilowatt hour sales were eight-tenths of 1 per cent above the same month of 1932, while the cumulative production for the 10 months' period was one-half of one per cent off.

Electrical power sales are the company's principal source of revenue—more than 75 per cent of the gross coming from this business.

The gas, water, ice and miscellaneous business carried on by various subsidiaries in many instances has been unprofitable because of overcapitalization and other reasons, and under the receivership there has been an attempt to weed out the least desirable of these properties.

Whether it will be possible eventually to lift the receivership or whether the company will have to go through bankruptcy is a matter that neither the receiver nor other interested parties are willing to predict now.

PUBLIC SERVICE VALUATION PUT AT $167,218,036

Experts of the Philadelphia engineering firm of Day & Zimmerman testified before the Illinois commission yesterday that the value of the physical property of the electric division of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois was $143,483,099. With the value of other facilities added, this would bring the company's total valuation to $167,218,036. The testimony was introduced by the company to justify its present rates. Experts for the commission have testified that the valuation should be from $115,000,000 to $135,000,000. At the close of the hearing, George Vessolago, one of the Philadelphia engineers, was testifying as to the prices of electrical equipment. He will resume the stand this morning.

WEEK'S FREIGHT LOADINGS 11.2% OVER LAST YEAR

Total for Year Is 2.8% Better than 1932.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—The American Railway association announced today that loadings of revenue freight for the week ended Dec. 30 were 450,622 cars, a decrease of 76,445 from the preceding week but an increase of 45,321, or 11.2 per cent, over the same week in 1932. Both years included the Christmas holiday.

The association also announced that loadings of revenue freight for the year of 1933 were 28,960,910 cars as compared with 28,179,952 in 1932.

The year's loadings were 2.8 per cent higher than 1932, but still were 8,190,339 cars less than in 1931.

How Divisions Fared.

Miscellaneous freight loading during the week ended Dec. 30 was 159,097 cars, a decrease of 23,431 below the preceding week, but 30,355 above the corresponding week in 1932; less than car lot merchandise was 124,361 cars, decrease 30,818 and 2,667; grain and grain products, 20,325, decrease 4,098 and 1,657; forest products, 11,695, a decrease of 6,182 below the preceding week, but 2,250 above last year; ore, 2,078, a decrease of 1,658 below the preceding week, but 645 over 1932; coal, 114,284, a decrease of 7,366 below the preceding week, but 15,299 above 1932 and 7,855 above 1931; coke, 7,100 cars, an increase of 357 over the preceding week, 2,789 over last year and 1,261 above 1931, and live stock, 11,682, a decrease of 3,249 and 1,693.

The annual statement shows that the greatest increase in percentage was in the hauling of ore, these shipments increasing 232.9 per cent. The 1932 shipments were 210,367 and those for 1933 700,286.

Trucks Cut Package Freight.

Less than car lot merchandise and live stock both showed decreases during the year. The less than carlot merchandise dropped 7.1 per cent owing in part, it was estimated, to the fact that great quantities of small package freight are being hauled by trucks.

TREASURY WILL OPEN DRIVE FOR OVERDUE TAXES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—By a vigorous concerted drive, treasury officials hope to collect more than $300,000,000 in delinquent taxes during the next 18 months and thus put a nick of that size in the deficit forecast by President Roosevelt.

Secretary Morgenthau today disclosed plans for mobilizing internal revenue collectors in an intensive campaign to which is to be added an effort to speed up the processes by which the government and taxpayers settle disputes as to the amounts to be paid.

The cabinet officer estimated that delinquent taxes totaled some $800,000,000. The expected collections of $300,000,000, which were disclosed later, are roughly a little less than 40 per cent of that amount, a proportion which, however, is well above the average of collected delinquencies. This over a period of years has been around 30 per cent.

The procedure to be followed, Morgenthau said, is this:

The collectors of internal revenue will be summoned to a meeting here on Jan. 17, at which the problem will be thoroughly discussed. One collector will be pitted against another in an effort to further the campaign.

"We will work out a quota on back taxes for each internal revenue collector, put the quota up on a blackboard and see how far the collectors can bring down their quotas," the secretary said. "We'll have a little rivalry."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—Stabilization of steel prices under authority of the NRA code of fair competition for the iron and steel industry, approved by President Roosevelt on Aug. 19, last, has produced so many identical bids on steel products that the navy department is awarding bids with the aid of Lady Luck.

When identical bids are submitted on iron and steel products used for the construction of war vessels or other navy purposes, all other elements of the equation being alike, the names of bidders on a particular lot of steel, written on small strips of paper and encased in capsules, are placed in a metallic tobacco humidor.

A public drawing of the capsules is made in the presence of representatives of bidders or others who desire to be present, and the contract awarded to the bidder whose name is first drawn from the humidor.

This has been done in warding bids for navy steel cables, shapes, bars, billets, plates, angle bars and other products of the industry covered by the iron and steel code, which is administered by the board of directors of the American Iron and Steel institute.

RESERVE BANKS' REPORTS REVEAL 10 LOSE, 2 GAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 5.—Ten of the twelve federal reserve banks operated at a net loss, after dividends and charges last year, it was revealed today when the detailed statements of the reserve banks became available. The two which showed a net profit transferred to surplus account at the year's end were the New York Federal Reserve bank, with $2,688,000 added to surplus, and the Chicago Federal Reserve bank, with $932,000 transferred to surplus.

The disclosure that ten of the twelve banks netted a loss was surprising in view of the large volume of United States government securities and other earning assets which has been held by the system throughout the year. It appears from the results shown that the reserve banks must have made heavy charges against earnings to write down their assets, including buildings, plant, and other fixed items, in order to use up all the interest which they must have received on their swollen portfolios of government securities.

Losses Shown by Banks.

The net reduction of surplus shown by the ten banks in their year-end adjustments were: Boston, $620,000 loss, compared with $421,911 credited to surplus at the end of 1932; Philadelphia, $1,269,000 loss, compared with $2,756,158 gain a year ago; Cleveland, $58,000 loss, against $653,414 gain a year ago; Richmond, $637,000 loss, against $133,767 profit a year ago; Atlanta, $127,000 loss, against $95,405 profit a year ago; St. Louis, $337,000 loss, compared with $161,455 gain a year ago; Minneapolis, $90,000 loss, against $662,685 gain last year; Kansas City, $519,000 loss, against $318,274 gain last year; Dallas, $676,000 gain, compared with $1,094,400 profit a year ago, and San Francisco, $206,000 loss, compared with $1,994,097 added to surplus at the end of 1932.

The twelve banks of the system combined show a net loss after dividends and charges of $919,000 for 1933, contrasted with a gain of $19,178,850 in 1932.

CHICAGO BANK PROFITS.

The Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, whose stock is held by the reserve member banks in this district yesterday reported that 1933 operations yielded net earnings of $2,290,493, a slight increase over the $2,242,725 reported for 1932.

The bank's total resources also showed an increase to $1,439,779,438 at the close of the year as compared with $1,207,317,162 at the end of 1932. At the same time the paid in capital declined to $12,790,200 from $16,157,250, rejecting the surrender of stock by banks which closed during the year.

After paying $858,127 in dividends and setting aside $500,000 for insurance reserve, there was a balance of $932,365 from 1933 earnings transferred to surplus.

Surplus Over $40,000,000.

The bank closed the year with surplus of $40,429,399, an increase of about $1,000,000. The bank has not yet paid over half of its surplus to the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, as provided by the 1933 banking act. It is expected that the corporation will call these funds in a few days, which will result in a reduction of about $20,000,000 of the bank's surplus.

The board announced the appointment of Charles R. Dunn as general counsel of the bank. Mr. Dunn has been connected with the legal staff of the bank for several years and in the future will devote all his time to its affairs.

Other officers were reëlected. George J. Schaller, Storm Lake, Ia., banker, was elected acting governor last month.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—The federal trade commission will assume the position of a court of appeals in trade practice disputes arising from the operation of the NRA under a form of procedure clarified by President Roosevelt today.

In response to inquiries as to the relation between the NRA and the commission in view of the NRA's jurisdiction over trade disputes in codified industries, President Roosevelt said the NRA is expected to use every means possible to bring about amicable settlement of such disputes, just as the national labor board, of which Senator Wagner is chairman, is designed to settle labor disputes under the NRA codes.

However, should a friendly settlement of trade disputes be found impossible, then the federal trade commission will be expected to take a hand in the regular way and hand down formal decisions just as it did before the NRA came into existence.

TRADE OUTLOOK FOR 1934 BETTER THAN YEAR AGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 5.—The outstanding development in business in the first week of the new year is the hopefulness displayed in trade and industry and the excellent comparison of current reports with those of the corresponding period a year ago, when all was uncertainty and fear as to the future, according to the trade reviews of the week.

Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., commenting on the state of trade, say in part:

"Cheerfulness over the outlook for the retail and wholesale divisions of trade in consumer goods during the first quarter is founded not only on the increased buying power, but on the stronger desire to spend rather than to hoard, which was in evidence at the beginning of last year.

Consumer Buying Stronger.

"With the confirmations pouring in regarding the unexpected large totals of retail sales last month, uncertainty regarding the strength of consumer buying power is being dispelled. As much of the demand centered around merchandise of good quality, even though it sold at a higher figure than a year ago, reports of buyers' resistance to advanced price levels are on the wane, giving promise that during the ensuing year price will become secondary to quality, a position in which it rightfully belongs.

"The wholesale market opened the year with activity general in wearing apparel as well as in staple lines, the inquiries indicating the light inventories of retailers in nearly all divisions. Most of the stores have revised their early buying budgets upward, in some cases as much as 15 to 20 per cent above the figures of a year ago.

Inventory Figures Cheerful.

"While after-inventory reports are not spectacular, except in a few isolated instances, for the first time in four years many houses are showing the balance on the right side of the ledger, while countless others find the figures on the other side reduced to such a small amount that they have become convinced that recovery is off to a good start.

DETROIT BANK "TRICKS" TOLD AT SENATE QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—Speculative attacks on bank stocks by stock brokers, camouflaging of bank statements, and switching of deposits from one bank to another "to make a showing" for the benefit of the depositing public were some of the "deplorable things" that precipitated the Michigan banking collapse, according to evidence given the senate banking and currency committee today.

It was asserted that stock of units in the Guardian Detroit Union group, which controlled banks in all parts of Michigan, was "batted around from pillar to post like a football" through the manipulations of brokers and speculators.

Stockholders "Panicky."

It was declared that these brokers "in their desperation for commissions" conducted a telephonic campaign involving Guardian stockholders in all parts of the state, advising them to buy or sell bank stocks, with the result that stockholders became "panicky" and were influenced by every rumor, no matter how trivial.

Henry Ford and Senator Couzens likewise found themselves for a brief moment in today's picture. This was during the giving of testimony by Alfred P. Leyburn, chief national bank examiner, who was in charge of the Detroit area in the stormy days preceding the Michigan banking collapse. Leyburn was telling of the application of the group for a loan of $45,000,000 from the RFC Feb. 6, 1933. The loan was disapproved because of insufficient collateral.

Recall Ford's Deposits.

In presenting their request for the loan, the Detroit bankers recalled the fact that Henry Ford had deposits of about $20,000,000 in the banks, whereupon a member of the RFC board interrupted and said:

"Why should we bail out Mr. Ford?"

At about the same time be added that Senator Couzens threatened to "scream from the housetops" if the loan was made. Then a suggestion was made that President Hoover intercede with Ford to aid the distressed bank. Ford's reaction to the suggestion, according to Leyburn, was an emphatic "no."

Ernest Kanzler, who was chairman of the board of the Guardian Detroit Union group, was the leadoff witness and he faced a withering fire of cross-examination by Ferdinand Pecora, the committee counsel. Kanzler saw nothing wrong in the shifting of deposits from one bank to another to show no bills payable. He said he thought it was a general banking practice.

Asks About "Window Dressing."

"As a matter of fact, it was simply a window dressing scheme, was it not?" asked Pecora.

"It was not a scheme. It was a program to show that the Guardian Detriot Union group within itself had the strength to get the funds to pay their bills," Kanzler replied.

"Was it not a false show of strength?" Pecora asked, "for one of these unit banks to resort to a shifting of deposits to show no bills payable, and then to restore the indebtedness after the bank statement was issued?"

"In my opinion," Kanzler answered, "it showed the bank could get the deposits if it needed them to meet bills payable."

"Fraud on Public."

"Yes, sir, I do."

"Assume that I was applying to your bank for a loan," interrupted Senator Couzens, "and that in so doing I furnished a statement in which I showed that I had no debts and was in good financial condition. Also assume that two days prior to that time a relative had paid off all my debts and he subsequently came in and demanded payment, would you consider that money under false pretenses?"

When, in October, 1930, group stock had dropped from highs of $350 a share to $75, what Kanzler described as a "purchase agreement," but which Pecora called a "pool," was organized to stem the tide which was pulling group stock to low levels. There were 110 signers, including Charles Beecher Warren, Roy D. Chapin, and James Ingles, chairman of the board of the National Bank of Detroit. The group, said Kanzler, purchased $3,200,000 of stock, the maximum price being $45 a share. This helped a little, but did not stem the tide.

RFC BUYS 248 MILLION STOCK TO AID 3,391 NONRESERVE BANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—President Roosevelt received today from Harvey Couch, a director of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, a graph showing that between Nov. 9, 1933, and Jan. 1, 1934, the corporation assisted 3,391 banks, not members of the federal reserve system, to qualify for membership in the deposit insurance fund by purchasing their preferred stocks or capital notes.

These banks, all state banks and located in every locality except Oklahoma, where state laws make aid in the form of purchases by the corporation of preferred stock impracticable, received a total of $248,373,350, according to the tabulation.

The graph, showing the daily upward sweep of this relief work, revealed that the corporation anticipated applications from 3,450 banks: applications were received from 3,502 banks, and applications were approved to a total of 3,391. The corporation estimated the amount required for capital correction at $275,000,000, whereas the amount applied for was $306,100,825. Applications of 111 banks for $57,727,475 were rejected.

McCAIN, LAST OF WIGGIN GROUP, TO QUIT CHASE BANK

Rockefeller Interests Will Have Full Control.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 5.—Charles H. McCain will resign as chairman of the board of directors of the Chase National bank to become president and chief executive officer of the United Light and Power company, it was announced today. His resignation will be presented at the annual meeting of the bank next Tuesday and McCain will assume his new duties about Feb. 1. William Chamberlain, who is now president of United Light and Power, will become chairman of the board.

While no announcement was made as to McCain's successor at the bank, it is understood that Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the governing board and senior officer of the bank, also will assume the chairmanship of the board of directors.

Wiggin Group Out, Rockefellers In.

Aldrich, it is understood, at the same time will relinquish the presidency of the bank and will be succeeded by H. D. Campbell, now a vice president.

The retirement of McCain will remove from the bank the last influence of Albert H. Wiggin and will leave the Rockefeller interests, now largest stockholders in the Chase bank, in undisputed control. Aldrich is a brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller Jr.

The stepping out of McCain follows by only a few days the announcement of John McHugh, chairman of the executive committee, that he would sever his connection with the bank.

Last fall, during investigation of the Chase bank and its affiliates by the senate banking committee, McCain was one of the chief witnesses. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia charged that McCain had been one of the promoters of a senate filibuster which wrecked the Glass bank reform bill in 1931.

Harriman Bank Crash Recalled.

McCain was elected president of the National Park bank in 1927. When Wiggin acquired the National Park for consolidation with the Chase National in 1929 McCain was elected president of the Chase bank. Until a little over a year ago McCain was chairman of the New York Clearing house committee, which was alleged to have assured the controller of currency that it would "look after" the Harriman National Bank and Trust company when its closing was first urged by that official.

Financial quarters construe the retirement of Wiggin, McHugh, and McCain as incidental to a reshaping of the bank's management in connection with the assumption of a more dominant interest in its affairs by the Aldrich-Rockefeller faction.

The United Light and Power company is a 500 million dollar utility holding concern, with a long string of operating electric power and gas companies scattered over middle western and southwestern territory.

Swift & Co.

Investors' Guide: Please let me have your opinion of Swift & Co. common stock. Thank you for past advice and for this in advance.—C. M. E.

Answer: Swift & Co. is the largest meat packing concern in the world. Ranking close to it are the others of the "Big Four," Armour & Co., Wilson & Co., and Cudahy Packing company. Meat packing constitutes the bulk of Swift's business, but sale of by-products, poultry, eggs, and cheese, provide important supplementary sources of revenues. The company has consistently pursued an aggressive advertising policy.

Operations during the year ended Oct. 31, 1933, were featured by inventory profits instead of losses, widening of profit margin and increased tonnage volume of sales. Tonnage volume of sales was 6 per cent ahead of the preceding year and established a new high record.

1933	$500,000,000	$ 5,883,000	$ 1.00
1932	539,000,000	*5,338,000	* .89
1931	710,000,000	†8,235,000	†1.37
1930	900,000,000	12,491,000	2.08

*Loss. †Including $7,558,000, or $1.26 per share, profit on sale of capital assets.

In the year ended Oct. 28, 1933, earnings were after deduction of $4,267,000 as a reserve for inventory fluctuations.

On Oct. 28, 1933, cash assets of almost $50,000,000 compared with total current liabilities of $19,314,000. Funded debt, none of which matures prior to 1940, aggregated $48,269,000, against $53,912,000 the year before. There are outstanding 5,895,527 shares of $25 par stock.

A dividend of 12½ cents a share was paid Jan. 2, the first for 18 months. This does not establish the stock on a regular dividend basis. Directors are following a "policy of moderation" and will adjust disbursements to earnings.

The corporation occupies an outstanding trade position, is well intrenched financially and has an impressive earnings record. Its stock deserves a fairly good rating. There has been some talk concerning the possibility of federal action to restrict packers' profits.

Dividends.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate knowing what dividends were paid to holders of Nash Motors and Texas corporation stock in 1933.—D. M. S.

Answer: Distribution on Nash Motors stock totaled 75 cents a share in 1933. Texas corporation stock paid $1 a share.

RAIL EARNINGS FIGURED 1.76 PCT. ON PROPERTIES

Net railway operating income of class one railroads of the United States totaled $435,804,479 in the first 11 months of 1933, according to preliminary estimates, the bureau of railway economics announced yesterday. This is an annual rate of return of 1.76 per cent on property investment and compares with $294,012,783, or 1.19 per cent, in the corresponding period of 1932.

Gross revenues for the period aggregated $2,850,116,642, compared with $2,883,542,516 in 1932, a decrease of 1.2 per cent. Operating expenses amounted to $2,062,237,383, against $2,217,503,913, down 7 per cent, while taxes paid in the 11 months' period totaled $239,105,900, against $259,606,210, a drop of 7.9 per cent.

Operating net in the western district for the eleven months was $121,766,899, against $76,661,527 a year earlier; $260,975,121 against $197,426,026 in the eastern territory, and $53,062,459 against $19,925,230 in the southern area.

FURNITURE SHOW TO BE EXTENDED NEXT SUMMER

The 1934 summer market at the American Furniture Mart will be extended a week beyond the usual fortnight, Lawrence H. Whiting, Mart president, announced last night. The market will run from June 25 to July 14.

It was felt that the renewal of A Century of Progress would bring another large influx of buyers who could not be served adequately in the customary fortnight.

Results at the current showing, which continues through next week, are hailed as "highly satisfactory." Registrations for the fourth day brought attendance to 2,306, within 175 of the American Furniture Mart World's Fair registrations of last summer.

U. S. Leads in World Wide Jobs Gains: Geneva Bureau

GENEVA, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The international labor office said officially today that the United States was leading a world-wide improvement in the unemployment situation. It declared the employment index for the United States had risen from 59.6 in October, 1932, to 73.5 in October, 1933.

U. S. AND UTILITY REACH ACCORD IN TENNESSEE PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 5.—The Tennessee Valley Authority announced today that an agreement had been reached with four of the principal power companies operating in the Tennessee valley, involving the sale of certain properties by them to the TVA and a definite working arrangement designed to eliminate the danger of wasteful competition between private and public capital. The companies are subsidiaries of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation.

The agreement is intended to establish a basis for coöperative effort until the TVA has completed the proposed new hydroelectric power plant. The contract provides for the purchase of $3,000,000 properties from power companies, thus giving the TVA an immediate market for Muscle Shoals power; the sale of municipal systems in the Mississippi counties affected to the TVA; the sale of municipal systems in Alabama to the municipalities themselves and a reduction in rates in Tennessee.

The contract also covers a definite agreement as to power market areas, rates for the interchange of power between the companies and the TVA, and arrangements for sale of electric appliances to homes and farms through the Electric Home and Farm Authority, Inc., a subsidiary formed by the TVA recently to finance the sale of appliances in the Tennessee valley.

HEAD OF ATLAS TACK ARRESTED IN STOCK PROBE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 5.—Philip H. Philbin Jr., who controlled the Atlas Tack corporation while the company's stock staged its sensational rise and fall this year, was arrested today.

Philbin is accused of failing to account for checks totaling $404,000 which passed through his hands when questioned by Assistant District Attorney Ambrose V. McCall. He was booked at the police station charged with violating that section of the general business law which has to do with failure to answer questions after being served with a subpœna in a lawful investigation.

Sarcastic Over Arrest.

The stock manipulator was sarcastic in the police station. After Mr. McCall and Assistant District Attorney General Jacob Fruber signed the complaints Philbin said:

"Isn't there any one else over there that wants some publicity, so we can get their names on here, too?"

Arraigned in the Tombs court Philbin pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 bail for a hearing on Tuesday. Conviction on the charge carries a possible sentence of two years' imprisonment and $5,000 fine.

Philbin said he was 35 years old, unmarried and an investor, his attorney, Paul McCauley, protested the arrest, charging the assistant attorney general with "abusing his office."

Gives "I Don't Know" Answers.

At the hearng Philbin is said to have answered "I don't know" to a long series of questions about checks which had been drawn to his account by Philip H. Philbin Jr., Inc., a company which he formed when he began his dealing in Atlas stock.

Of the $404,000 withdrawn from the company account, $300,900 was withdrawn by Harold B. Hale, Philbin's personal secretary and secretary of the company. Hale left New York state within the last ten days.

"Unless you care to talk and answer these questions, I am going to have you arrested," McCall said. Philbin objected that he would be unable to answer specific questions without going over his records.

Twin City Street Railway Lifts Wages 6 Per Cent

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—(AP)—T. Julian McGill, president of the Twin City Street Railway company, today announced a 6 per cent wage increase affecting all employés excepting executives and those in the higher salary brackets, effective Jan. 25. He said it was impossible to announce how many would be affected because the number of employés varies.

AUDITORS' GROUP AIMS TO IMPROVE CITY ACCOUNTING

Ten agencies interested in improving municipal accounting and reporting yesterday organized a National Committee on Municipal Accounting and chose Frank J. Flanagan of the city council's finance committee's staff as chairman.

At the meeting general principles of municipal accounting to be followed by local governments were approved, and a program of municipal audits to guide public accountants and public officials was reviewed. Headquarters will be located at 850 East 58th street.

PUSH REVAMPING OF ASSOCIATED TEL. UTILITIES

Progress on the reorganization of the Associated Telephone Utilities company, a segment of the old Insull utility empire, is reported by the bondholders' committee. The committee announced yesterday that more than 50 per cent of the bonds has been deposited under the reorganization plan formulated last June.

The company broke away from the Insull group before the big collapse in 1932, but it later had to go into receivership. The Bonbright utility interests took over the management about six months before Middle West Utilities went into receivership and headquarters were moved to New York.

NRA CHIEF SETS PUBLIC HEARING ON BANKS' FEES

Says Bankers Are Free to Propose Charges.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson will hold a public hearing on Feb. 15 on the proposal of American bankers to adopt uniform service charges to depositors under the bank code of fair competition.

Johnson said he was laying down no rules as to whether the bankers should bring in new proposals for the public hearing or whether they could present the schedule of charges which the code authority had sought without his consent to establish the first of the year.

The NRA chief announced this plan at a press conference this morning. He also said he probably would call in the code committees of the almost 200 industries now under agreement for a general session in February to reconcile conflicts between industries, complaints against the functioning of individual codes, and the "whole flock" of administrative troubles.

Objections Will Be Heard.

Johnson said the bankers could bring in "anything they want to" and representatives of the banks themselves and of the public would have full opportunity to air their objections. Pending the hearing the time for placing service charge schedules in effect was extended indefinitely.

In addition to the general session on code complaints contemplated for February the NRA will hold an open hearing on Jan. 9 on specific objections to the lumber industry code. That pact and the electrical code, debated yesterday, are regarded by NRA officials as having caused the most trouble.

Division Administrator Malcolm Muir, anouncing this lumber hearing, said that a majority of the complaints have been unofficial and somewhat vague, but were based on "apparently well founded reports that this code is not operating as well as it should for the industry."

Object to Rigid Output.

Most complaints are against the rigid allocation of production under a limited allowable total; that southern wages are too high and are damaging mills of that territory; that wholesalers are not operating under the code, and that the price provisions are a source of trouble.

Johnson said the vagueness of complaints was a trouble generally encountered in trying to correct unfairness or enforce discipline under all codes. He said, however, that specific evidence at last had been obtained in sufficient volume to justify a hearing on Jan. 12 on profiteering complaints.

While Johnson was outlining these new administrative plans Gerard Swope, as chairman of the business advisory council of the department of commerce, announced that a committee, headed by Henry S. Dennison of Massachusetts, was trying to collect information on reports that small industries were being damaged by codes.

SPENDING PLANS SCARE TRADERS; STOCKS DECLINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brokers insisted that sentiment was still preponderantly bullish, but traders and investors couldn't seem to get that ten billion dollar government spending program out of their minds and see their way clear to invest money in stocks when so much is going to have to go out in taxes and other forms of government assessment. So most of them stuck to the sidelines and left it to the professionals to keep up appearances pending further news out of Washington.

Thus neglected, the market put up a pretty sorry performance. Price movements were sluggish and narrow, with a growing tendency to ease to lower levels. Closing tables were featured by net losses of 1 to 2 points for the entire active list.

Recent Leaders Sold.

Mining stocks, some of the automobiles, and a scattering of specialties which got the play in the late afternoon rally yesterday came in for the brunt of the selling. United States Smelting, the star gainer of the previous session, sold off more than 4 points, and losses of 1 to around 3 points were suffered by Howe Sound, Alaska Juneau, American Smelting, Patino Mines, McIntyre and others of the group.

Profit taking was held to account for the bulk of sales in the department.

Utility issues held well, comparatively speaking. Their performance was in exact reverse to that of yesterday. Public Service countered the trend for a net gain of a point as did Peoples Gas of Chicago. Consolidated Gas, Standard Gas, Electric Power and Light and others idled along within fractions of their previous closing levels. American Telephone once more looked up modestly.

Word that the war department was buying airplanes and prospects that such expenditures would increase stimulated some buying in Douglas Aircraft, Curtiss Wright, United Aircraft and allied aviation stocks.

Rails Drift Lower.

Rails were unable to make any worthwhile capital out of the general disposition to anticipate an improving trend in carloadings. Atchison, Illinois Central, New York Central, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson and others gave up a point or so each.

In the automobile group, Chrysler sold off rather sharply after a show of strength in the early dealings. Auburn was likewise weak. Action of the motor group pointed to a run of profit taking on the eve of the automobile show here.

Oils were further unsettled by the gasoline price war in the metropolitan district and fears that it might spread throughout the entire east.

In the communications division Western Union and International Telephone came in for some brisk patronage, the first named issue on expectations of congressional action on the government sponsored wire merger project.

Chemicals, industrials and other issues favored by the spring business outlook were quiet with the general list. Most of them finished in lower ground. Realizing sales cut some of the alcohol stocks down rather sharply.

STEEL INTERESTS FIND NEW SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT

Cleveland, O., Jan. 5.—(AP)—From several eastern and midwestern sectors came a heartening chorus today that a good demand for steel may be in the making for 1934. Reports ran along the same tenor of expression in New York, Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Cleveland, and Detroit.

A representative of one of the largest organizations operating at Pittsburgh was confident enough to predict that the 1934 production increase over 1933 may be as high as 25 per cent. Help from public works allotments is expected later in the year.

The University of Pittsburgh business research bureau announced that steel operations in the Pittsburgh area last week were 51.1 per cent of normal, a small increase over the previous two wekes. Conditions were improved compared with the same period a year ago.

In New York steel observers noted a moderate lull for the current week, but expected that when automobile production begins to mount late this month and early in February, the steel industry will improve substantially.

Chicago Curb to Select Officers Next Monday

Members of the Chicago Curb exchange will hold their annual meeting Monday, at which elections to the board of governors for the ensuing year will be held. Present candidates are expected to be installed uncontested, as no opposition ticket has appeared. Exchange officers will be named by the newly elected board directly after the meeting.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 5.—United States government bonds were again the center of attention in the listed bond market today. Prices of the federal issues closed generally lower, but slightly above the lows of the day. Final quotations were off mostly 1-32 to 6-32 point.

Financial interests were still considering possibilities of the big federal financing program. While banks acknowledged that the bonds could be sold, the task was regarded as difficult. Bankers said it might be well to popularize government bonds with the public to prevent undue loading on the banks.

Corporate List Weak.

The course of the market for domestic corporation bonds was irregularly lower. The rails as a group showed strength, however.

Foreign bonds were featured by a general recovery in many German loans, some of which were up 1 to more than 4 points. French government bonds gained fractionally on the day, as did Italian government 7s, while Dutch East Indies loans were down fractionally to 2⅜ points. Austrian government 7s, due 1957, mounted 2⅜ points. South American issues finished irregularly higher.

Turnover Is Smaller.

The day's transactions aggregated $14,605,000, against $17,390,000 on the previous session. United States government issues provided $5,544,000 of the turnover, against $7,320,000 on the preceding day.

Curb bonds, both domestic and foreign, developed fair strength in quiet trading. A representative group of domestic issues were bid up 1 to 4 points, with the chief gains registered in the foreign loans ranging up to 3¾ points.

INSURANCE PUTS $192,000,000 INTO USE IN ILLINOIS

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—American life insurance companies placed approximately $192,200,000 into circulation in Illinois during 1933, according to an estimate just published by Arthur F. Hall, president of the Lincoln National Life Insurance company.

"For the fifth consecutive year," Mr. Hall explained, "total life insurance payments to living policyholders and beneficiaries have scored an increase, thereby establishing the life insurance industry as one of the chief contributing factors to the economic stability of the nation.

"Total payments in 1933 were $3,100,000,000, a slight gain over the figure of $3,087,000,000 in 1932, and a larger gain over the total of $2,607,000,000 in 1931."

HOLC BONDS.

Bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation were quoted yesterday at 86¾ bid, 87¼ asked.

ALL GRAINS EASE DUE TO LIGHTER TRADE INTEREST

Corn Prices Weakest on Loss of ½ to 1 Cent.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Inflation talk which prevailed late Thursday based on the President's budget message to congress proved to be a one day influence in the grain markets, and prices declined yesterday almost as readily as they had advanced the previous day. There was a noticeable lack of aggressive buying in all lines and wheat closed near the bottom at net losses of ⅜ to ⅝ cents. May closed at 84 to 84¼ cents, and July at 82⅝ to 82⅝ cents.

Corn, which had shown independent strength Thursday, led the decline yesterday, losing ½ to 1 cent with May at 51⅜ to 51½ cents. Oats were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, May at 37 cents. Rye lost ⅝ to ¾ cents, May at 57¼ cents. Barley lost ¼ cent to close at 52 cents for May.

Wheat Receipts Decline.

Lack of a broad speculative interest in the grain markets is regarded as one of the main influences in offsetting what the trade regards as a bullish situation. As many see it the federal proposal to spend $250,000,000 to promote orderly marketing of farm products means there will be a continued limited movement of grain to terminal markets for some time. In the last two days receipts of wheat at those centers have been about 375,000 bushels, the smallest since the new crop was harvested, and the total includes grain movement from one primary point to another. Due to the small movement practically all grades of contract wheat at the leading points of accumulation are selling at May price to a good premium.

A proposal made at Washington which seeks to force all farmers to curtail acreage of basic commodities to a point where production is about equal to domestic requirements caused some comment in the trade during the day. The belief prevailed that such action was the only way in which the AAA efforts to balance supply and demand could succeed.

Foreign Markets Independent.

Winnipeg again showed little disposition to follow the action of American markets, and wheat there closed only ¾ cent lower for the day. Strength in sterling and small shipments from the southern hemisphere had some effect on Liverpool, and the close was ¾ to 1¼ cents higher.

Arrivals of cash corn at primary points continued abnormally light, and only 30 cars were received there. The basis for sale, as compared with the May delivery, was ¼ to ½ cent higher with industries back in the market for fair supplies. Scarcity of corn in Europe is becoming more pronounced. The Liverpool market was about 2¾ cents a bushel higher, equal to 67 cents, or 15½ cents above Chicago May.

No export sales of domestic grain were indicated during the day, although local handlers sold 140,000 bushels to the domestic trade. Purchases of 15,000 bushels were made to arrive from the country.

The effect of the producer holding back his corn from market through assistance given by government loans is offset to a large extent by the record breaking stocks of 60,000,000 bushels at terminal markets. In addition nearly 10,000,000 bushels is held in bond in Canadian ports.

BILL SEEKS U. S. LOANS TO BUILD OR REPAIR HOMES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Legislation to give the Home Owners Loan corporation authority to make cash loans for home construction and repairs was introduced today by Representative Duffy ,Dem., Ohio]. The measure asks an appropriation of $500,000,000 for the new activities.

The corporation for three years from last June 13 would be authorized to lend up to $20,000, or 75 per cent of the value of the structure and land, secured by a mortgage bearing 5 per cent interest, to be paid back over an 18 year period. Loans for repairs, modernizations or alterations would be limited to $3,500, or 60 per cent of the value, before the improvements are made, with repayment required in 10 years.

Oregon Reports Full Cargo of Wheat Sold to Europe

Portland, Ore., Jan. 5.—(AP)—The sale of the first full cargo of wheat to Europe in at least 15 months was confirmed by the trade here today. The sale consisted of around 280,000 bushels. The grain will be shipped to the continent for orders.

U. S. NOW BUYING CATTLE FOR USE IN RELIEF WORK

Expected to Take Up to 45,000 Head.

The Federal Surplus Relief corporation started a four weeks' buying program in the cattle market yesterday. Five packing houses were buying for the account of the corporation, and will continue to purchase five days a week at the rate of about 2,200 a day. It is estimated that up to 45,000 head will be purchased at all points.

The buying is done only on the central markets and the meat is to be processed by the packers who do the buying, canned in the form of roasted and corned beef and delivered immediately to the relief corporation for distribution to the unemployed.

Yesterday's Purchases.

Armour yesterday bought 850 at all points, Swift 90, Wilson 600, Cudahy 400, and the Superior Packing company 100. The Superior company, located at St. Paul, will have the Illinois Packing company at Chicago handle its government cattle.

It was said by the packers yesterday that with the exception of the offal and hide which the packer gets as part payment for the job of slaughtering and processing the meat, the entire carcass will go into the cans. This was taken into consideration when the bids were made. Packers were specifically instructed about marking the name and address of the owner of the cows on the scale ticket when the animals are weighed, as no cows owned by speculators will be acceptel by the government.

Benefit to Owners.

It is the intention that all money is to go directly to the farmer owner. Only the best grades of canner cows are to be used, packers said. Some of those bought yesterday were on the beef order.

Thus far the government buying in the cattle markets is confined entirely to cows. There has been no indication that support of the beef steer prices is contemplated. Yesterday's market for canners and cutters advanced 10 to 15 cents as a result of federal buying.

FORWARDERS OF FREIGHT TAKE UP CODE TROUBLES

Differences and difficulties following adoption of a code of fair competition, especially with reference to rates and terminal charges for car loaders, were discussed at the Stevens hotel yesterday by a group of 30 representatives of the Domestic Freight Forwarding association.

The meeting was held behind closed doors but a spokesman for the group said complete agreement was not expected and that further conferences would be necessary to reach an accord.

Representatives of a dozen companies, inside and outside the organization, attended the gathering, including the "big four"—Universal Carloading and Distributing company, National Carloading company, Acme Fast Freight, and the International Forwarding company.

Because of the varied types of transportation utilized by forwarding companies—railroads, trucks, merchant marine, barges, etc.—solution of difference presents a complex problem, it was said.

HOG MARKET HELPS LARD BUYING; BELLIES HIGHER

Buying of lard and bellies was stimulated somewhat yesterday by the advance in hog prices. The close was at net gains of 7½ cents on old January and 5 cents on old May lard, but other deliveries were unchanged. Packers were active in changing from nearby to distant months and did some hedging.

Cash lard prices were firm and unchanged at 5.40 cents for regular, 4.65 cents for loose, and 4.62½ cents for leaf. Liverpool lard was unchanged for spot and 3d to 4d lower on futures.

Export clearances of lard from New York on Thursday were 186,900 pounds. Bellies were in better request and advanced 10 cents on new January and 2½ cents on old May, while new May gained 7½ cents. Prices:

SILVER FUTURES

Silver futures developed a reactionary tendency in New York yesterday, closing .50 to .63 cent lower, with sales of 4,450,000 ounces. Washington developments were again a factor, and one report indicated the administration believed it would take an international agreement before bimetallism could succeed. Bar silver was ⅝c higher at 44½c January closed at 44.2c; March, 44.75c; May, 45.21@45.30c; July, 45.79c; Sept., 46.38c, and Dec., 47.14c.

FARMS RECEIVE LESS FOR CROPS, BUT PAY MORE FOR SUPPLIES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—A decline of three points in the index of prices farmers received for their products and an advance of one point in prices they paid were announced today by the bureau of agricultural economics.

The farm price index on Dec. 15 was 68, compared with 71 on Nov. 15 and 49 for February, the low point of the year. The index of prices paid by farmers was 118, compared with 117 on Nov. 15 and 100 as the bottom in March.

Prices of wheat, rye, barley, flax, hogs, cattle, calves, lambs, and dairy and poultry products declined, while prices of corn, fruits, vegetables, work animals, sheep, and wool advanced.

CHERRY-BURRELL NETS PROFIT BY NEW ECONOMIES

Although sales of the Cherry-Burrell corporation for the year ended Oct. 31, 1933, were slightly less than for the preceding year, economies in manufacturing, marketing, and administration enabled the company to close the year with a net income of $149,699, compared with a loss of $135,206 for the preceding period, W. L. Cherry, president, announced yesterday.

"Present indications are that our business for the current year should run considerably heavier in sales and consequent gross profits than during the year just ended," Mr. Cherry said.

Current assets on Oct. 31, 1933, totaled $4,856,032, against $4,425,592 on the same date in 1932. Total current liabilities were $444,051, against $265,246. The change in the ratio of current liabilities to current assets is "largely due to increases in accrued pay roll, larger inventories and a larger income tax accrual resulting from increased earnings," Mr. Cherry explained.

JOHN MORRELL COMPANY SHOWS HIGHER EARNINGS

John Morrell & Co., Inc., meat packers, reported yesterday for the fiscal year ended Oct. 28, 1933, consolidated net earnings of $1,409,095, equivalent to $3.60 a share on 390,960 common shares outstanding. For the preceding fiscal year the company reported a profit of $420,101, or $1.08 a share, on 386,150 common shares outstanding.

Neither the company nor any of its subsidiaries has any funded debt or preferred stock outstanding. The company closed its year with no notes payable and with cash on hand of $1,923,607. Current assets totaled $11,135,354, against current liabilities of $2,156,996.

COTTON TRADE UNSETTLED; LIGHT LOSSES RECORDED

Cotton trading was light and spasmodic. Good buying at the start advanced prices 4 to 5 cents. Then came selling which more than wiped out the early gains. On the break offerings were well absorbed.

Reports from the dry goods trade were more encouraging to holders. It was said that a plan is under way to place a tax on the gains.

At the close futures in Chicago were off 4 to 7 points, and in other markets 5 to 11 points, New Orleans being the weakest. Spots at the latter point dropped 10 points to 10.40 cents; New York lost 10 points to 10.55 cents, Houston 10 points to 10.35 cents, and Galveston 10 points to 10.40 cents.

Spinners' takings for the week were 261,000 bales, compared with 250,000 bales for the previous week. The into sight movement for the week being 178,000 bales, compared with 232,000 bales for the previous week. Prices:

HOGS ADVANCE 10 TO 25 CENTS IN ACTIVE TRADING

Lighter receipts, colder weather, reports of snowstorms in the west and government buying were the supporting factors in yesterday's active and 10 to 25 cents higher market for hogs. All interests were aggressive purchasers of the good grades which were not fully up to the requirements of federal buyers and shippers.

The most advance was found in the best grades of hogs weighing 210 pounds and under, which had the support of the government. Packing houses both at Chicago and in the east who deal almost exclusively in the lighter weight hogs which federal buyers are supporting, encountered a good deal of difficulty in obtaining enough of the right kinds for their regular pork trade, and many orders for the 160 to 210 pound averages went over unfilled.

Unable to Fill U. S. Orders.

Several of the packing houses reported yesterday afternoon that they had been unable to fill all their government orders, but said there had been no instructions to fill out today. According to the contracts, the packer is to work on the government order only five days a week, and must obtain the specific number of hogs, or less. Nine packers obtained for the government about 4,200 head, mostly 160 to 210 pound averages within a range of $3.65 to $3.75. Order buyers and city butchers also were forced up to the top figure, but medium and weighty "house" hogs were sold largely at $3.45 to $3.60.

The range of prices was widest for a Friday in five weeks. The general average for the day, including government hogs, advanced 15 cents to $3.50.

Cattle Steady to 15 Cents Higher.

The classes of cattle getting the support of the government here yesterday advanced 10 to 15 cents, while others held steady to strong. Supplies were light and not many of the Chicago buying orders were filled. The government was buying canners and cutters at $1.75 to $2.40 and some on the beef order higher.

Beef steers sold largely at $4.25 to $5.40, with 1,211 pound steers at the $6.25 top. Nothing fancy enough to test the $7.00 top quotations carried by the trade in the yearling column arrived in yesterday's receipts. Calf prices recovered 25 cents of their recent losses, but they still are $1.50 to $1.75 under the recent high point.

Additional sharp advances were registered in lambs yesterday. The top sales of wooled lambs soared to $8.25, a new three year high mark for January. Packers and shippers were paying this price late in the day and bought the bulk of wooled stock earlier around $8.00.

Lambs without fleece were sold at 25 cents advance, a string of 1,100 reaching $6.50. Matured stock held firm at recent advance, with top old ewes at $4.00 and yearling ewes at $5.50.

JANUARY EGGS DECLINE ONE CENT; BUTTER STRONG

Heavy liquidation developed in January eggs yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, and prices showed a net loss of 3120 per car for the day. Other deliveries were unchanged to ½c lower. Butter closed unchanged to ½c higher.

January eggs opened firm and advanced to 16c, the highest price since late in November, but profit taking started and the market slipped back. Selling pressure suddenly increased toward the close and the market fell back swiftly, closing at the bottom with a loss of 1c. The early strength was due largely to higher prices in the cash market and a movement of eggs out of storage totaling 40,000 cases.

Butter was firm, due to better support. Withdrawals from storage totaled over 1,000,000 lbs, or 800,000 lbs more than last year. The good reduction in the surplus proved encouraging, although holdings continue several times the year ago supplies.
